Mullaley Job Still Vacant

No Action Taken Towards Naming Postmaster For Sedalia Office

No action has been taken as yet, to appoint an acting postmaster for the Sedalia post office, to serve, pending the appointing of a permanent postmaster to fill the vacancy created by the death of Edward P. Mullaley on April 4. Mr. Mullaley had served as Sedalia's postmaster for the past fifteen years.

Guy L. Johnston, 1221 East Seventh street, who has been employed at the Sedalia post office for 36 years, and has been assistant postmaster for the past two years, said the post office duties in Sedalia are being carried on in the same manner, as if Mr. Mullaley was still in charge. He said they were still working under Mr. Mullaley's bond, and this procedure will continue until officials in Washington, D.C., take some action in the matter.

Usually, it is understood, a temporary postmaster is first appointed through the recommendations of a district Congressman, who now happens to be George H. Christopher of Amoret. The temporary postmaster carries on the duties until a permanent postmaster is appointed by the president of the United States.

A Civil Service Job

Although a permanent postmaster's job is a civil service one, it is considered more of a political job. Candidates for the permanent postmastership are usually those with the same party affiliation as the president of the United States and the Congressman of his district.

Before being appointed as permanent postmaster, the candidate is required to take a civil service examination, given by the secretary of the civil service board. The civil service board then certifies the three top candidates taking the test, and the Congressman makes his recommendation to the president.

No Date Set

It is not yet known when the examinations will be given, or whether they will be open examinations, set for a certain day, or if the applicants will be screened by the Congressman to take the test.

Local citizens who have been mentioned for the office are: Emmett Sullivan, Frank T. Armstrong, Stanton Hudson, Frank Monroe, Guy L. Johnston, Emery L. Ellsworth, and D. Kelly Scruton.

Rainmaker Is Successful

NEW YORK, April 14.—(P)—The weather experts say it probably is just a coincidence, but here's what happened:

New York City's rainmaker made his first try at tipping over the clouds yesterday, and today, they were spilling snow and rain all over the northeast from New York City to Portland, Me.

"I wouldn't say definitely that he had nothing to do with it," said a weather bureau spokesman, "but I doubt it."

The spokesman conceded, however, that it was a little odd for snow to be falling in the middle of springtime. Today's temperatures also were abnormal—25.2 degrees at dawn—a record low for the date.

The weather expert said that the storm formed off the middle Atlantic coast early yesterday—several hundred miles east of the cloud-testing tests—and that the storm now centered over the Massachusetts coastal region. It's moving slowly southward, he added.

"I wouldn't say the cloud-seeding had no effect on the particular snow in New York," the spokesman said. "But it is most improbable that it affected the general storm system."

Protest Raise in Rates

JEFFERSON CITY, April 14.—(P)—Two more newspapers have asked the Missouri Public Service Commission for permission to add their protests to a proposed increase in railroad rates for hauling newspapers.

Latest to intervene in the case, which is set for hearing next Tuesday, are the publishers of the St. Louis Post-Dispatch and St. Louis Globe Democrat. The Kansas City Star entered a protest previously.

New Lights For Two Sedalia Baseball Parks

Specifications According to Engineers' Survey

Sedalia's baseball park at Liberty park and the softball park at Fifteenth street and Center avenue, will be illuminated this year under a new system of lighting. The Sedalia Park Board has awarded the contract for installing additional new lights at Liberty Park and the installation of lights at the softball park, to be completed within the next few weeks.

The Queen City Electric Co. was the successful bidder on the two projects. According to the board, practically all of the bids were less than the board had anticipated it would cost to revamp the Liberty Park field and to light the Southeast Sedalia ball park. The contract was signed today.

Local citizens who have been mentioned for the office are: Emmett Sullivan, Frank T. Armstrong, Stanton Hudson, Frank Monroe, Guy L. Johnston, Emery L. Ellsworth, and D. Kelly Scruton.

Before asking for bids for lights the Park Board consulted with Noel T. Tweet, industrial engineer for the Missouri Public Service Co., who made a survey of several parks, and obtained information and specifications from engineers who specialize in this type of lighting. Specifications were submitted on which three electrical companies made bids, L. and G. Electric Co., James Electric Co. and the Queen City Electric Co.

Latest Design Reflectors

According to the specifications on the Liberty Park project, there will be forty-four reflectors of the latest design installed, in addition to all of the reflectors purchased about two years ago and a number of the original reflectors installed nearly eighteen years ago, which will be used. There will be a total of 100 reflectors using 1,500

Three Blind Sisters, Born of Blind Mother, See Objects

SAVANNAH, Ga., April 14.—(P)—Three little girls who came here sightless two weeks ago left seeing the wonderful world for the first time.

The Hall sisters of Asworth, Ga.,—Eloise, 14, Elaine, 10, and Faye, 7—all were born blind, with congenital cataracts. Their mother, also blind, has never seen her daughters.

Earth Tremor Felt

SEATTLE, April 14.—(P)—A slight earth tremor was felt in Seattle at approximately 3:05 a. m. today.

Switchboard operators at both Seattle newspapers and at the police station reported receiving numerous calls from anxious residents who said they had been routed from their sleep by the shaking of their beds.

The minor jar did no apparent damage.

Short on Rations

ARKANSAS CITY, Kas., April 14.—(P)—The city dog catcher faced a sudden problem of short rations today.

A dog was placed in the city pound in the afternoon. Next morning, there were eight.

Four Seized, 1,000 Cases of Whisky Found

KANSAS CITY, April 14.—(P)—Charles Carroll, a former north side political boss and ex-convict, and three other men were arrested today and more than 1,000 cases of whisky seized in a raid made by the Federal Alcohol Tax Unit.

The raid was led by E. N. Ahlfeldt, director of the alcohol tax unit and a personal friend of President Truman. He was assisted by a dozen agents. The raid was made at a two-story white frame house at 519 Tracy, a mile from the Truman Road political clubroom where Charles Binaggio, northside political boss was slain a week ago.

Ahlfeldt said he and his men seized 1,053 cases of liquor which had no federal wholesale dealers tax stamp affixed.

Seized Motor Vehicles

They also seized three cars and a truck on which whiskey was loaded.

Carroll succeeded John Lazia as northside Democratic boss after the latter was slain in a spot murder in 1933. Carroll in turn was succeeded by Binaggio when Carroll was sent to the penitentiary for income tax evasion.

Three others arrested with Carroll were Mike Arnone, Carroll's son-in-law; Tony Marcella and Sam Torice.

Carroll and Marcella were in the kitchen when the federal men closed in on the house at 12:50 p. m.

Queer Animal Seen, Heard Near Sedalia

Makes Lots of Hair-Raising Noise, Farmers Declare

A strange animal, which has roamed around the Walnut Grove vicinity, about nine miles northwest of Sedalia, for the past three years, was nearly captured last Tuesday night.

All the neighbors in that area, who live fairly close to a bluff, timberland and Muddy Creek, haven't definitely agreed upon what kind of an animal it is, but they all are sure of one thing, it makes lots of noise, that hair-raising type of noise, as one farmer explained it. He went on further to say, the noise sounded like a panther or a woman screaming.

Clyde Shull, Sedalia, route 3, who hasn't seen the animal lately, but has seen it twice in the past three years, thinks it might be a wildcat, and also believes there is another type wild animal which hides out in the timber land along the creek and around a big bluff.

Shull's Description

The description Shull gave of the animal was, built like a bobcat, but unlike the bobcat, it had a long tail, shorter legs, and a pointed head. He said it was burnt brown in color and he imagined it weighs fifty pounds. He said the animal had long whiskers coming out from each side of its face, about four or five inches long.

Ralph H. Mosby, Sedalia, route 3, also is under the belief that there are two different type beasts running wild in that neighborhood. He said his son, Walter, shot nine or ten times at a wild beast last Tuesday night with an automatic rifle, but evidently had missed the animal, which had come up close to the barn that night, making a screaming noise. Mosby said he and his wife were in Sedalia that night.

Ran Into Oat Field

Mosby quoted his son as saying after he shot at the animal, it ran into the edge of an oat field into some buck brush. He related the son said the animal didn't seem to be afraid of him. The boy did not obtain a description of the animal, due to the darkness. He also did not feel like going into the brush after the beast.

Mosby said he has heard the wild screaming noise three times this spring, and has seen some type wild animal twice. The first time he saw it was when he took his boy to school one morning last winter and as the boy stepped out of the car, the animal jumped from a ditch, and ran off about a 100 yards, and then turned around and looked at them momentarily. He gave a description of the animal as being yellow and was the size of a shepherd dog. Mosby said he believed one to be a panther, and the other a bobcat, because one screamed a lot and the other didn't.

Missed Little Pigs

He said the farmers in that neighborhood have often missed little pigs. Mosby said the dogs have often chased the wild beast, but the dogs didn't seem to have much luck in capturing the animal.

Other farmers in that vicinity who have heard the strange noises the unknown animal has made through all hours of the night are: Charlie Snow, Junior Riley and Howard Paige.

Called Dentist to Fix Washing Machine

LA GRANGE, Ind., April 14.—(P)—When K. V. Mellinger has tooth trouble, he naturally thinks of a dentist.

He couldn't see that it made much difference that the cavities happened to be in the teeth of a gear, throwing off the timing of his automatic washing machine.

It didn't make any difference to Dr. James K. Duff, veteran La Grange dentist, either. He went to work with the same plastic material he uses to fill patients' teeth.

Mellinger said his washer works fine now.

School Closes, Only Two Pupils

MILL SPRING, Mo., April 14.—(P)—A year's perfect attendance record for the entire student body of Mill Creek school near here was marked up when the school term closed this week, it became known today.

Not only that but Roy Graham graduated from the seventh grade and his sister, Phyllis, graduated from the fifth. They are children of Mr. and Mrs. Matt Graham and only pupils in the school.

Except for one year when they were transferred to Williamsville each has been in a class alone.

Next year the outlook is for doubled enrollment. Another family has moved into the community. The teacher is Miss Marie Hess. Incidentally she boarded with the Graham family.

Ottumwa, Iowa Pupils May Not Get Diplomas

School Board Contends They do Not Know English

OTTUMWA, Ia., April 14.—(P)—Because they don't know their English grammar as well as they should, 21 Ottumwa high school seniors probably won't get diplomas this spring.

What's more, it's the school board that laid down the requirement.

It all started when the school board sent representatives to ask Ottumwa graduates now attending college if their high school learning had served them in good stead.

"We just don't know our English," the students reported.

When Supt. Frank W. Douma reported these findings to the school board, the board members nodded and remarked: "Just what we've been suspecting all along."

Then Came Order

Then came the order at mid-year to drill the high school juniors and seniors in the English language—on basic 8th and 9th grade grammar.

Douma reported to the board this week on results. He said 21 of the approximately 400 seniors probably were going to fail in English and would not graduate.

Douma asked the board if it wanted to relax the rule on behalf of those hapless students caught in the iron-jawed trap of syntax.

"No," chorused the board. "Eight graders should be able to pass this work."

Need Basic English

"It just goes to show how badly they need this basic English," Board President Gerald W. Loerke asserted.

Douma suggested to board members that they may be hearing from parents of the young hopefuls who won't get sheepskins. But the board said it would be shirking its duty if it turned students into the world without a good knowledge of basic grammar.

Some parents are tutoring their offspring at home in an effort to boost them over the language barrier.

Dead Man May Be Missourian

HARDIN, Mo., April 14.—(P)—A man named John J. Shackelford, 87, has died in Denver, leaving $28,500, and there is some indication he was the Shackelford who lived here 30 years ago.

Relatives in Missouri had not heard from him for many years. Miss Hattie A. Shackelford, 90, the closest relative, now is an invalid in a nursing home at Excelsior Springs. She said she last heard from her brother many years ago.

Two nephews, Harvey and Alvin Donaldson of Carrollton, said they had not heard a word from their uncle for so long they had presumed he was dead.

C. O. Mansor, who has been caring for Miss Shackelford's property here, said her brother, a farmer, left 30 years ago declaring he was "never coming back."

Although the man in Denver apparently lived in poverty, public administrators found $28,100 in government bonds and $400 cash in his safety deposit box.

The only clue to his past was a card issued to him by the Hardin Masonic lodge in 1914.

Snow in New York

NEW YORK, April 14.—(P)—New York City's weather, defying the seasons for the second day in a row, today served up nosediving temperatures and snow at breakfast time.

The mercury hit a record low for the date of 25.2 degrees at 6:45 a. m. (EST), while snow swirled over Manhattan for the second successive morning. The previous April 14 low mark was 28.3 degrees in 1940.

Dewey Tells of Differences In The Parties

Charges Some Republicans Show Selfishness

By Leonard Ledington

PRINCETON, N.J., April 14.—(P)—Thomas E. Dewey put himself on the far side of the fence today away from any of the Republican party's super-conservative side.

The New York governor said his party's record already had been blemished by individuals whom he accused of hiding selfish motives behind a constant clamor for "free enterprise."

Dewey, who foresaw the role of a defeated presidential candidate for that of a Republican elder statesman, concluded his Princeton University lecture series last night with some annoyed reproach of the "free enterprise" pleaders.

Dewey said the Republicans made up the party of individual freedom as opposed to the Democratic party of big government. But he said the cause of individual freedom had not always been supported unselfishly by some Republicans.

Thinking of Own Interests

"When such men have shouted about 'free enterprises' they have not meant 'free enterprise' at all—they have been thinking of their own narrow interests," the titular head of the Republican party told a university audience of some 1,000.

"From time to time, individual, unrepresentative members of my party, seldom holding public office, have presumed to regard the rights of labor as inferior to the rights of property," Dewey said.

But he insisted that "no Republican president—from Abraham Lincoln to Herbert Hoover—ever endorsed so reactionary a position." He said the GOP could boast today of a long tradition of support of the rights of free labor.

Dewey's talk was scheduled as an academic analysis of the domestic policies of the country's two major political parties, and he was as ruthless with his own as he was with the opposition.

The Difference

He said the choice was between the Democratic party of big government and the Republican way of local rule and individual freedom. "Naturally," he said, "I prefer the Republican approach."

Dewey said the Democrats had more than their share of the faults. Basically, he said, it was because they believed that only the federal government could solve the peoples' problems and only with federal funds, federal personnel and federal controls.

Dewey said the Republicans agreed with the Democrats on the need for numerous basic services that a government should provide for its people.

"I doubt if the most conservative Republican would suggest abandonment of such concepts as unemployment insurance, collective bargaining, bank deposit insurance, regulation of security exchanges and old age and survivors insurance," he said.

Approaches Different

But the difference between the two parties, he said, lay in their respective approach to the solution of the assorted problems. "There are many routes to each objective," Dewey said. "The true liberal will seek every good social objective by the safer route, even though it may be harder or slower."

Dewey said the Republicans agreed that government should have a part in supporting agriculture and guiding labor. But he was firmly opposed to any government plan for compulsory health insurance. He spent almost a third of his 80-minute talk assailing socialized medicine as a financial and medical impossibility.

Enumerators Have Problems

BOONVILLE, Mo., April 14.—(P)—Howard county census enumerators are meeting with extremes of cooperation.

At one home a dog tore off a census taker's pants, but didn't bite him.

At another the housewife at first refused admittance, saying she didn't want "to buy anything."

When the census man explained the woman said she hadn't heard about the national nose counting, but she was cooperative in answering the questions.

As the census taker turned to leave, she asked: "And now what do I owe you?"

Balanced Plan May Change

To Meet Defense Needs of North Atlantic, Opinion Of Gen. Bradley

CHICAGO, April 14.—(P)—Gen. Omar Bradley said today the United States may have to drop its theory of a balanced Army, Navy and Air Force to meet the defense needs of the North Atlantic area.

The chairman of the U. S. joint chiefs of staff indicated that the army might come off third best under such an arrangement. He also observed that by placing American defense plans second to those of the whole western world "a small bit of sovereignty is relinquished."

It would be well worth while, he said.

In an address prepared for the executive club, the former chief of staff of the army reviewed the accomplishments of the recent Hague conference of Atlantic Pact defense chiefs.

Significant Suggestion

A spokesman for a small nation, Bradley said, first raised the question of sovereignty, and thus made "the most significant suggestion" of the conference. He didn't identify the nation.

Bradley said the suggestion involved the possibility of a central body within the framework of the Atlantic treaty, to call signals on the "rate and extent" by which the armed forces of each member nation must be expanded. He didn't say what action was taken on the proposal, but commented: "Just as the spokesman for that small nation indicated, as these defensive plans develop, traditions will have to give way to reality."

"And even our own balance of United States Forces—if we expand beyond the present levels—may have to give way to the theory of national specialization, which will fit into an overall balance for collective defense."

Might Require More Strength

"For example, the North Atlantic Treaty defensive plans might require from us a greater air force, or a greater navy, than we ourselves might be willing to provide."

"With such an arrangement, of course, a small bit of sovereignty is relinquished."

Bradley disclosed that the pact defense chiefs have drawn up general estimates of the forces needed to "hold the common frontiers in the heart of Europe" and to keep open supply lines linking the western allies.

These plans, he said, "need not change" the balance or cost of U. S. military forces this year.

But thereafter, he added, the United States must carefully consider "what our friends can best contribute before we decide what the American dollar should buy for the collective defense."

Bradley said the other members of the alliance realize "they must not wait for the United States to carry the load and pay the bill."

Woman, Babies Die in Fire

ST. LOUIS, April 14.—(P)—An early morning fire swept through a three-story brick building today just south of the business district, killing a woman and her two babies.

At least two other persons were seriously hurt.

Police identified the dead as Mrs. Katherine Anderson and her two children, Howard Eugene, 2, and Linda Sue, 6 months old. The husband, Marvin Anderson, suffered serious burns on his hand, arms and back in a futile rescue attempt.

Geneva Skiles, 16, was injured in a leap from the third floor of the building. One other person was released after treatment at a hospital.

Police said the fire apparently started from a coal oil stove in the Anderson apartment, on the third floor. About 15 families lived in the two upper stories of the building. The first floor, which had been used for stores, was vacant.

Firemen brought the blaze under control about 6 a. m., an hour after the first alarm was sounded.

Mother, 53, Has First Baby

WARREN, O., April 14.—(P)—After hiding from newsmen and photographers for four months, Mrs. Clarence B. Lenney, 53, reluctantly called a press conference the other day to announce that she and her 65-year-old husband have their first baby.

MACKENZIE'S COLUMN

By Dewitt Mackenzie
AP Foreign Affairs Analyst

What an amazing drama that was which the people of Istanbul staged yesterday at the state funeral of Turkey's military hero, Marshal Fawzi Cakmak!

As the Marsh's casket was being carried from the Beyazit Veyazit Mosque to the waiting gun-carriage after the service, a group of citizens seized the coffin and hoisted it to their shoulders. Then they bore it ten miles to the cemetery at the head of a procession of 50,000 through streets lined with hundreds of thousands more. As they marched away they shouted:

"He came from the people! He belongs to the people, and the people will bury him!"

Turks Are Emotional

To understand such a demonstration you must know the Turk. He feels deeply and registers his emotions strongly. I saw an exhibition of this in '38 in Istanbul at the time of the death of the great Kemal Ataturk, father of modern Turkey. Everywhere, in offices and on the streets, men wept openly.

Marshal Cakmak was one of Ataturk's right-hand men. Among the triumphs associated with Cakmak's name was the successful defense of the Dardanelles and Gallipoli in the first world war. He played a major part in that Turkish victory which had such a tremendous effect on the course of the war.

Cakmak's passing will be a sharp reminder of that fateful campaign to all the living military greats and statesmen who were involved. It has been one of the most bitterly disputed military operations of history, but the consensus of experts is that if the Allied plan had succeeded, it would have ended the war two years sooner than the actual conclusion.

Churchill's Brain Child

The Dardanelles project was the brain child of Winston Churchill, and there have been two schools of thought about it. One has maintained that the project wasn't feasible and the other has insisted that it was feasible but was fumbled badly by those who were entrusted with its execution.

Probably that argument never will be settled, but I ran into an interesting sidelight not long after the Allies abandoned the campaign. This was a disclosure by the late Captain George A. Schreiner, newspaperman and author, who was AP war correspondent with the Turkish forces defending the Dardanelles.

Schreiner's career was a colorful one. He had been aide-de-camp to the famous Oom Paul Kruger, president of the Transvaal republic, during the Boer war. He was with Villa in Mexico, and had pursued adventure in many other places. So it wasn't strange that he should be with Marshal Cakmak's forces at the Dardanelles.

Given Up As Failure

The Allied naval attack by British and French warships was given up as a failure on March 18, 1915. Captain Schreiner told me that shortly before the fleet withdrew this day a Turkish officer came to him and said:

"Pack up your stuff, Schreiner, and get ready to move. We can't hold out against this bombardment any longer. We are going to withdraw immediately."

So Schreiner packed, and the defenders were all set to retreat when the Allied warships ceased

Liberty 4-H Club Meeting

The first meeting of the Liberty 4-H club was held at the Liberty school on April 10. The club was organized on March 13, 1950.

The meeting was called to order by the president Charles Green. Six members, three leaders and nine visitors were in attendance.

Miss Lillian Watkins and Bryan Phifer of the county extension office, assisted in filling out the year books for the club. They decided to observe 4-H club Sunday, May 21, by attending church in a group.

Mrs. Zona Green was appointed leader for the girls and Guy Abney as leader for boys.

Mr. Phifer led the group in playing games, afterward refreshments of cookies being served.

The next meeting will be held May 10 at 8:00 p. m. at the school house. Wayne Green will give a demonstration on grooming and Judy Campbell will give a talk on health.

Arrest Three in Gambling Raid

KANSAS CITY, April 14—(P)—Police arrested three men on gambling charges in a raid on a second-floor room on west Twelfth street Thursday.

Capt. Lester W. Kircher said some stacks of fresh racing forms, a telephone and a dozen chairs were found in the room. Kircher said the telephone was listed under the name of a non-existent toy manufacturing firm.

Jerry Lasker, 46, was charged with possession of gambling equipment and keeping a gambling game. Mike School, 43, and Willard Olds, 67, were charged with frequenting a gambling game.

It was the second arrest in seven months for Lasker on the same charges. He was released under $100 cash bond, and the other two men under $25 bond each.

Widow States Binaggio Kindly

KANSAS CITY, April 14—(P)—Charlie Binaggio, slain northside boss, was a soft-hearted man who embroidered his baby's clothes, his widow Thursday.

She told police she knew no reason why anyone would want to kill the "kindhearted man who was a soft touch for anyone in need."

Binaggio and Charles Gargotta, a mobster with a long police record, were slain in a Democratic political club on Truman road a week ago.

Police tried with little success today to get a lead from Mrs. Binaggio.

Mrs. Binaggio said that when her husband left home about 7:30 o'clock he told her he was "just going down on the boulevard for a while," and gave no sign of worry.

"He wasn't afraid of anything," she said. "This talk about his having been given a death warrant somewhere around St. Louis—that's ridiculous."

She said Binaggio never had any dealings with Frank Costello of New York, alleged underworld boss.

"He told me he wouldn't know Costello if he saw him," the attractive, 28-year-old widow added.

Mrs. Binaggio described her husband as gentle, kind, and one who had "done nothing but good in all the 41 years of his life. It's about time he received some credit for the good things he did."

He was a devoted father to their child, Anita, 7, who "will always remember him as absolute tops, regardless of what other people say," Mrs. Binaggio continued. She said her husband liked to embroider and work in his basement workshop and garden. He embroidered the baby clothes for Anita, she said.

Mrs. Binaggio said she had urged him for a long time to get out of "his business."

"Then he told me he was quitting. In a few more days he would have quit and gone away with me, just gypsy style with no definite idea of where we were going."

She said she could not understand why he was killed.

"I hit a blank wall every time I think about who could have done it," she added.

Meter Boxes Key Missing Also Coins From Boxes

OKLAHOMA CITY, April 14—(P)—Someone has a key to the city and officials don't like what it's opening.

City collector D. R. Johnson lost the key to the parking meter coin boxes yesterday. When he made his rounds today using duplicates, all the coin boxes were empty.

Traffic engineer Owen Smith said the parking meter locks will be changed unless the key is found.

Crowds Attend Crusade at Baptist Church

The services of the Evangelistic Crusade being held at the First Baptist church are growing in interest and attendance from day to day. The preaching being done by Dr. McKinley Norman, the congregational singing led by Carl Yessen and the special numbers of music being rendered, are all of a high order and are being deeply appreciated by the large numbers of people present.

The services will continue next week, closing Sunday evening, April 23. The day services are being held at 9:30 a. m. Tuesday through Friday, and the evening services at 7:30 throughout the week. It is expected that all of these hours of worship will draw increasing numbers of people until the closing day. The two Sundays of the meeting are expected to be high days with an unusual attendance in Sunday school, Training Union and worship services.

Program for Next Week

The evangelist, Dr. Norman, has outlined a program for the day services next week which calls for the cooperation of all members of the Sunday school and other groups in the church. The evening services will give special emphasis to individual groups as follows: Monday, Family night; Tuesday, Women's Missionary Society; Wednesday, Sunday school; Thursday, Men of the church; Friday, Baptist Training Union and Saturday, Youth Rally.

The First Baptist church is one of nine churches in Pettis county participating in the Evangelistic Crusade. The other eight churches are: East Sedalia and Calvary in the city, Hughesville, Green Ridge, Camp Branch, Memorial, Dresden and Walnut Branch.

Magnolia Blossoms Nipped in the Bud

The magnolia trees that were in full bloom over the city the first part of the week in their springtime dress of pink tulip shaped flowers by the hundreds were a sorry sight Thursday.

Wednesday night, when the temperature went to a low of 22 degrees, the delicate pink flowers were nipped and became crumpled looking and a deep bronze shade similar to the dead leaves that fall from maples in the autumn. Instead of trees filled with fresh pink blossoms there are now trees of dead bronze colored blossoms.

Gifts Ready for New Bishop

The Women's Auxiliary of the Diocese of West Missouri will present the Very Rev. Mr. Edward Randolph Welles with a gift of vestments following his elevation to bishop at consecration rites on Wednesday, April 19, at Grace and Holy Trinity Cathedral in Kansas City.

The vestments were purchased from pledges so that any woman who had any part in a parish organization throughout the diocese might feel that she played a personal part in the presentation.

Following his consecration as bishop, the Very Rev. Mr. Welles will be given the Episcopal ring that his grandfather, the first Edward Randolph Welles, wore at his consecration as bishop of Wisconsin in 1874. The ring which comes from grandfather to grandson was given originally to the Wisconsin bishop by his brother, Samuel Russell Welles, M. D.

The ring presentation to the new bishop of West Missouri will be made by his only brother, Samuel Gardner Welles, associate editor of TIME magazine. Mr. Welles lives with his mother at Buttonwood Farm, Crosswicks, N. J. The pastoral staff to be used by the new bishop was once the property of the first bishop of West Missouri, the late Rt. Rev. Edward Robert Atwill.

The acting chairman of layman's work in the diocese, Mr. Laurence Stales, will present a new pectoral cross of the Very Rev. Mr. Welles at the time of his vesting. The gift will be made in behalf of the laymen of the diocese.

Bridal Party Clothes Shown At Flower's Style Show

More than a hundred persons attended the style show at Flower's Thursday night at which were modeled a bride's complete trousseau, as well as clothes for her mother for various occasions and the bridal costumes of the bridesmaid and flower girl worn at the wedding.

Starting with a selection of things that a bride will need, that will make her a complete wardrobe at any time, were shown travel clothes, suits and blouses that can be worn together or separately, regular play clothes and dresses that will do for street wear or parties later.

Usable clothes were stressed and the wedding was planned to show at what a small cost a beautiful formal wedding may be planned. Weddings may be reasonable or just as expensive as the bride cares to have them and all clothes modeled were from the complete line of clothes that may be found in the bridal room at Flower's. In addition to the dresses and traveling clothes in the bride's trousseau were also undies of satin and lace, a white satin gown trimmed with chanelly lace as well as a blue tulle negligee. The dresses included those for the rehearsal dinner and announcement party.

Bridal Procession

The bridal procession concluded the style show with Mrs. Leo Eickhoff as the bride's mother, in an aqua dress with dyed to match aqua lace.

Pamela Metcalf, five year old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John Metcalf, was flower girl and wore a full length dress of white satin with nylon net and rucking. She carried spring violets and wore violets in her hair.

Miss Gene Sullivan, as bridesmaid, wore a lilac taffeta dress, full length with a halo hat of lilac horsehair net. She carried purple violets, centered with a pale pink rose and tied with purple velvet ribbon. The bridal gown was worn by Miss Virginia Berry. The traditional white satin gown was fashioned fitted bodice, and full skirt which lengthened into a train. The waist, buttoned down the front with white satin buttons, had a small simple collar and the sleeves were finger-tip length and fell from a satin bonnet. She carried a white prayer book to which were attached lilies of the valley and lilac satin ribbon.

• The Washington Merry-Go-Round Oil For Lamps of China to Run Low

By Drew Pearson

WASHINGTON.—The American embassy in Moscow has cabled that a giant Soviet bureau has been set up to find oil for the Russian war machine.

Oil fields in the Russian caucuses have started to run dry, and the Russian general staff is frantically trying to develop new sources. This is one of the most important developments in the cold war because, without oil, the Russian war machine would be paralyzed.

As a result, Molotov has rushed hundreds of Russian geologists to Sinkiang province in Communist China to look for oil, and has ordered urgent priorities for drilling in Kirghizia, in central Asia and on Sakhalin island.

British Diplomacy Boomerangs
U.S. Ambassador Douglas in London has cabled the sensational though confidential news that the British may cancel their recognition of the Chinese Communists.

Foreign Minister Bevin, he says, is burned up because three months have passed and the Chinese Communists haven't even bothered to acknowledge Britain's announcement of recognition.

That announcement is now considered one of Britain's worst diplomatic boners, causing her to lose prestige throughout the world. Furthermore, instead of making it easier to protect Britain's $2,000,000,000 investment in Hong Kong, it has boomeranged. The Chinese Communists have let it be known that, before even accepting British recognition, they want to reopen the Sino-British treaty which gave Hong Kong to Britain. They also demand British support for a seat on the U.N. Security Council.

Congressmen Play Hooky
One measure of a Congressman's worth to his constituents is the number of times he sticks around to vote.

The public doesn't realize it, but absenteeism has now become a congressional racket in Congress. Too many Congressmen, especially from eastern states, spend their time week-ending instead of earning their $15,000-a-year salaries in Washington.

The practice has become so flagrant that certain big lobbies have arranged to have crucial votes taken on week-ends to take advantage of the absence of these "homing pigeons." Recently, for instance, Speaker Sam Rayburn and his friends in the gas lobby carefully scheduled the Kerr gas bill vote on a Friday night because its big-city foes were week-ending in New York and Chicago.

As a result, the natural gas lobby squeezed its bill through the House by a close vote of 176 to 174, thereby sure to raise gas rates to housewives in the same big cities where the Congressmen were week-ending.

The practice has become so bad that the Merry-Go-Round plans to expose the worst offenders. First, let's call the roll of those who don't answer roll calls among the House Republicans:

The "I T and T" Club

Most noted members of the "I T and T" club (in Tuesday and out Thursday) are staunch Republican Representatives Kingshead Macy of Long Island and Frederic Coudert of New York City. Out of a total of 342 quorum and roll calls in this Congress, Macy has missed 203 and Coudert 202. In other words, these two Congressmen were absent almost 60 per cent of the time.

Representative Dean Taylor of Troy, another New York Republican, has the dubious distinction of being third on the list of GOP "hooky players." He missed a total of 190 out of 342 quorum and roll calls. Congressman Charles Plumley of Vermont is close behind, with 171 misses, while Richard Hoffman of Berwyn, Illinois, was absent 168 times out of 342.

The remainder of the 25 House Republicans with the worst attendance records in Congress are:

William L. Pfeiffer of Kenmore, N.Y., 159 absences (out of 342); Harry Towe of Rutherford, N.J., 154 absences; Paul Shafer of Battle Creek, Mich., 149; Cliff Clevenger of Bryan, Ohio, 132; Frank Fellows of Bangor, Maine, 131; Thurston Morton of Kentucky, 127; John Jennings of Knoxville, Tenn., 124; Hugh Scott of Philadelphia, 122; Leonard W. Hall of Oyster Bay, Long Island, 120.

Also, Gardner Withrow of La Crosse, Wis., 119; Ralph Gwinn of Bronxville, N.Y., 118; Charles Elston of Cincinnati, Ohio, 113; Dewey Short of Galena, Mo., 112; Edwin A. Hall of Birmingham, N.Y., 109; Sterling Cole of Bath, N.Y., 97; Chauncey Reed of West Chicago, Ill., 96; Clarence Kilburn of Malone, N.Y., 95; Noah Mason of Oglesby, Ill., 94; Carl Hinshaw of Pasadena, Calif., 93, and Charles Halleck of Rensselaer, Ind., 92.

An "absentee" roll call on House Democrats will follow shortly.

Capital News Capsules

DULLES MANEUVERING—Inside fact about the John Foster Dulles appointment as special adviser to Secretary of State Acheson is that Dulles flatly refused the post when first tendered by Acheson. He wanted something more important, so Acheson got Truman reluctantly to agree that Dulles later could be made assistant secretary of state, with a commitment that he would become undersecretary of state if able and popular James Webb should resign.

OLD ROOSEVELTIAN—Able undersecretary

of Defense Steve Early has arranged with the Pullman company, for whom he used to work, to remain in government for a limited period of time. When he leaves, the new Secretary of the Army, Frank Pace, will succeed him. Secretary of Defense Johnson wants his old American Legion buddy, Paul Griffith, to get the job, but Griffith is a Republican and doesn't rate with the White House.

CHURCHILL CHAFES—Winston Churchill is pressing hard for an early British election, but with no enthusiastic support from the Tories. Churchill knows his political days are numbered, wants to get back into the saddle as soon as possible. However, there is little sentiment in England—Tory or otherwise—for an immediate election, and it probably won't take place until the fall.

Bipartisan Group Might Probe Without Politics

By Bruce Blossat

Senator Lodge thinks the Senate's current inquiry into alleged Communists in the State Department is a poor way to promote loyalty among government workers. He proposed that a bipartisan commission be selected to take over the investigation.

According to Lodge, the probe inspired by Senator McCarthy is doing more harm than good as now conducted. Any inquiry on such a pattern, he said, besmirches innocent people, weakens the nation's standing before the world, fails to turn up the really dangerous individuals and may actually make their job easier by putting the spotlight on others.

This isn't the first time a private commission has been suggested to take over investigations begun by Congress. Similar proposals were made during the last year's probes of atomic energy security and the B-36 bomber procurement program.

This idea keeps cropping up because many fair-minded persons in and out of Congress deplore the fact that these inquiries seem inevitably to degenerate into bitter partisan squabbles in which truth gets lost in the shuffle.

The power of Congress to investigate is one of its most vital functions. Obviously laws can't be wisely drawn without a solid factual footing.

Yet this power is perhaps the most abused of all those enjoyed by the lawmakers. Too often the partisan members of congressional committees set out in pursuit, not of all the evidence, but of just those facts that will support the conclusions they have reached in advance.

Politics being what it is, perhaps this is unavoidable. If it is, then severe limits obviously must be placed on the value of congressional inquiries.

In that event, then there indeed seems to be wisdom in these repeated calls for independent, private commissions to study serious issues which plainly are difficult to thresh out in the rough and tumble of the political arena.

As Lodge's colleagues already have pointed out, it's undoubtedly too late to shift the present probe from Congress to an outside group but the next time it's necessary to dig into a problem as grave and as loaded with political dynamite as State Department security, the commission idea ought to be tried.

Some European defense experts think the United States ought to have virtually a permanent garrison of troops stationed in Western Europe. According to this proposal, our soldiers would be based for many years in Germany or France, or perhaps both countries.

The idea is said to be that American troops would provide leadership for Europe's defense forces and also would tend to calm French nerves in event the Germans take part in the western powers' defense arrangements.

Almost certainly there's another unspoken reason why this suggestion is being made. Western Europeans find themselves unable to forget this country's isolationist past. Despite the recovery program, the North Atlantic Treaty, foreign arms aid and the proposed "Point Four" plan for development of backward areas, Europe always has a lurking fear that we will again draw back into our shell.

The presence of U. S. troops on European soil would be the strongest possible assurance that we would be involved in any new conflict that might get started there. Any assault by the Soviet Union upon Western Germany or France would mean an attack on American soldiers. They would fight back, and so would the rest of us.

Consequently the U. S. uniform in Europe is a greater comfort to skeptical Europeans than this country's signature on any number of formal defense pacts. Alliances can be repudiated or ignored, but a nation seldom abandons its outpost forces to any enemy without a fight.

Yet even if Europe believed American isolationism quite dead and that our participation in a common defense was assured no matter where our soldiers were stationed, its statesmen undoubtedly would still look to us for military leadership.

Europe has no lack of manpower to pour into defense units. But Britain, France, Italy and the smaller nations no longer have the economic and financial resources to support huge land armies in the field. They are all hard put to keep on their feet without such expenditures. The very limited goal of 36 Atlantic Pact divisions by 1955 will be difficult to attain.

With Europe clearly looking to the U. S. for the economic sinews needed to beef up its defense forces, it is perhaps only natural that it turn to us also for the leadership those units require.

Whether we like it or not, the brutal facts of the postwar era have cast this country as the leader of the free nations both in the diplomatic sphere and in the realm of military defense. It does not seem likely we shall be able to escape playing this role to the hilt.

Call For a Relief Man

If the betting fraternity has the right hunch, the name of Joseph McCarthy will be much in the headlines all through the spring and summer.

But fortunately for the average American, whose capacity for boredom is surely not unlimited, it will probably not be Sen. Joseph McCarthy of Wisconsin. Luck good and the New York Yankees willing, it will be old Marse Joe, manager of the high-stepping Boston Red Sox.

BRINGING UP ANYTHING TOUCHY

1 John 1:5-10; 2:1-2

Since you have begun to bring up everything to the light you are ready for the second step: (2) Anything that appears touchy bring up gently, but decisively. Perhaps this sensitive spot is your difficulty. If so, segregate it, and see what is to be done about it. Don't push it down out of sight and try to forget it. That makes it work havoc at a deeper depth—in the subconscious mind. Perhaps your difficulty is hidden resentment, something you had pushed down into the subconscious mind and put the lid on. Now it is up, and you are looking at it frankly.

A farmer allowed one of his neighbor's calves to be merged into his own herd and sold with the rest. But every time he looked to God he could see nothing but that calf. Only when he confessed and restored did he find peace with himself and fellowship with God.

A young lady suspected that a hidden resentment against a minister for whom she had worked was the cause of her sense of a spiritual blank wall. She wrote a letter saying she was sorry for the resentments and kept it several days, hoping the mere writing of it would suffice. But the mind is a relentless thing—it won't say peace when there is no peace. Only when she had dropped the letter into the mailbox did peace and release come.

Don't do as a high-school girl of 14 recently did. She was intelligent and beautiful. She came to me and said, "I'm like that girl you spoke about—all inwardly empty; worse, I'm in a tangle. I've been kicked out of four high schools and about to be kicked out of the present one. Isn't it too late to do anything now?" Too late at 14! She had concocted new lies to cover up old ones, and life had gone on from tangle to worse tangle, until now the law was closing in on her for forgery of checks. She started to be frank and have me help her, then suddenly decided to run away literally—and did. She ran away from her surroundings, but not from herself.

Bring up everything that appears touchy. O God, when I begin to untangle my life, help me to go clear through with it. Help me to come clean; for compromise will only compromise my happiness, and any pulling back will only pull me back from release and from Thee. I'm going all the way through. Amen.

Q—My two-year-old son likes beer and wine very much. All my friends say to give it to him because it won't hurt him and if we give it to him now he won't drink when he grows up, but I don't know.

R. A. H.

A—Beer and wine contain alcohol and a small child is susceptible to even small quantities of alcohol. Instead of discouraging him from drinking when he grows up, the chances are that the opposite will be true. Don't do it.

Q—What is malignant hypertension and what are the symptoms?

A. W. R.

A—Malignant hypertension is a term used to describe a serious and rapidly progressive form of high blood pressure. The cause is not yet known. The symptoms vary but severe headache is one of the common early signs.

Q—Does the change of life have to start at 40? Could it begin in a woman who has had an operation in the middle 30's?

Doubtful.

A—The change of life is not considered to be a sudden process but rather a gradual one extending over many years. Evidence may begin at 40 or several years earlier or later. An artificial menopause can be produced by removing both ovaries and when this happens, changes begin at the age when the operation is performed.

Q—What causes the feet and legs to swell?

J. B.

A—The most common causes are heart disease and diseases of the kidneys. Certainly both of these organs should be investigated

Some Old Pals Drop in

Distant Star

BY HERMINA BLACK

THE STORY: Clemency Norton is a nursery governess to Baba, small daughter of Syria and Jon Amberley who live with Jon's brother Piers in Algiers. Syria shows jealousy when she sees Piers with Clemency and tells "Clemency to remain in her own part of the house later when she is putting the rebellious child Baba to bed Syria and Jon quarrel in front of Clemency. Jon intimates Clemency is fit-treating Baba at Syria's instruction and later says he didn't mean it.

AFTER a morning of irritation, the scene between Jon Amberley and Syria was the last straw for Clemency Norton.

"I hope you didn't mean it," she repeated. "It's upsetting for any child to have to stay indoors day after day," she said keeping her voice even with an effort. "and Baba is very highly strung. But she has been extremely naughty all the morning, and now she is thoroughly excited if I may say so," she looked at Syria. "I think it would have been better if Mr. Amberley had not interferred. I can usually coax her round—unless she thinks that somebody else is on her side."

"You simply ruin Baba, Jon!" exclaimed Syria with such viciousness that Clemency was startled. "You always have made a fool of yourself over the child, and you've no right to interfere in the nursery. Miss Norton knows best what is good for Baba and if were not I would not put up with your interference for a minute."

That was perhaps not quite fair, but without waiting to hear any more Jon Amberley white with anger flung out of the room shutting the door sharply behind him. Syria shrugged her shoulders. "It's obvious where Baba gets her temper! I warned you that Jon would utterly ruin her if he were allowed to."

and would like Baba—if she were behaving herself—to be brought downstairs after tea.

BY the time her charge was taken up for the night, the weather showed signs of clearing; but even if the rain had still been torrential, Clemency knew that she could not have stayed in another minute. Warning Loulie to listen in case Baba woke up and wanted anything, she put on her makings, and tying a handkerchief over her head, sallied forth.

Clemency hesitated. It would soon be very dark, and though somewhere up there a moon was growing towards the full, the light would probably be dimmed. But she felt she needed more freedom of exercise than just walking round the tiled paths of the courtyard gave scope for, and decided to go along the road; she would hardly be likely to meet anyone unfriendly.

About half a mile along, the road forked, one portion of it running down to the banks of the small river which watered the oasis. There were some fat stones, and sitting down on one of them, Clemency pulled the handkerchief off her head and raising her face, took a deep breath.

She remained musing while the African darkness, which falls like a suddenly dropped cloak, had come down over the land.

She was trying to make up her mind to move when the sound of a quick firm step on the road behind her made her turn her head sharply.

"Good gracious, I thought you were a ghost! What on earth are you doing here, Miss Norton?" exclaimed Piers Amberley.

"COLONEL AMBERLEY! No, I'm not a ghost! I'm equally relieved to find that you are not a wandering nomad."

Clemency was already on her feet; her heart was beating very fast indeed now.

"A wandering nomad is perhaps the most likely danger you might meet," he replied. "Sitting about on boulders without first investigating what may be lurking around, is not an altogether safe pastime in these parts. St. Patrick never visited Algeria."

"Snakes!" exclaimed Clemency. "Oh, no, I never dreamt of snakes."

"Quite seriously, Miss Norton," he said, "you ought not to be so far from the house as this, alone after dark. I can vouch pretty well for the regular inhabitants of this desert, but there is always the chance of that wandering nomad who might have dishonest intentions; or even some mad fanatic. That great space is not altogether uninhabited—we've had some queer characters drift in occasionally. And even here there are echoes of what is brewing further East—though, thank goodness, they are faint of present."

She said half apologetically: "I didn't really mean to stay out long. I only came for a breath of fresh air."

Reading between the lines, he understood more clearly than she would have given him credit for doing.

"I gather there was a spot of trouble today."

Clemency felt that she did not want to discuss it with him.

"Oh—nothing very much," she said, and could have kicked herself. Why must she sound so prim and "governessy," just because she was talking to Piers Amberley?

"My niece can be something of a handful," said Piers. And that was his sole comment.

"I won't get into mischief again," she promised, when they were in sight of the outer walls of the house now. "I will go in this way. Good night, Colonel Amberley, and—thank you."

"Good night—." But she had already opened the door leading to the nursery courtyard. It closed softly, and she was gone.

Piers paused to light a cigarette before he resumed his walk.

Dull Life is Made up Of a String of Boring Days

What are you going to do today that you really look forward to with anticipation and pleasure? Nothing? How depressing—and how foolish.

String a lot of days like that together and you've got a pretty dull life.

That's all a dull existence is, anyhow, just a lot of days that give no real pleasure added one to the other until a boring existence is finally achieved.

The only way to prevent that is to take care of each day as it comes along, to make it give you at least one thing you want.

So what will it be today? No-body else can tell you what it should be. For only you know what things give you a lift, make you feel alive and leave you with the feeling that the day has held something worth while.

Forget Excuses—Do Something
Think about it a few minutes. What would you really like to do?

Forget the "if I weren't so busy" and "if I could afford this or that." Drop the excuses and decide that today you are going to do something you especially want to do.

You can manage one thing, at least, out of the list of things that come to mind.

And tomorrow you can manage something else. But don't wait until tomorrow to get started. That is the mistake most of us make.

Tuesday is a link in that chain of boring existence—unless the link is broken.

Woes of the Census Takers ---

Though they're out for the count, Uncle Sam's 150,000 census enumerators are not down yet. Here are some of the trials and tribulations encountered by these hardy pavement pounders in their temporary jobs of counting all 151,000,000 of Uncle's nieces and nephews.

"I'm not answering any questions," said an eastern housewife as she conked the C-man over the head with a frying pan.

Dog bites are the most common hazard, but one Philadelphia enumerator was bitten square on the nose.

A Seattle housewife grabbed the census forms and smudged out all the answers the C-woman had collected.

"Ask me now. I'll be just as drunk next week," said an Oklahoman when the census taker offered to call later.

This is the most frequent question put to the census workers at regional offices around the country. There's a reason.

Kansas City Woman Tells of Talking To One That Evening

KANSAS CITY, April 14—(AP)—The Kansas City police department, under criticism since the slaying last week of political leader Charles Binaggio, today had the full backing of Gov. Forrest Smith.

The governor told a news conference at Jefferson City:

"We feel that the police department as a whole is doing the best it can to keep down crime and to solve the recent murders."

Binaggio, northside Democratic boss, and his henchman, Charles Gargotta, were shot down in their political headquarters on Truman Road.

Officers questioned Mrs. Gargotta yesterday. They said the interview failed to produce any important information. Mrs. Binaggio was questioned the previous day.

One is Released

Lieut. Harry C. Nesbitt, head of the police homicide bureau, today released a waiter who had been arrested yesterday after he had boasted he shot Binaggio and Gargotta. Nesbitt said the man was drinking when he made the statement and today told police he was sorry to have caused so much trouble.

Mrs. Binaggio yesterday described her husband as a person who has "done nothing but good in all 41 years of his life."

She added: "It's about time he received some credit for the good things he did."

Police said they had learned from Miss Blanche Howard that Gargotta had made an appointment to see her the night he was slain.

Talked to Gargotta

Miss Howard, under a civil contempt citation from a federal grand jury for evasive answers about her relationship with Gargotta, was quoted by police as saying she had telephoned Gargotta at about 7 p. m. the night of April 5 at the Last Chance tavern where he worked as a gambler.

Miss Howard, a county employee, related to police that Binaggio's musclemen had told her he had some business to take care of "but it shouldn't take more than 30 or 40 minutes" and that Gargotta indicated he probably would be able to see her around 9 p. m.

Police said Miss Howard complained she had given Mrs. Irene Sarno, an associate of Mrs. Binaggio in a fur concession business here, $7,500 to keep for her and only $4,000 of that money was located in Mrs. Sarno's office.

Mrs. Sarno died recently.

Turned Money Over

Yesterday Mrs. Sarno's husband, Louis Duke Sarno, made application to the probate court to turn over to Miss Howard $4,000 which he said had been found in Mrs. Sarno's safe deposit box in an envelope marked "Blanche Howard."

Meantime in Chicago two Kansas City police detectives met with police ballistics experts there to check six bullets removed from the bodies of Binaggio and Gargotta. Frank Collins, chief of detectives here, said the men, Lester Haupt, head of the robbery detail, and William Myers, police laboratory technician, had turned over to Chicago authorities the names of hoodlums in that area who are known to have visited Binaggio.

Collins said the Kansas City detectives planned to stop at St. Louis on their return trip and check with ballistics experts there.

102nd Birthday In the Air

NATICK, Mass., April 14.—(AP)—Lively Mrs. Lydia Stevens is celebrating her coming 102nd birthday in the air.

She took a plane ride over scenic North Shore area yesterday—but didn't think much of it until she took over the controls.

Then she said, "I loved it." And Mrs. Stevens, who last flew on her 90th birthday, said she intends to do a great deal more flying.

She told the pilot of the dual control plane that the trip was "uneventful" so he turned over operation of the ship to her for a few minutes.

Mrs. Stevens, a native of Lubec, Me., who lives at the Lakeside rest home, will be given a flight over Cape Cod area today.

And on Saturday—her birthday—she will be flown by the American Airlines from Boston to New York.

With a gleam in her eyes, she said she probably will allow all the crew members on that flight to give her a big kiss.

"I let the men kiss me because they can tell their friends they have kissed a girl over 100 years old."

Cannons For France

Hal Boyle COLUMN

By Hal Boyle
NEW YORK — (AP) — "Money must have a heart," said Floyd Cramer, who is a bank president. Cramer is an unusual banker. He thinks business has lost its political influence in this country because it has lost touch with the common man.

"Business has complained a lot about the welfare state but done nothing to stop it," he said. "It is up to industry now to take the bull by the horns and show the American public it is not against reform."

"In my opinion business has shirked its social responsibility. That is why it has very little voice in government today. It has misused its power."

"And it can return to political power only by recognizing the trend to social responsibility instead of opposing it."

Talks Like Union President

Cramer, a husky, dark-haired man of 45, wryly admits he talks "more like a union president than the average banker." But he says the big trouble with many businessmen is they wait for a union to put pressure on them to do things for their employees they should do themselves.

"This is a free country, and smart employers ought to compete with each other to see who can do the most for the comfort and welfare of their employees."

"And don't get me wrong. I'm an active Republican and a complete believer in the personal enterprise system."

Cramer has had a typical Horatio Alger career himself. One of nine children of an Arkansas farmer, he labored as a cotton picker, harvest hand, lumberjack, bauxite miner and served a hitch in the U. S. Marines before coming here. He worked up from bank messenger to his present post as head of the Washington Heights Federal Savings and Loan Association. He is also vice-president of the New York State Savings and Loan League.

Should Be Human Being

"It isn't my belief that a man should make as much money as he can at other people's expense," he said. "He can actually make more by being a human being and getting as much as he can for the people around him."

"That is my philosophy and it has paid off for me."

He himself has been "a sort of missionary" in preaching business idealism to industrial organizations.

Picnic Weather

Reporter Allen Brown of the Council Bluffs Nonpareil and E. F. Stapowich (right) weather forecaster at Omaha, Neb., eat a picnic lunch in the snowy outdoors. Stapowich, predicting clear and warmer weather for April 12, suggested to Brown, "Why not have a picnic?" Brown passed the suggestion on to his readers. Although the appointed day brought an inch of snow and temperatures in the 30s, the two gentlemen had the picnic anyway. (AP Wirephoto) ness idealism to industrial organizations.

"No one should question the right of government to step in and provide housing, food, transportation and social benefit if industry fails to," he said. "We should have no quarrel about that."

Should Provide Minimum Benefit

"But government Social Security should provide only minimum benefits—enough to keep a man from becoming a public charge."

"Business itself should do the main job, if it is to get out of the political doghouse it's in now. By that I mean management should be ever alert to the welfare of the people. It should foot the real bill for social welfare."

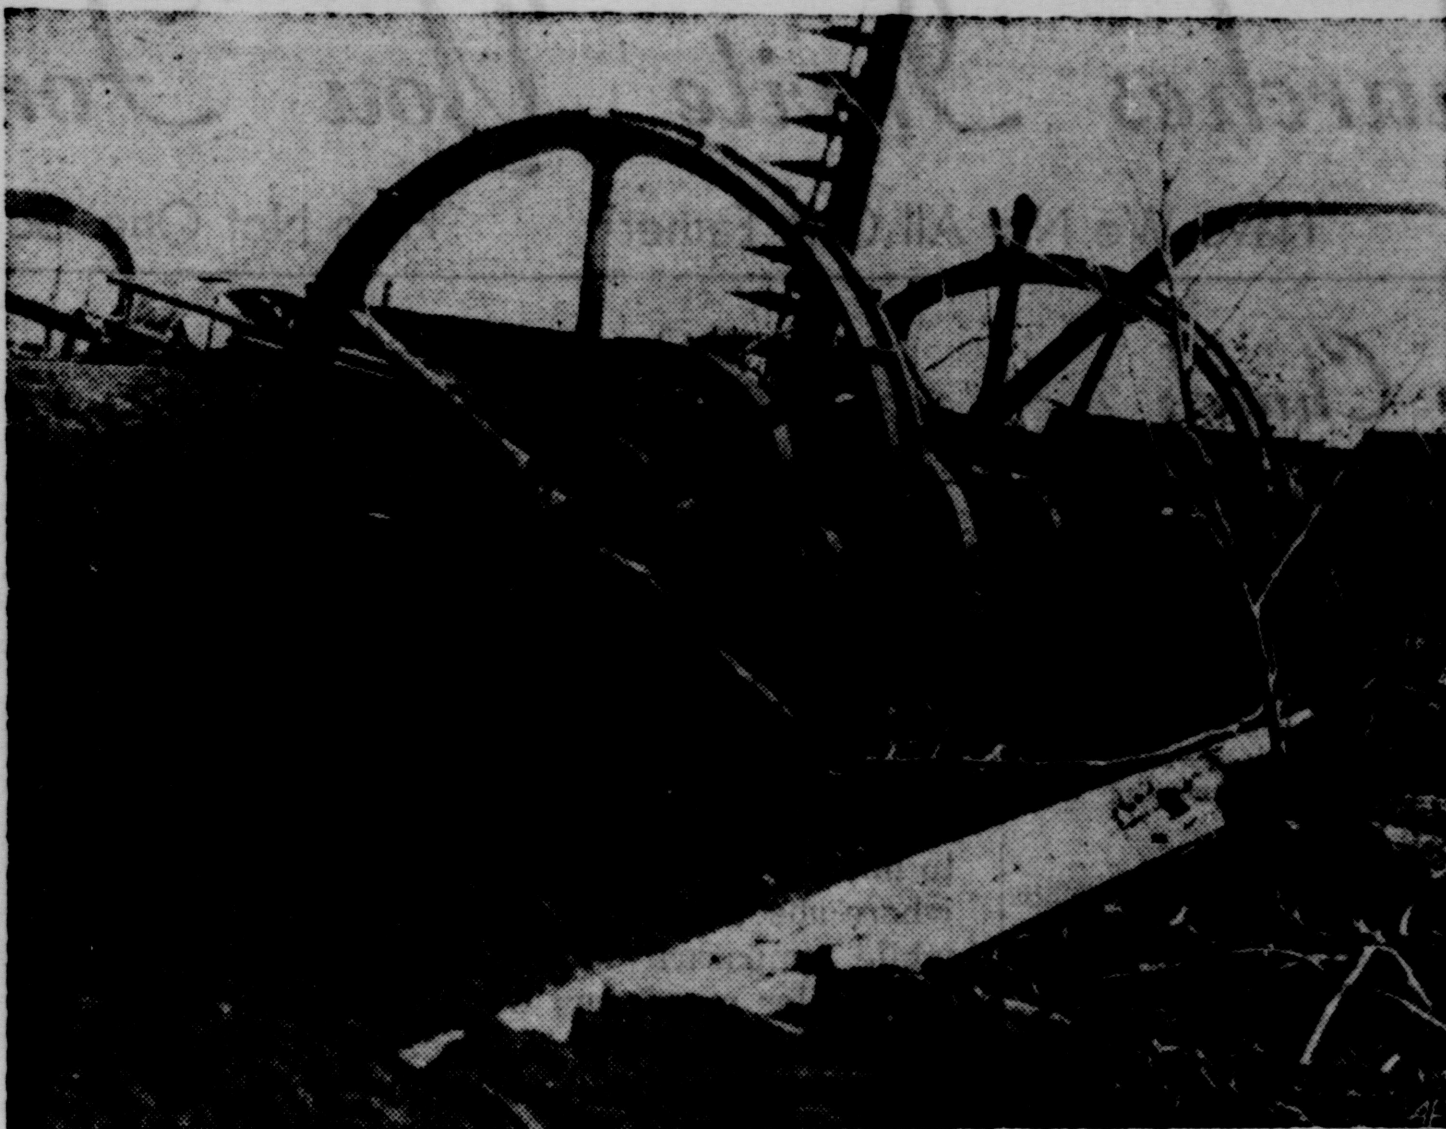

"It should set up pension plans and pay for them, lock, stock and barrel, instead of fighting them. It should guarantee an annual wage—that's long overdue in many industries. It should take its employees more into partnership and make every worker a member of management."

"And by that I don't mean to go up and tap your employees on the shoulder and say, 'I'm going to fix up the ladies room tomorrow.'"

Should Have Faith

"Leaders of large corporations see too many bogey-men under the bed. They think their employees will take advantage of them. But I think the number that will isn't worth worrying about. I have faith in the fairness and good will of the average man."

Hub Deep in Dust

Dig out and cleanup jobs such as this faced many a Kansas farmer after the big dust storm which lashed the state early this week. The heavy winds drifted soil almost up to the hub of this piece of machinery on the Minnie Britt farm south of Abilene, in the heart of Kansas. Dust storms have been so severe this spring that some farmers call this year the start of the "filthy fifties." (Associated Press photo)

Evil Tongues

"The words of a tale-bearer are as wounds," says the Book of Proverbs. The evil-tongued were included by St. Paul in the categories of persons who will never possess the kingdom of God. The tongue is probably the most prolific breeder of evil. It is certainly the slickest and therefore the most dangerous.

Not long ago a New York housewife jumped to her death from the roof of the apartment house where she lived. Her death was listed as suicide while temporarily insane. Actually she was murdered. Her murderers were neighborhood gossips who had goaded her to desperation by spreading stories—all baseless—reflecting upon her character and honor.

Cases of persons whose minds have become unhinged because of malicious gossip are by no means rare. Some people cannot help brooding over stories that eventually reach their own ears. What most baffles and discourages them is the seeming impossibility of tracing gossip to its source and thus perhaps making an end to it.

Gossip can be harmless enough when it is held within safe bounds. But there is a potentially diabolical potency to the gossip of those who take vicious pleasure in relaying scandals, real or imaginary, concerning others. Making the lives of neighbors or strangers a perpetual subject of barbed and acid comment is in the nature of infernal malice.

Evil tongues make enemies of neighbors, disrupt homes and families, blight careers, ruin reputations. One might be inclined to smile tolerantly over the picture of two women sweetening their tea with scandal. Or the insinuating winks of male gossips when some woman's name crops up in conversation. But there is nothing amusing in the reflection that for every idle word there must be a reckoning with God.

There is a French proverb which says: "A wise man reflects before he speaks; a fool speaks and then reflects on what he has uttered." The Christian faith teaches that slander is a grave sin against justice. No one may speak of others except in a spirit of love and charity. The faults and sins of our neighbors are for God alone to weigh and pass judgment upon. To make the misery and follies of any man or woman conversational tidbits is to brand one's own soul with sins perhaps far more grave.

Sunday School Lesson

Hours With the Hebrew Prophets: Amos

By William E. Gilroy, D. D.

During some weeks to come many Sunday schools will be studying lessons drawn from the so-called "Minor Prophets" of the Old Testament. The comment offered in these columns is not based upon any other comment or outlines, but is based upon the prophecies themselves, and is designed to present the times and conditions under which these prophecies were delivered, in such a way as to make their message intelligible and applicable to the life of today.

At the outset one should settle the matter of "Major" and "Minor" prophets. The 12 Minor prophecies are brief in comparison with the extensive prophecies of Isaiah, Jeremiah and Ezekiel, but they are not minor in the sense of any moral or spiritual inferiority.

On the contrary many passages in these so-called "Minor Prophets" represent the very highest point of Old Testament teaching concerning God and man. In Micah, for instance, is that concentrated and famous definition of true religion: "What doth the Lord require of thee, but to do justly, and to love mercy, and to walk humbly with thy God?"

The position of the "Minor Prophets" in our Bible, coming after the great prophecies, might suggest, also, that they were minor in the sense of actually being later in time. But this is not the case. Hosea and Amos were among the very earliest of the prophets whose prophecies are recorded, and others were either contemporary with, or in between, the greater prophets.

Most studies of the prophets begin with Amos, though Hosea prophesied in the same Northern Kingdom, and was probably only a few years later than Amos.

In the study of the prophets one must understand the significance of those words, Northern Kingdom and Southern Kingdom. They refer to the tragic disruption that occurred when Rehoboam, Solomon's son, inheriting a great, consolidated kingdom, and refused to lighten the burdens which Solomon's great building enterprises had put upon the people. It was at this time, also, that Jeroboam, who had led a previous unsuccessful rebellion and escaped to Egypt, now returned and led a successful revolt.

In this revolt, 10 tribes re-nounced Rehoboam and the Southern Kingdom of Judah, to establish the Northern Kingdom of Israel. Henceforth, until the tragic fall of both kingdoms, there were Kings of Judah and Kings of Israel, and prophets of Judah and prophets of Israel.

That is the first great fact of the times that one must grasp—division and strife preparing the way for disaster; but there were other disastrous conditions, as we shall see.

"DOCTRINE OF ATONEMENT" is the subject of the Lesson-Sermon in all Churches of Christ, Scientist, on Sunday, April 16, 1950.

Golden Text: I John 2:1.

Among the citations which comprise the Lesson-Sermon is the following from the Bible: "I am the good shepherd, and know my sheep, and am known of mine. As the Father knoweth me, even so know I the Father; and I lay down my life for the sheep. And other sheep I have, which are not of this fold: them also I must bring, and they shall hear my voice; and there shall be one fold, and one shepherd." (John 10:14-16) The Lesson-Sermon also includes the following passage from the Christian Science Text book, "Science and Health with Key to the Scriptures," by Mary Baker Eddy: "Jesus of Nazareth taught and demonstrated man's oneness with the Father, and for this we owe him endless homage. His mission was both individual and collective. He did the work aright not only in justice to himself, but in mercy to mortals—to show them how to do theirs, but not to do it for them not to relieve them of a single responsibility." (p. 18)

Preview Of A Great Picture

Special Showing of 'Prince of Peace' at The Fox Theatre

A special pre-view showing of the picture "Prince of Peace" was presented at 2:00 o'clock Thursday afternoon at the Fox Theater. The showing was attended by many of the city's clergymen, Scout leaders, P. T. A. heads, civic club officials educators and other special guests.

The setting of the story behind this picture was in Lawton, Okla. The Lawton story of "The Prince of Peace" is the screen's first and finest passion play. The story is based with the people of Lawton, and dedicated to the Rev. A. Mark Wallock, who originated the Easter Pageants, near Lawton at the Wichita mountain years ago. The leads in "the story of the life of Jesus" were carried by Millard Coody as Jesus, Darlene Bridges as the Virgin Mary and featured six-year old Ginger Prince.

A cast of over 3,000 persons participated in the filming of the story of Hallmark Productions, Inc.

Preceding the showing of the film George Foreman Hallmark representative gave an interesting discussion of the picture and of the related events surrounding it. It has received wide acclaim by the following: Jimmy Fidler: "A picture every man, woman and child must see"; Louella Parsons: "The Prince of Peace is unmatched in cinema fare"; Eleanor and Anna Roosevelt: "The only film ever mentioned on our radio program"; Bishop Tomlinson: "A new motion picture of great interest to all decent people."

The regular showing of this picture will start on May 7, and will continue through to the 10th.

One of 17 rescue planes is readied for take-off at a Copenhagen, Denmark, airport, as the first clear weather in five days, spurred hope that some trace of the American Navy plane believed shot down by Russians might be found. Asking For New State Law

JEFFERSON CITY, April 14—(AP)—Missouri League of Municipalities agreed here on Thursday to press for a state law authorizing public slum clearance projects in cities of 2,500 or more.

The league adopted a resolution urging that Gov. Forrest Smith include a proposed bill in his call for a special legislative session if one is called this year.

Otherwise, the resolution said, the bill will be introduced early in the regular session of the legislature scheduled next January. The bill would let cities operate slum clearance authorities and accept federal financial aid.

Kansas City and St. Louis already have such power. The proposed law would let cities buy or condemn property to clear blighted areas and establish parks or recreation centers.

Home Made Bomb Explodes at Harvard

CAMBRIDGE, Mass., April 14—(AP)—A home-made bomb exploded on a window sill of Harvard University's Thayer Hall early on Thursday.

The blast injured one student, endangered others and threw 150 freshmen into an uproar. It shattered more than a score of panes of glass and blew out a window frame.

Robert Dobbie, 21, of Allentown, Pa., suffered facial lacerations when the window of his first floor room crashed in.

The bomb apparently was made of dynamite. Yard police chief Alvin Randall said he believed it was the work of pranksters.

Scholarship From Ga. U. to Gene Dowdy

Valued at $5,000 And Covers a Four Year Term

Gene Dowdy, 19-year-old senior at Smith-Cotton high school and varsity member of the school's football team, who lives with his grandparents Mr. and Mrs. J. E. Dowdy, 1613 East Seventh street, has been chosen to receive a special scholarship from the University of Georgia.

Gene Dowdy

The scholarship is a special athletic type which is given to only ten boys a year. It is a full scholarship, is valued at about $5,000 and covers a four year term. Gene was selected for this honor by William Kripps, scout for the university who lives in Kansas City.

With the scholarship is a trip to the school from which Gene has just returned. The purpose is to see if the boys like the school, campus and the planned program.

Flew to Atlanta

He left for the trip Wednesday. He first went to Kansas City where he was met by Mr. Kripps. Thursday he was flown to Atlanta and was met there by the freshman football coach. The coach drove him to Athens, a town of 25,000, 70 miles from Atlanta, where the university is located. Here he was taken over the campus and was shown through the industrial arts buildings and the sports facilities. The next day he met some of the football stars of Georgia U. among them was the famous Charlie Trippie. Then later he and the other nine boys were taken out to the sports field where they had a stiff workout in college style.

The remainder of the time was spent in reviewing the school's program and getting acquainted with the school ways.

Then Saturday morning he was flown back to Kansas City and later came back to Sedalia.

To Take Physical Education

Gene has stated that he will take physical education as his major when he enters school at the fall term.

Gene, who plays quarterback position, has been with the Tigers three years and has lettered on the varsity squad for three years. He is six feet tall and weighs 170.

Before he came to Sedalia and Smith-Cotton Gene played with the Oregon City, Ore., high school team where he has lettered one year.

Coach Ralph Dow of the Tigers and Gene's former coach, said he was very happy for Gene and was certain he was most deserving of the honor and that he would make good.

Despite temperatures in the 40s, 8,649 persons showed up in Blues Stadium to watch the Indians beat the Giants, 4-2. Spectators bundled up in overcoats, blankets, mufflers and furs.

Names Escape Him at the Moment, But Major Hoople Picks the Phillies

By Major Amos B. Hoople
Old Pal of Doubleday's
Egad! Here we come, millions of gentle readers, bursting out of our cocoon again with a big surprise for the baseball season. Some of you may indeed be shocked — hak-kaff — to note that I am announcing the Philadelphia club will win the old gon-falon in the National League.

Boiling my reasons down for such a selection, let me merely say, hitting and pitching and youth. Unassailable, eh?

Here is the way they will wind up, Oct. 1:

American—Cleveland
Boston
New York
Detroit
Philadelphia
Chicago
Washington
St. Louis
National—Philadelphia
Pittsburgh
Brooklyn
St. Louis
New York
Boston
Cincinnati
Chicago

Alas! I fear the Yankees have shot their bolt. (Ed. Note: He said that last spring, too!) They are creaking at the joints.

Boston's Red Sox, mechanically perfect, lack the spark, the spirit, the fire.

In the other league, Philadelphia has simply everything. Look at the lineup of that sterling team! Such names as — drat it — their names escape me at the moment — but what's in a name?

A home run called a circuit clout sounds just as sweet!

Watch Cleveland and Luscious Easter. This big fellow is a real fence-buster, as McGraw used to say. The few long base hits the Indians lacked last year will be stroked by Big Luke.

And did you know Lou Boudreau, "Peerless Lou," as I have called him, is fining the boys now for hitting into double plays, failing to advance runners, failure to lay down good bunts and other little lapses?

It's going to be loads of fun, they tell me, and how can such a system fail to win a pennant?

Two Teams Were Snowed Out Thursday

Chicago Game is Postponed Today, Chilly Weather

By Fred Hayden
Associated Press Sports Writer

Major league teams, back from the sunny south, hoped today they wouldn't have to play with snowballs instead of baseballs.

Two games had to be called off yesterday because of snow and for the same reason, the Brooklyn Dodgers had to skip a scheduled workout at Ebbets field. Snowed out were the New York Yankees at Pittsburgh and the Philadelphia Phillies at Cincinnati.

Some teams played despite chilly weather. The Chicago Cubs' office announced today's game with the White Sox at Wrigley Field wouldn't be played because of cold weather.

Replay of '49 Series

Elements permitting, New York fans got a chance today to see a "replay" of the 1949 World Series, with the Yankees and Dodgers clashing at Brooklyn in the first of a three-game series. The other two games, tomorrow and Sunday, are scheduled for Yankee Stadium.

Ed Lopat was slated to take the mound for the Yankees, with Joe Page around for his customary finishing up chores. For the National League champs, Don Newcombe was to open if his back and arm felt okay. Otherwise Clarence

The old boy himself.
The old boy himself

ence Podbielan was to get the nod.

Both Boston teams were scheduled to clash in Beantown, while the two Philadelphia clubs were slated to meet in their home town.

Only Muscular Trouble

Brooklyn pitcher Ralph Branca returned from Johns Hopkins hospital in Baltimore feeling much happier. Dr. George Bennett examined his ailing pitching arm and eight x-rays were taken, and Ralph was told his trouble was "nothing to worry about—mostly muscular."

The Cleveland Indians had contrasting fortunes. Bob Lemon, who is to open the season, let the Giants down with five hits as the Tribe won, 4-2. But another Indian pitcher, Sam Zoladak, was hit on the right knee by a batted ball during practice and taken to a hospital for x-rays. No fracture, but severe bruises, skin abrasions and swelling.

Squashed Rumors

"Old Luke" Appling of the Chicago White Sox squashed some of those rumors about a squabble with the club. The veteran went the route at shortstop, getting two hits and fielding deftly in a game won by Detroit, 7-5. The Boston Red Sox smothered the Richmond Colts, 16-7, getting 21 hits. The Cubs beat St. Louis' Cards, 7-4, making it three out of four in their series. The game, played in Little Rock, Ark., was cut to eight innings for train connections.

Washington was held to a 7-7 tie by Reidsville of the Carolina League, the game being called after nine innings so the Senators could catch a train. The St. Louis Browns visited Pine Bluff, Ark., and beat the Cotton States League outfit, 2-0.

Philip Morris Ups Sales

Philip Morris & Company is one of the top 75 leading manufacturers in the United States, according to a report released by that company today.

The cigarette industry manufactured domestically 352.5 billion cigarettes in 1949 against 348.7 billion in 1948, an increase of 1.1 per cent. While most leading brands lost in volume sales, Philip Morris gained 15.5 per cent. It's sales during 1949 increased by the billions. O. G. Zemann, section sales manager, stated the reason for the tremendous increase in Philip Morris sales was due to its constant advertising in all media and particularly its newspaper advertising.

Mangrum and Palmer Lead Fulton Open

They Shot 69's to Hold Stroke Lead Over 5 Other Pros

By Sterling Slappay
ATLANTA, April 14—(P)—Two of America's finest professionals—John Palmer and Lloyd Mangrum—haven't won a golf tournament this year but they're off in the lead of the $10,000 North Fulton Open.

The brace of veterans shot 69's in the first round yesterday and hold one stroke leads over five other golfers.

Strong, chilling winds ripped across the 6,762-yard, par 71 North Fulton Park course, and the golfers who hit the highest drives suffered the most.

Well seasoned Mangrum, Palmer and the other stars who play from California to Florida on the winter tournament circuit keep their wood shots out of the wind and low along the ground.

Two other publicized professionals, an amateur and two comparative unknowns had to settle for one-under par 70's.

The 70 shooters were Henry Ransom of St. Andrews, Ill.; Clayton Heafner of Charlotte, N.C.; amateur Frank Stranahan of Toledo, Ohio; Avery Beck of Raleigh, N.C.; and Harold Williams of Tuscaloosa, Ala.

Last week Jimmy Demaret won the Masters with 283 strokes. At North Fulton he took a par and said he was "delighted to have it." P.G.A. champion Sam Snead of White Sulphur Springs, W. Va., and five others came in with even par golf.

After the second round of the 72-hole tournament the field will be cut to the lowest 60 scorers plus enough amateurs to guarantee 10 non-professionals.

Big League Training Camp Briefs

NEW YORK, April 14—(P)—Yankee Manager Casey Stengel believes he has so many good men that he'll have to play them on a share-the-work plan. Stengel expects to use the two-plate-on system at third base, left field, right field and first base. He claims there isn't a regular player now at any of those spots.

Rival for Eddie Stanky

INDIANAPOLIS, April 14—(P)—Eddie Stanky, the New York Giants second baseman who gets on base one way or another has a rival in outfielder Don Mueller. Mueller got on base three times in yesterday's 4-2 loss to Cleveland, once on a walk and twice on hits. He leads the Giants in most hits, 42.

Stanky batted three times, walked twice and singled. He has drawn 31 walks in 25 games.

Lemon to Pitch 1st Game

INDIANAPOLIS, April 14—(P)—It was official today. Bob Lemon and not Bob Feller will be on the mound when the Cleveland Indians open this year.

There was little doubt about Lemon getting the honor, but Boudreau held off his announcement until just before game time yesterday. Feller has been almost a fixture at the job, hurling three inaugurals before the war and four since he returned from wartime service in the Navy.

Lemon tuned up for the opener yesterday when he went the route for the first time this season and held the New York Giants to five hits. Cleveland won the contest, played in 40-degree cold in Kansas City, 4-2.

Week-End Games in St. Louis

ST. LOUIS, April 14—(P)—The St. Louis Cardinals and the Browns planned to work out today on their home field.

The two teams will play a two-game city series Saturday and Sunday afternoons.

The Cards aren't too proud of their Grapefruit League record this year. They have 13 victories against 17 defeats. They dropped 11 of their last 14 games and 15 of their last 20 to major league opponents.

The Browns, who played their last spring road exhibition game at Pine Bluff, Ark., yesterday, have 16 victories, 15 defeats and two ties.

Too Cold at Night

MEMPHIS, Tenn., April 14—(P)—Red Rolfe wants nothing more to do with night games in spring training.

It has been too cold. After experiences here the Detroit Tiger manager is trying to move up Saturday night's scheduled game at Louisville of the American Association to the afternoon.

"Remind me never to book an-

Bing Crosby Departed Today For England to Play Golf

other night game in spring training," said Red.

Opener for Cards Tuesday

PITTSBURGH, April 14—(P)—Bob Chenes or Cliff Chambers will start on the mound for the Pittsburgh Pirates when they open their National League season at St. Louis Tuesday night.

Pirate Manager Billy Meyer said today that Chenes definitely will be on the mound in an exhibition against the Washington Senators at the capital tomorrow. He inferred that if Chenes continues to show the form he's displayed recently he will get the nod over Chambers for the opening day assignment.

City Series Underway

PHILADELPHIA, April 14—(P)—Connie Mack warms up for his 50th year as manager of the Philadelphia Athletics today as he sends his A's against the Phils in the first of a three-game city series. The 87-year-old Mack will send little southpaw Bobby Shantz against the Phils.

Opener for Cards Tuesday Night

ST. LOUIS, April 14—(P)—Games of the St. Louis Cardinals this year will be broadcast over 75 radio stations in ten states—described by club president Fred Saigh as the nation's largest baseball network.

Harry Caray and Gabby Street will continue to handle the broadcasts. This year, for the first time, they will travel with the Cardinals throughout the season. Each game will be broadcast from the park in which it is played.

Part of the games here will be televised, as they were last year, Saigh said.

The Cardinals take on the Browns tomorrow and Sunday in the annual city-series. Then the Redbirds open the season against Pittsburgh Tuesday night at Sportsman's park.

The night opener for the Cardinals will be the first of its kind in the major leagues.

Coach Resigns On Doctor's Orders

SEATTLE, April 14—(P)—Art McLarney resigned his basketball and baseball coaching berths at the University of Washington yesterday. He said he did so on doctor's orders.

Dispute Over Civil Defense

Committees in Claim on Control Against Bombs

WASHINGTON, April 14 — (AP) — Two committees of Congress rowed Thursday over task of mobilizing the nation's civil defenses against an atomic world war III. Both agreed the job is immense and urgent. Both claimed the right to control it.

The jurisdictional dispute broke out between the joint Senate-House Atomic committee and a Senate armed services subcommittee.

It came to light in a hitherto "confidential report" by chairman Kefauver (D-Tenn) and Senator Cain (R-Wash) of the subcommittee—a report sketching a grim outline of steps needed to prepare for possible mass disasters in the event of attack by A-bombs, hydrogen super bombs, or germ warfare.

Some Of Problems
Among the myriad problems confronting defense planners, the report noted such possibilities as banning "many new establishments in the Washington (D C.) area," scattering vital industries away from prime target areas, and assembling vast reserve supplies of fire-fighting and medical equipment.

Chairman McMahon (D-Conn) of the joint Atomic committee contended his group should handle the defense studies because of that committee's "intimate knowledge of atomic and hydrogen weapons."

Moreover, he said, the joint committee started tackling the complex problem first.

But Kefauver and Cain insisted the Senate subcommittee should have jurisdiction because it is clearly "a matter pertaining to the common defense generally" and "goes far beyond any considerations revolving solely around the atomic bomb."

In any event, the Kefauver-Cain report said, the dispute "should be resolved quickly because we are duplicating efforts x x x (and) seriously cutting into the time of the top planners in this field."

Late today Chairman Tydings (D-Md) of the full Senate armed services committee took the fight to the Senate floor. Moving for a showdown, Tydings introduced a resolution authorizing his group to conduct a civil defense study and report back to the Senate.

But Chairman McMahon of the joint atomic committee blocked the resolution by filing a motion to reconsider. The effect is to hold up the resolution until the Senate can decide later what to do with it.

Dog Lives After Leap Into Gorge

"Lady," a year-old English pointer, is lifted to safety from Crooked River gorge south of Bend, Ore., the first known canine survivor of a frolicking leap that has meant death for at least 10 others. Mr. and Mrs. R. E. Cline and their daughter, driving north from Redding, Calif., let "Lady" romp along with them when they stopped for a view of the gorge. Luckier than other dogs that have leaped playfully over the parapet to find a 300-foot deep chasm below, "Lady" landed on a ledge 80 feet down. Cline obtained a rope and lowered himself to the ledge to hold the dog until help arrived. Then he climbed up the jutting rocks. (AP Wirephoto) held on March 17. The novice class won sixth place among 72 Catholic high schools in the United States, Canada, and Hawaii. The amateur class won tenth place among 122 classes, with 3,240 contestants competing. Highest ranking for Sacred Heart in the novice class was Patricia White with 47.1 words per minute. Louis Barsch was the highest ranking amateur typist with 835 points. The highest ranking national student in the novice class attained a speed of 60.2 words per minute. High ranking student in the amateur class had 984 points. On April 27 the NCHSTA will sponsor an individual typing contest. Kentucky's official bird is the cardinal.

Drop Off Relief Long Enough To Take Trip To Europe

NEW YORK, April 14—(AP)—Two old-maid sisters, on city relief for the past 10 years, dropped off the rolls last fall long enough for a trip to Europe on a luxury liner, it was revealed Thursday. They returned six months later on the same ship, got back on relief and packed away their luggage in a $60 a month Broadway hotel room paid for by the city.

They now are drawing about $235 a month for food and rent. The travelers were identified by the city welfare department as Emily Vaucher, 71, and her sister, Attilee Vaucher, 64. They were not available for comment.

Welfare Commissioner Raymond M. Hilliard said his office is looking into the incident. The welfare department gave this account of the women's travels:

Last September they decided to go to Europe for their health. They thought they might find a job there, too.

So they sold their furniture and walked out of their $25 a month city-provided tenement flat. They said they got $150 for the furniture, $140 from a relative abroad and earned $100 more by making and selling handkerchiefs.

They paid their way to Paris on the liner America. There one of the sisters picked up a few francs selling handkerchiefs in front of the U. S. embassy.

Later they wound up in Switzerland where they finally ran out of ready cash. They asked that New York City forward them some relief money. This request was denied.

The sisters then went to the state department and borrowed $385 for the trip home on the America. They landed March 30.

They still were broke so the Travelers Aid Society gave them a hand. Welfare authorities tried to steer them to a municipal lodging house but they spurned this as "emotionally disturbing."

Finally, they turned up at a welfare center, got back on relief and were bedded down in a hotel at city expense.

Prof. Smith also suggested the use of roses on steep banks, back fences, hedges along the driveway, screening unsightly objects and edging for flower borders. He stated that there is nothing better than evergreens for a background for a rose garden with broadleaf evergreens, mahonia and hollies being pleasing.

Roses in Terraces

Roses are used in landscaping terraces, also, Mr. Smith said, for arches, arbors, pergolas and around reflecting pools. Prof. Smith said in closing: "A house without a garden is like a gem without a setting."

China Focal Point

He pointed out that Russia is preparing to do the same thing and that China is the most focal point of the world today. China, Mr. Chang said, is known as one of the old, peaceful, conservative countries on the earth, and added that unfortunately she is included under the iron curtain.

The speaker gave a brief history of China, which he said had been established more than a thousand years, in which there has been a frequent changing of rulers. He gave an outline of the geography, area, political division and population of the country. He told of the characteristics of the Chinese people, who for the most part, he said, are very honest, loyal and enthusiastic.

Then told of the educational system which now, he said, is modeled after the American system. The religion includes all of the important religions of the world, but China has none of its own. Mr. Chang said, and went on to tell of the clothing which in ancient times custom insisted none of the skin must show and most of the body was covered with elaborate clothings, but now the western trend had taken over in clothing. Family ties, he said, are close, foods are different not in the things they use, but in the cooking. Courtship and marriage have also changed to much the same as the American except it was not done publicly. Mr. Chang then told of the political set-up, giving the old and new causes of the decline of the Nationalist party.

Could Not Take Dictatorship

Concluding, Mr. Chang summed up the general picture of China and said that people the type of the Chinese, their culture, their traditions, their methods of living, their ideals and family life could not live under dictatorship. He said they will not have the patience of staying and living inside the iron curtain without seeing or hearing the true world. He stated that he thought that either Te-tung will change his mind, becoming an Asiatic Tito at once and just make a "non-surrender to each other" negotiation with the Nationalist government co-operating with the democratic nations, especially the United States, to help China build up modern democratic nation and live peacefully with the rest of the world or there would be a bloody revolution for freedom and democracy.

The program was in charge of the Education and Vocations committee.

Miss Shirley Ann Shepard, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. W. H. Shepard, 121 East Boonville street, whose engagement and approaching marriage to Mr. Johnnie Heineman, son of Mr. and Mrs. A. E. Heineman of Smithton has been announced by her parents.

BPWC Speaker Tells of China People, Customs

"What Will China Be in the Future" was the subject of an informative talk on his own country by Robert Chang Li Fu, Chinese editor, author and leader, who was the guest speaker at the Business and Professional Women's dinner meeting Thursday night at Bothwell hotel.

The business meeting was presided over by Mrs. A. R. Rush, president, at which time the following delegates were elected to attend the state convention which will be held in St. Louis. They are: Mrs. Rush, Miss Eva Evans, Mrs. Ruth Riley, Miss Rose Liebbrand, Mrs. Ivan Berry, Mrs. Atwell Bohling, Mrs. Frank Wagner, Mrs. Mary Jane Mullins, Mrs. Ike Warren, Mrs. Daisy Martin, Mrs. Everett White and Mrs. Mabel Menefee, with alternates being Mrs. Nellie Monegan, Mrs. Lillie Thomas, Mrs. William Bond, Mrs. Doretta Waite, Miss Verona Neumeyer, Mrs. John Welch, Miss Hazel Barnett, Mrs. Herbert Berlin, Miss Lois Fricke, Miss Margaret Eagan, Mrs. E. L. Miller, Mrs. Eichholz and Mrs. R. A. Malone.

A Clever Report

Mrs. Ivan Berry, convention chairman, presented the literature on the convention in a clever manner. When she was called on for a report she asked everyone to stand and look under their chairs. There they found the literature and some found special gifts.

Miss Margaret Ferguson, an unsigned check for $25,000 made payable to "A Lovely Lady," a toy automobile for transportation to Mrs. William Bone; one thousand "bucks" of play money to Mrs. Pearl Stuart; out of this world, a globe pencil sharpener, Miss Pearl Rose, and a taxi whistle for Mrs. John Welch.

Guests at the meeting were Mrs. Alice Crawford, Mrs. Ruth Shaw, Mrs. Lynn Russell, Robert Booth and Mrs. Kate Buzzard.

Miss Rose Liebbrand, chairman of the Cancer Drive, sponsored by the B. P. W. Club, made a report.

Mrs. Raymond Goddard, program chairman, presented the Vaughan Sisters in a group of songs with Miss Nellie Monegan as the accompanist.

Mrs. Goddard then introduced the speaker, who is at present attending the Central Missouri State college at Warrensburg.

He began his talk with a quotation from Confucius: "Truth never departs from human nature. If what is regarded as truth departs from human nature, truth can never be regarded as truth."

Mr. Chang went on to say that even though today's world events are changing so fast and so confusingly, yet they can never evade the truth. He recalled past history to prove his point, telling of Chieu Chei Fong, Napoleon, Hitler, Mussolini and Hirohito and the things that befell them in their attempts to conquer the world.

Concluding, Mr. Chang summed up the general picture of China and said that people the type of the Chinese, their culture, their traditions, their methods of living, their ideals and family life could not live under dictatorship. He said they will not have the patience of staying and living inside the iron curtain without seeing or hearing the true world. He stated that he thought that either Te-tung will change his mind, becoming an Asiatic Tito at once and just make a "non-surrender to each other" negotiation with the Nationalist government co-operating with the democratic nations, especially the United States, to help China build up modern democratic nation and live peacefully with the rest of the world or there would be a bloody revolution for freedom and democracy.

Party Sunday For Woman 100-Years Old

Mrs. Belle Bobbitt, Of LaMonte, Looking Forward to Affair

On Sunday, April 16, Mrs. Sarah Isabelle (Belle) Bobbitt, who resides with her daughter, Cora Bragunier, about nine miles northwest of LaMonte, will observe her one hundredth birthday anniversary.

Mrs. Bobbitt was born in Highland county, Virginia, on April 16, 1850, the daughter of William McCoy and Nancy Ruckman Wade. She was one of 13 children and the only one now living.

Mrs. Belle Bobbitt

It was in 1859 that she came with her parents from Virginia to Missouri and settled in Cooper county. The trip was long and hard partly by oxen drawn covered wagon and partly by boat. In March, 1865 the family moved to Pettis county and settled on a farm about ten miles northwest of LaMonte.

Married in 1869

April 18, 1869, Sarah Isabelle Wade was married to Thomas Milton Bobbitt, a native of Pulaski county, Ky., and a Union veteran of the Civil War. Mr. Bobbitt was a successful farmer and stock raiser, making a specialty of pure bred Poland China hogs.

To Mr. and Mrs. Bobbitt were born four children, Dexter H., who married Carlisle Bright and lives in Sweet Springs, and Cora Bragunier, of the home, and two who are deceased, John Elmer, who drowned in 1911 and Fay A., who died in 1938. Mr. Bobbitt also died in 1911, on April 24.

Mrs. Bobbitt still lives in the home her husband purchased in 1868, three years after he was mustered out of the service at the close of the Civil War.

Oldest Church Member

The oldest living member of the Mt. Zion Christian church of Dunksburg, she attended services regularly as long as she was able and her contributions to the various needs and activities of her church have been many and generous.

Although Mrs. Bobbitt is in very good health for one of her years, she is almost blind and does not hear well. These two things shut her off from the world that she always enjoyed. She can no longer read and she always loved to read, nor can she hear well the radio programs, but she is looking forward to a wonderful birthday anniversary next Sunday, for there are few people who live an entire century—a century that has brought about such great changes in all things.

The Rev. Preston Phillips, in church and educational plant on West Broadway and to dispose of the present property at Fifth street and Osage avenue. The new location would give ample space for a church building, educational facilities, parsonage, parking space and recreational ground for the young people.

Will Meet Needs

The committee has agreed that the plans now under consideration will come nearer meeting our needs and obligations in the years to come. The church sanctuary will seat a maximum of 600; a small chapel will seat 112; individual class rooms for nursery, beginners, primary, junior, intermediates, young people and five adult classes. There will be a daylight basement, with kitchen, Boy Scout room, assembly and banquet room, furnace and storage room. The estimated cost of the building and equipment is $125,000.

A Miniature of Plans

For cultivation and education, E. W. Kettlesen made a miniature church from the proposed plans. The miniature church can be taken apart and a study made of each floor with class rooms, seating arrangement etc. Before definite action can be taken the church membership, after hearing the report of the building committee and their recommendation, will be given an opportunity to accept the report of the committee and to give them authority to proceed with new plans, provided of course, after the requirements of the Discipline of the Methodist Church have been met for relocating and building a new church.

Fifth Street Methodist Church now has 883 members, with an annual budget of $12,000; a Methodist Men's club of 86 members; a Women's Society of Christian Service with 96 members; a Bertha A. Mrs. Sedalia Missouri Webb Is Guest of Daughter Here

Mrs. Sedalia Missouri Webb, wife of Thomas J. Webb, is here for a visit with her daughter, Mrs. W. G. Van Eaton, and Dr. Van Eaton, 1809 East Ninth street. Just how Mrs. Webb received the name of Sedalia Missouri she isn't quite sure, but according to stories told her, her father once had a girl friend here and named her for the town because of that. Her parents, of English and Irish ancestry, had never lived in Sedalia or even Missouri. Their home was in Texas. Most of Mrs. Webb's life was spent in Texas, too, although she did live in Pennsylvania, Oklahoma and at Lees Summit, Mo. While in Missouri she passed through Sedalia a time or so.

The strange part of the story is that her daughter married and finally came to Sedalia to live and now Mrs. Webb is here awaiting the arrival of a grandchild to be born in the town for which she was named.

Born In Canada

Dr. Van Eaton is a Canadian, born in Canada and finishing high school in the state of Washington.

Then he went to Lamoni, Iowa, where he attended Grace-land college and received his bachelor of arts degree, later going to San Antonio, Texas, to attend the Texas Chiropractic college. In January of 1947, in San Antonio, he met the girl who became his bride in December 1947. He could have practiced in Texas, but he had been to Missouri and liked it. He had been to Warrensburg, and thought the country here so pretty that he wanted to settle in Warrensburg. But when the young couple went to Warrensburg they couldn't find a place to live. "Why don't you go to Sedalia?" somebody asked them, "that's a good town."

So last July Dr. and Mrs. Van Eaton came to Sedalia, found a place to live and he has had his office in his home. Soon, however, he expects to have an office downtown.

Mrs. Van Eaton said that she and her husband were not sorry they came to Sedalia, they both liked it from the first and like it better all the time—and, she added, her mother likes it, too.

'Cheaper by the Dozen' Say Members of Large Families

Eight Sedalia families will probably agree it's "cheaper by the dozen," at least one time in their life, because that number of large families will be guests of Joe Ruddick, theatre manager, during the showing of "Cheaper By The Dozen" this week at the Fox Theatre.

The families were picked through the grade school P. T. A. units in Sedalia. It just so happens that the largest family named consists of 12 children, the same number as in the movie, "Cheaper By The Dozen," which stars Clifton Webb, Jeanne Crain and Myrna Loy.

The largest family is that of Mr. and Mrs. Joe Lewis, 1612 South Montgomery avenue. Their dozen children range from two years on up to 26 years of age.

When notified of the invitation, Mrs. Lewis said she would take as many children as possible to the movies. She said, "Of course we can't take two of them, because they live away from Sedalia. The father of this large family, is presently engaged in odd jobs. The Lewis family have lived in and around Sedalia for the past 17 years, and originally come from Florence. Mrs. Lewis has two large lots plowed up for garden space. She said she does a lot of canning during the summer months. They own their own home.

Five Daughters, Seven Sons

The family consists of five daughters and seven sons. They are: Beatrice, 26, married to Lloyd Cole, their home is in Kansas City; Luella, 24, married to Joseph Novak, their home is in Erie, Pa.; Roy Lee, 23, who is married and they reside at 203 West Seventh street; Lena, 19, of the home; Velma, 18, married to Percy Shakes, they reside at 2608 South Washington avenue; Bobby, 15, Walter, 13, Kenneth, 10, Harold, 8, Lloyd, 7, Virginia, 4, and Cecil, 2, all of the home. Bobby is attending Smith-Cotton high school, and the other children of school age are attending Whittier school.

The other large families picked by the various P. T. A. heads are: Nick Hall family, 1819 West Main street, consisting of 10 children; Mrs. Letha Lee's family, 217 East Chestnut street, also consisting of 10 children, with eight of them still in school; the Leroy Piel family, 1310 East Fourth street, consisting of nine children.

The Joseph M. Halloway family, 901 South Montauque avenue, consisting of nine children; the Claude Siron family, 1400 South Warren avenue, consisting of eight children; the Virgil Gatewood family, 705 North Prospect, consisting of seven children and the Charles Glover family, 215 South Quincy avenue, consisting of seven children.

See You at the Club

You missed a mighty nice time at the club Saturday morning if you weren't there. The annual Easter egg hunt was put on with great enthusiasm, especially from the younger set. There were quite a few of the fathers out this time and they enjoyed it too. Dixie cups and cookies were served to about 60 children.

We managed to get some colored movies of the little ones in action and we'll show them some Sunday night soon.

Marilynn Smith the youngest woman golf pro in the business, Allen Tause club champion and John Van Dyne, club president are playing an exhibition match today at 1:30 o'clock and take it from one who knows, the boys have been practicing early and late. Seem to be a little worried about being beaten by a woman. They may get a good deal of razzing from the gallery if they are unable to cope with Marilyn's unusual golfing skill. I hear that the golf course is better than ever this year. Greens are in good shape and many of our golfers are getting off to an early start.

This is the beginning of a new year at the club and we have lots to look forward to. The Spring formal is April 15th. You can bring one local couple. The opening card party is also a chance to bring guests. We'd like some more nice folks to join our club so be thinking about who you will have as your guests for these affairs. The regular Ladies Day card parties will be held on Thursday as usual. Get your reservations in.

For you folks who like to eat out—the club will serve steak or chicken any night but Monday on short notice. Shrimp dinners on Friday and Sunday night family dinners as usual.

Now, I've saved the very best for the very last. WE ARE GOING TO HAVE A SWIMMING POOL AT THE CLUB. The board met and passed on it Friday noon so things are all set. They are going to start on it right away so it will be finished in time for the not weather. It will add a lot to the activities and will give the wives and children something to do while the men are playing golf. Come on out—get "on the ball" and "in the swim!"

The setting of the story behind this picture was in Lawton, Okla. The Lawton story of "The Prince of Peace" is the screen's first and finest passion play. The story is based with the people of Lawton, and dedicated to the Rev. A. Mark Wallock, who originated the Easter Pageants, near Lawton at the Wichita mountain years ago.

The leads in "the story of the life of Jesus" were carried by Millard Coady as Jesus, Darlene Bridges as the Virgin Mary and featured six-year old Ginger Prince.

A cast of over 3,000 persons participated in the filming of the story of Hallmark Productions, Inc.

Preceding the showing of the film George Foreman Hallmark representative gave an interesting discussion of the picture and of the related events surrounding it. It has received wide acclaim by the following: Jimmy Fidler:

"A picture every man, woman and child must see." Louella Parsons: "The Prince of Peace is unmatched in cinema fare." Eleanor and Anna Roosevelt: "The only film ever mentioned on our radio program." Bishop Tomlinson: "A new motion picture of great interest to all decent people."

The regular showing of this picture will start on May 7, and will continue through to the 10th.

Irish Family Saves Home

ST. LOUIS, April 13.—(AP)—An unusual campaign to save the home of an Irish family that found itself in financial trouble has come to a successful conclusion.

Charley E. Riley, his wife and ten children have the $2,292 they needed to save their home in suburban Lemay.

The drive was started by Hugo Eberhardt, a real estate man, who appealed to the 163 Rileys listed in the telephone directory for help.

A lot of them came through. So did people with other names. A final offer of $500 from a chain grocery store put the drive over the top.

One Count on Millett Unproved

NORFOLK, Va., April 13.—(AP)—A Navy general court martial today found "not proved" one of three specifications against Comdr. John R. Millett, former operations officer of the battleship Missouri.

Millett, of Waterloo, Iowa, is charged with negligence and neglect to duty as a result of the grounding of the Mighty Mo in Chesapeake Bay Jan. 17. His court martial ended yesterday.

A naval spokesman explained tonight the court's silence on the other two specifications means it "has found the other two specifications proven or proven in part, and the accused is found guilty as charged or guilty in a lesser degree than charged."

The "lesser degree" could mean Millett was found guilty of conduct prejudicial to good order and discipline.

After making their bare announcement and one specification was found "not proved," the seven members of the court adjourned until tomorrow when they will deliberate on punishment to be imposed.

Child Struck By Truck Dies

ST. LOUIS, April 13.—(AP)—Three-year-old Gregory Rounce, struck by a truck, died yesterday in the office of his father, an osteopath, who tried desperately to save the boy.

Dr. R. T. Rounce was notified of the accident near the family home in suburban overland by a nurse and carried the boy to his office nearby.

The osteopath administered artificial respiration, oxygen and a heart stimulant, but the boy died a few minutes later.

The driver of the truck told police the boy ran into the path of his machine.

Attorney for the plaintiff is James E. Durley.

The best location for a poultry farm is declared by experts to be within the area of a large community, where prices are maintained at top levels.

Supply-Demand Govern Price

WASHINGTON, April 13.—(AP)—Supply and demand will be allowed to determine the price of chickens and turkeys this year without government intervention.

The agriculture department announced today it no longer will maintain a floor under prices of these farm products. Dry peas and American-Egyptian type cotton were removed from the farm price support list earlier this year.

Withdrawals of supports for poultry was decided upon because of their perishable nature and the department's inability to dispose of stocks acquired under support operations.

Eggs and dairy products are the only livestock products being supported. A commitment to support hogs expired March 31.

Support is required by law only for upland cotton, wheat, corn, rice, peanuts, tobacco, potatoes, milk and butterfat, honey, wool and tung nuts. During the war and through last year, the law required supports for a much broader list, including chickens and turkeys.

No Evidence For Grand Jury

KANSAS CITY, April 13.—(AP)—A circuit judge here today decided law enforcement agencies had not uncovered enough evidence in their investigation into the murders of Charles Binaggio and Charles Gargotta to warrant a county grand jury trial.

Circuit Judge Ray G. Cowan, presiding over the criminal division of the court this term, met with law enforcement officials today. He asked them if they had enough evidence to warrant a grand jury or if one would help them in their investigation.

The judge pointed out that a grand jury would cost around $20,000.

"I see no reason for a call to just go through the motions with a grand-stand play," the judge said. "If the grand jury is called it should be done with sincere hopes of success."

He asked Police Chief Henry W. Johnson if he had any evidence worthy of a grand jury's attention.

"On the Binaggio-Gargotta killings we have nothing," Johnson replied.

Sheriff J. A. Purdome said "we certainly haven't developed anything in the case that would warrant a grand jury."

State Offices Were Closed Thursday

JEFFERSON CITY, April 13.—(AP)—State offices remained closed today because of "Thomas Jefferson's" birthday. The third U. S. President's date of birth is generally a holiday in Missouri government.

Gov. Forrest Smith—in the midst of an investigation of the Kansas City police department—was one of the few state workers on the job today. A few offices kept skeleton forces on duty.

Even Kills Dog And Ends Orgy Taking Own Life

HUNTINGTON, W. Va., April 13.—(AP)—Billy Blanks, bright but moody, wiped out his family in a murderous frenzy today. Even the dog.

He killed himself at the end of the rampage. Investigators could find no motive for the butchery.

Detective Azel Bryant said the good looking 18-year-old high school boy used a hammer and a 16-inch butcher knife on his father, mother, and a ten-year-old sister.

Then he set several fires in the two-story home near the downtown district and ducked out the back door, killing the family dog on the way with a swipe of the knife.

Police found him in the garage behind the house two hours later. They ordered him out. There were moons and two pistol shots. Billy died in a hospital of self-inflicted head wounds.

A passerby saw the William A. Blanks home was afire and turned in an alarm. Police and firemen battered their way into the house a little before 3 a. m.

Found Dead In Home

They found the girl, Valinda Brent, beaten and stabbed to death on the charred bed in her room. In another bedroom were the parents, Mrs. Blanks, who was 40, had been stabbed in the back 15 times and her head crushed. The father, a 46-year-old clerk for the Chesapeake and Ohio railroad, was dead on the floor. It looked as if he had been trying to get away.

Everything was neat in Billy's room. His bathrobe hung on a bedpost, his slippers were on the floor alongside. The covers had been turned down but the bed hadn't been slept in.

All the rest of the house was wrecked.

The police started looking for Billy.

He had been arrested twice for stealing cars. Last October, after a mental examination at the federal reformatory at Ashland, Ky., he was put on parole.

Bryant described him as "a sadist—a reader of crime and detective stories."

Lindsey C. Yost, the probation officer to whom Billy has reported weekly since October, said: "Unusual potentialities. If guided in the right direction he could have gone as far as he wished. Everything possible 'had been done for him. Good family. Nothing in his background to indicate he was a criminal. He told me he had moods—sometimes happy, other times depressed. Sensitive and unusually bright. As a youngster he received much attention from his mother and father. Some of the attention was transferred to the sister when she was born."

Bill Passes to Levy Income Tax

WASHINGTON, April 13.—(AP)—A bill that would levy an estimated $112,000,000 in income taxes on life insurance companies for the years 1949 and 1950 was passed by the Senate late today.

Action was by voice vote. Because so few senators were present, it was agreed not to send the bill to conference with the House until tomorrow so that any senator who wishes will have time to move reconsideration.

The measure is an amended version of a bill passed by the House in January to collect an estimated $98,000,000 in taxes on the investment income of life insurance companies for the years 1947, 1948 and 1949.

Because of the way a 1942 tax law has worked out, life insurance companies have escaped paying any income taxes for the last three years. The legislation is designed to correct this quirk on a stop-gap basis.

Katy Official Dies

ST. LOUIS, April 13.—(AP)—Carey Hosmer, 58, assistant to the president of the Katy railroad, died in a St. Louis hospital last night.

He had been employed by the railroad for nearly 44 years, starting out as a messenger boy, and had served it in several Missouri, Oklahoma and Texas cities. Before he came here in 1945, he was superintendent of Katy's northwestern district with headquarters at Wichita Falls, Tex.

Set For Picnic, Then Weather Plays a Trick

COUNCIL BLUFFS, Iowa, April 13.—(AP)—"Wednesday clear and warmer, high temperature in the upper 50's."

That's the way the Council Bluffs local forecast read Tuesday and weatherman E. F. Stapowich remarked to reporter Allen Brown: "Why not have a picnic Wednesday?"

Brown wrote his story that way and what's more they had the picnic—by public demand.

The picnic consisted of a lunch on a park bench while an inch of fresh snow lay on the ground and the temperature hovered in the 30's.

The menu? Crow.

No Action Taken Towards Naming Postmaster For Sedalia Office

No action has been taken as yet, to appoint an acting postmaster for the Sedalia post office, to serve, pending the appointing of a permanent postmaster to fill the vacancy created by the death of Edward P. Mullaley on April 4. Mr. Mullaley had served as Sedalia's postmaster for the past fifteen years.

Guy L. Johnston, 1221 East Seventh street, who has been employed at the Sedalia post office for 36 years, and has been assistant postmaster for the past two years, said the post office duties in Sedalia are being carried on in the same manner, as if Mr. Mullaley was still in charge. He said they were still working under Mr. Mullaley's bond, and this procedure will continue until officials in Washington, D.C., take some action in the matter.

Usually, it is understood, a temporary postmaster is first appointed through the recommendations of a district Congressman, who now happens to be George H. Christopher of Amoret. The temporary postmaster carries on the duties until a permanent postmaster is appointed by the president of the United States.

A Civil Service Job

Although a permanent postmaster's job is a civil service one, it is considered more of a political job. Candidates for the permanent postmastership are usually those with the same party affiliation as the president of the United States and the Congressman of his district.

Before being appointed as permanent postmaster, the candidate is required to take a civil service examination, given by the secretary of the civil service board. The civil service board then certifies the three top candidates taking the test, and the Congressman makes his recommendation to the president.

No Date Set

It is not yet known when the examinations will be given, or whether they will be open examinations, set for a certain day, or if the applicants will be screened by the Congressman to take the test.

Local citizens who have been mentioned for the office are: Emmett Sullivan, Frank T. Armstrong, Stanton Hudson, Frank Monroe, Guy L. Johnston, Emery L. Ellsworth, and D. Kelly Scruton.

Rainmaker Is Successful

NEW YORK, April 14.—(AP)—The weather experts say it probably is just a coincidence, but here's what happened:

New York City's rainmaker made his first try at tipping over the clouds yesterday, and today, they were spilling snow and rain all over the northeast from New York City to Portland, Me.

"I wouldn't say definitely that he had nothing to do with it," said a weather bureau spokesman, "but I doubt it."

The spokesman conceded, however, that it was a little odd for snow to be falling in the middle of springtime. Today's temperatures also were abnormal—25.2 degrees at dawn—a record low for the date.

The weather expert said that the storm formed off the middle Atlantic coast early yesterday—several hundred miles east of the cloud-testing tests—and that the storm now centered over the Massachusetts coastal region. It's moving slowly southward, he added.

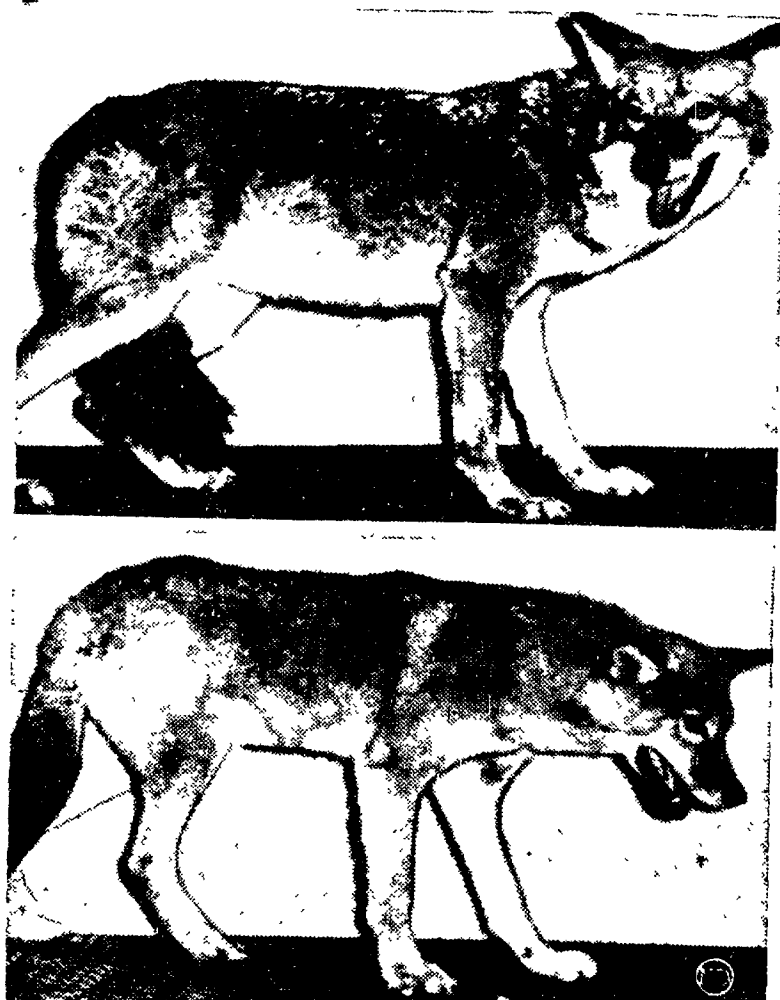

"I wouldn't say the cloud-seeding had no effect on the particular snow in New York," the spokesman said. "But it is most improbable that it affected the general storm system."

Protest Raise in Rates

JEFFERSON CITY, April 14.—(AP)—Two more newspapers have asked the Missouri Public Service Commission for permission to add their protests to a proposed increase in railroad rates for hauling newspapers.

Latest to intervene in the case, which is set for hearing next Tuesday, are the publishers of the St. Louis Post-Dispatch and St. Louis Globe-Democrat. The Kansas City Star entered a protest previously.

New Lights For Two Sedalia Baseball Parks

Specifications According to Engineers' Survey

Sedalia's baseball park at Liberty park and the softball park at Fifteenth street and Center avenue, will be illuminated this year under a new system of lighting. The Sedalia Park Board has awarded the contract for installing additional new lights at Liberty Park and the installation of lights at the softball park, to be completed within the next few weeks.

The Queen City Electric Co. was the successful bidder on the two projects. According to the board, practically all of the bids were less than the board had anticipated it would cost to revamp the Liberty Park field and to light the Southeast Sedalia ball park. The contract was signed today.

Well Lighted Parks
T. W. Hurley today said the projects will give Sedalia one of the best lighted baseball parks outside of the Major and Minor Leagues, in the state. He also said the softball park is to be lighted under the specifications obtained from engineers who are an authority on both baseball and softball light systems. He also said the project at Liberty park is being revamped in accordance with the engineers' specifications.

Before asking for bids for lights the Park Board consulted with Noel T. Tweet, industrial engineer for the Missouri Public Service Co., who made a survey of several parks, and obtained information and specifications from engineers who specialize in this type of lighting. Specifications were submitted on which three electrical companies made bids, L. and G. Electric Co., James Electric Co. and the Queen City Electric Co.

Latest Design Reflectors

According to the specifications on the Liberty Park project, there will be forty-four reflectors of the latest design installed, in addition to all of the reflectors purchased about two years ago and a number of the original reflectors installed nearly eighteen years ago, which will be used. There will be a total of 100 reflectors using 1,500 (Please Turn to Page 6, Col 5)

Three Blind Sisters, Born of Blind Mother, See Objects

SAVANNAH, Ga., April 14.—(AP)—Three little girls who came here sightless two weeks ago left seeing the wonderful world for the first time.

The Hall sisters of Asworth, Ga.,—Eloise, 14, Elaine, 10, and Faye, 7—all were born blind, with congenital cataracts. Their mother, also blind, has never seen her daughters.

Earth Tremor Felt

SEATTLE, April 14.—(AP)—A slight earth tremor was felt in Seattle at approximately 3:05 a. m. today.

Four Seized, 1,000 Cases of Whisky Found

KANSAS CITY, April 14.—(AP)—Charles Carroll, a former north side political boss and ex-convict, and three other men were arrested today and more than 1,000 cases of whisky seized in a raid made by the Federal Alcohol Tax Unit.

The raid was led by E. N. Ahlfeldt, director of the alcohol tax unit and a personal friend of President Truman. He was assisted by a dozen agents. The raid was made at a two-story white frame house at 519 Tracy, a mile from the Truman Road political clubroom where Charles Binaggo, northside political boss was slain a week ago.

Ahlfeldt said he and his men seized 1,053 cases of liquor which had no federal wholesale dealers tax stamp affixed.

Seized Motor Vehicles

They also seized three cars and a truck on which whiskey was loaded.

Carroll succeeded John Lazia as northside Democratic boss after the latter was slain in a spot murder in 1933. Carroll in turn was succeeded by Binaggo when Carroll was sent to the penitentiary for income tax evasion.

Three others arrested with Carroll were Mike Arnone, Carroll's son-in-law, Tony Marcella and Sam Torice.

Carroll and Marcella were in the kitchen when the federal men closed in on the house at 12:30 p. m.

Queer Animal Seen, Heard Near Sedalia

Makes Lots of Hair-Raising Noise, Farmers Declare

A strange animal, which has roamed around the Walnut Grove vicinity, about nine miles northwest of Sedalia, for the past three years, was nearly captured last Tuesday night.

All the neighbors in that area, who live fairly close to a bluff, timberland and Muddy Creek, haven't definitely agreed upon what kind of an animal it is, but they all are sure of one thing, it makes lots of noise, that hair-raising type of noise, as one farmer explained it. He went on further to say, the noise sounded like a panther or a woman screaming.

Clyde Shull, Sedalia, route 3, who hasn't seen the animal lately, but has seen it twice in the past three years, thinks it might be a wildcat, and also believes there is another type wild animal which hides out in the timber land alongside the creek and around a big bluff.

Shull's Description

The description Shull gave of the animal was, built like a bobcat, but unlike the bobcat, it had a long tail, shorter legs, and a pointed head. He said it was burnt brown in color and he imagined it weighs fifty pounds. He said the animal had long whiskers coming out from each side of its face, about four or five inches long.

Ralph H. Mosby, Sedalia, route 3, also is under the belief that there are two different type beasts running wild in that neighborhood. He said his son, Walter, shot nine or ten times at a wild beast last Tuesday night with an automatic rifle, but evidently had missed the animal, which had come up close to the barn that night, making a screaming noise. Mosby said he and his wife were in Sedalia that night.

Ran Into Oat Field

Mosby quoted his son as saying after he shot at the animal, it ran into the edge of an oat field into some buck brush. He related the son said the animal didn't seem to be afraid of him. The boy did not obtain a description of the animal, due to the darkness. He also did not feel like going into the brush after the beast.

Mosby said he has heard the wild screaming noise three times this spring, and has seen some type wild animal twice. The first time he saw it was when he took his boy to school one morning last winter and as the boy stepped out of the car, the animal jumped from a ditch, and ran off about a 100 yards, and then turned around and looked at them momentarily. He gave a description of the animal as being yellow and was the size of a shepherd dog. Mosby said he believed one to be a panther, and the other a bobcat, because one screamed a lot and the other didn't.

He said the farmers in that neighborhood have often missed little pigs. Mosby said the dogs have often chased the wild beast, but the dogs didn't seem to have much luck in capturing the animal.

Other farmers in that vicinity who have heard the strange noises the unknown animal has made through all hours of the night are: Charlie Snow, Junior Riley and Howard Paige.

Called Dentist to Fix Washing Machine

LA GRANGE, Ind., April 14.—(AP)—When K. V. Mellinger has tooth trouble, he naturally thinks of a dentist.

He couldn't see that it made much difference that the cavities happened to be in the teeth of a gear, throwing off the tuning of his automatic washing machine.

It didn't make any difference to Dr. James K. Duff, veteran La Grange dentist, either. He went to work with the same plastic material he uses to fill patients' teeth.

Mellinger said his washer works fine now.

School Closes, Only Two Pupils

MILL SPRING, Mo., April 14.—(AP)—A year's perfect attendance record for the entire student body of Mill Creek school near here was marked up when the school term closed this week, it became known today.

Not only that but Roy Graham graduated from the seventh grade and his sister, Phyllis, graduated from the fifth. They are children of Mr. and Mrs. Matt Graham and only pupils in the school.

Except for one year when they were transferred to Williamsville each has been in a class alone.

Next year the outlook is for doubled enrollment. Another family has moved into the community.

School Board Contends They do Not Know English

OTTUMWA, Ia., April 14.—(AP)—Because they don't know their English grammar as well as they should, 21 Ottumwa high school seniors probably won't get diplomas this spring.

What's more, it's the school board that laid down the requirement.

It all started when the school board sent representatives to ask Ottumwa graduates now attending college if their high school learning had served them in good stead.

"We just don't know our English," the students reported.

When Supt. Frank W. Douma reported these findings to the school board, the board members nodded and remarked: "Just what we've been suspecting all along."

Then Came Order

Then came the order at mid-year to drill the high school juniors and seniors in the English language—on basic 8th and 9th grade grammar.

Douma reported to the board this week on results. He said 21 of the approximately 400 seniors probably were going to fail in English and would not graduate.

Douma asked the board if it wanted to relax the rule on behalf of those hapless students caught in the iron-jawed trap of syntax.

Need Basic English

"It just goes to show how badly they need this basic English," Board President Gerald W. Loeke asserted.

Douma suggested to board members that they may be hearing from parents of the young hopefuls who won't get sheepskins. But the board said it would be shirking its duty if it turned students into the world without a good knowledge of basic grammar.

Some parents are tutoring their offspring at home in an effort to boost them over the language barrier.

Dead Man May Be Missourian

HARDIN, Mo., April 14.—(AP)—A man named John J. Shackelford, 87, has died in Denver, leaving $28,500, and there is some indication he was the Shackelford who lived here 30 years ago.

Relatives in Missouri had not heard from him for many years.

Miss Hattie A. Shackelford, 90, the closest relative, now is an invalid in a nursing home at Excelsior Springs. She said she last heard from her brother many years ago.

Two nephews, Harvey and Alvin Donaldson of Carrollton, said they had not heard word from their uncle for so long they had presumed he was dead.

C. O. Manson, who has been caring for Miss Shackelford's property here, said her brother, a farmer, left 30 years ago declaring he was "never coming back."

Although the man in Denver apparently lived in poverty, public administrators found $28,100 in government bonds and $400 cash in his safety deposit box.

The only clue to his past was a card issued to him by the Hardin Masonic lodge in 1914.

Snow in New York

NEW YORK, April 14.—(AP)—New York City's weather, defying the seasons for the second day in a row, today served up nosediving temperatures and snow at breakfast time.

The mercury hit a record low for the date of 25.2 degrees at 6:45 a. m. (EST), while snow swirled over Manhattan for the second successive morning. The previous April 14 low mark was 28.3 degrees in 1940.

Dewey Tells of Differences In The Parties

Charges Some Republicans Show Selfishness

By Leonard Leddington

PRINCETON, N.J., April 14.—(AP)—Thomas E. Dewey put himself on the far side of the fence today away from any of the Republican party's super-conservative side.

The New York governor said his party's record already had been blemished by individuals whom he accused of hiding selfish motives behind a constant clamor for "free enterprise."

Dewey, who foresaw the role of a defeated presidential candidate for that of a Republican elder statesman, concluded his Princeton University lecture series last night with some annoyed reproof of the "free enterprise" pleaders.

Dewey said the Republicans made up the party of individual freedom as opposed to the Democratic party of big government. But he said the cause of individual freedom had not always been supported unselfishly by some Republicans.

Thinking of Own Interests

"When such men have shouted about 'free enterprises' they have not meant 'free enterprise' at all—they have been thinking of their own narrow interests," the titular head of the Republican party told a university audience of some 1,000.

"From time to time, individual, unrepresentative members of my party, seldom holding public office, have presumed to regard the rights of labor as inferior to the rights of property," Dewey said.

But he insisted that "no Republican president—from Abraham Lincoln to Herbert Hoover—ever endorsed so reactionary a position." He said the GOP could boast today of a long tradition of support of the rights of free labor.

Dewey's talk was scheduled as an academic analysis of the domestic policies of the country's two major political parties, and he was as ruthless with his own as he was with the opposition.

The Difference

He said the choice was between the Democratic party of big government and the Republican way of local rule and individual freedom. "Naturally," he said, "I prefer the Republican approach."

Dewey said the Democrats had more than their share of the faults. Basically, he said, it was because they believed that only the federal government could solve the peoples' problems and only with federal funds, federal personnel and federal controls.

Dewey said the Republicans agreed with the Democrats on the need for numerous basic services that a government should provide for its people.

"I doubt if the most conservative Republican would suggest abandonment of such concepts as unemployment insurance, collective bargaining, bank deposit insurance, regulation of security exchanges and old age and survivors insurance," he said.

Approaches Different

But the difference between the two parties, he said, lay in their respective approach to the solution of the assorted problems. "There are many routes to each objective," Dewey said. "The true liberal will seek every good social objective by the safer route, even though it may be harder or slower."

Dewey said the Republicans agreed that government should have a part in supporting agriculture and guiding labor. But he was firmly opposed to any government plan for compulsory health insurance. He spent almost a third of his 80-minute talk assailing socialized medicine as a financial and medical impossibility.

Enumerators Have Problems

BOONVILLE, Mo., April 14.—(AP)—Howard county census enumerators are meeting with extremes of cooperation.

At one home a dog tore off a census taker's pants, but didn't bite him.

At another the housewife at first refused admittance, saying she didn't want "to buy anything."

When the census man explained the woman said she hadn't heard about the national nose counting, but she was cooperative in answering the questions.

As the census taker turned to leave, she asked:

"And now what do I owe you?"

Balanced Plan May Change

To Meet Defense Needs of North Atlantic, Opinion Of Gen. Bradley

CHICAGO, April 14.—(AP)—Gen. Omar Bradley said today the United States may have to drop its theory of a balanced Army, Navy and Air Force to meet the defense needs of the North Atlantic area.

The chairman of the U. S. joint chiefs of staff indicated that the army might come off third best under such an arrangement. He also observed that by placing American defense plans second to those of the whole western world "a small bit of sovereignty is relinquished."

It would be well worth while, he said.

In an address prepared for the executive club, the former chief of staff of the army reviewed the accomplishments of the recent Hague conference of Atlantic Pact defense chiefs.

A spokesman for a small nation, Bradley said, first raised the question of sovereignty, and thus made "the most significant suggestion" of the conference. He didn't identify the nation.

Bradley said the suggestion involved the possibility of a central body within the framework of the Atlantic treaty, to call signals on the "rate and extent" by which the armed forces of each member nation must be expanded. He didn't say what action was taken on the proposal, but commented:

"Just as the spokesman for that small nation indicated, as these defensive plans develop, traditions will have to give way to reality. "And even our own balance of United States Forces—if we expand beyond the present levels—may have to give way to the theory of national specialization, which will fit into an overall balance for collective defense."

Might Require More Strength
"For example, the North Atlantic Treaty defensive plans might require from us a greater air force, or a greater navy, than we ourselves might be willing to provide."

"With such an arrangement, of course, a small bit of sovereignty is relinquished."

Bradley disclosed that the pact defense chiefs have drawn up general estimates of the forces needed to "hold the common frontiers in the heart of Europe" and to keep open supply lines linking the western allies.

These plans, he said, "need not change" the balance or cost of U. S. military forces this year.

But thereafter, he added, the United States must carefully consider "what our friends can best contribute before we decide what the American dollar should buy for the collective defense."

Bradley said the other members of the alliance realize "they must not wait for the United States to carry the load and pay the bill."

Woman, Babies Die in Fire

ST. LOUIS, April 14.—(AP)—An early morning fire swept through a three-story brick building today just south of the business district, killing a woman and her two babies.

At least two other persons were seriously hurt.

MACKENZIE'S COLUMN

By Dewitt Mackenzie
AP Foreign Affairs Analyst

What an amazing drama that was which the people of Istanbul staged yesterday at the state funeral of Turkey's military hero, Marshal Fawzi Cakmak!

As the Marsh's casket was being carried from the Beyazit Veyazit Mosque to the waiting gun-carriage after the service, a group of citizens seized the coffin and hoisted it to their shoulders. Then they bore it ten miles to the cemetery at the head of a procession of 50,000 through streets lined with hundreds of thousands more. As they marched away they shouted:

"He came from the people! He belongs to the people, and the people will bury him!"

Turks Are Emotional

To understand such a demonstration you must know the Turk. He feels deeply and registers his emotions strongly. I saw an exhibition of this in '38 in Istanbul at the time of the death of the great Kemal Ataturk, father of modern Turkey. Everywhere, in offices and on the streets, men wept openly.

Marshal Cakmak was one of Ataturk's right-hand men. Among the triumphs associated with Cakmak's name was the successful defense of the Dardanelles and Gallipoli in the first world war. He played a major part in that Turkish victory which had such a tremendous effect on the course of the war.

Cakmak's passing will be a sharp reminder of that fateful campaign to all the living military greats and statesmen who were involved. It has been one of the most bitterly disputed military operations of history, but the consensus of experts is that if the Allied plan had succeeded, it would have ended the war two years sooner than the actual conclusion.

Churchill's Brain Child

The Dardanelles project was the brain child of Winston Churchill, and there have been two schools of thought about it. One has maintained that the project wasn't feasible and the other has insisted that it was feasible but was fumbled badly by those who were entrusted with its execution.

Probably that argument never will be settled, but I ran into an interesting sidelight not long after the Allies abandoned the campaign. This was a disclosure by the late Captain George A. Schreiner, newspaperman and author, who was AP war correspondent with the Turkish forces defending the Dardanelles.

Schreiner's career was a colorful one. He had been aide-de-camp to the famous Oom Paul Kruger, president of the Transvaal republic, during the Boer war. He was with Villa in Mexico, and had pursued adventure in many other places. So it wasn't strange that he should be with Marshal Cakmak's forces at the Dardanelles.

Given Up As Failure

The Allied naval attack by British and French warships was given up as a failure on March 18, 1915. Captain Schreiner told me that shortly before the fleet withdrew this day a Turkish officer came to him and said:

"Pack up your stuff, Schreiner, and get ready to move. We can't hold out against this bombardment any longer. We are going to withdraw immediately."

So Schreiner packed, and the defenders were all set to retreat when the Allied warships ceased

BERLIN REDS GET READY FOR "MAYTIME"—Members of Berlin's Frei Deutsche Jugend, Communist youth organization, work on a stadium slated to seat 70,000 persons for a giant May parade and demonstration in the Soviet sector of the German capital. fire. The astonished Turks halted their preparations for evacuation and waited to see what was happening. They got their answer when the fleet sailed away, never to return.

The great Allied military offensive on Gallipoli followed. By the end of July, 1915, that also had failed in a grim welter of death, disease and suffering.

That's how Marshal Cakmak became a hero, and how the Dardanelles campaign perhaps missed a different outcome by a hair's breadth.

Body Of Man Found By Tracks Identified

MARSHALL, Mo., April 14—(P)—The body of a man found near Stanhope, Mo., last April 1 was identified today as that of John Albert Slusher, Kansas City, Kas.

Sheriff L. M. Jacobs said the identity had been established through fingerprints on file with the Federal Bureau of Investigation.

The sheriff said the FBI report showed Slusher was born Oct. 28, 1923, and had a police record.

Arrest Three in Gambling Raid

KANSAS CITY, April 14—(P)—Police arrested three men on gambling charges in a raid on a second-floor room on west Twelfth street Thursday.

Capt. Lester W. Kircher said some stacks of fresh racing forms, a telephone and a dozen chairs were found in the room. Kircher said the telephone was listed under the name of a non-existent toy manufacturing firm.

Jerry Lasker, 46, was charged with possession of gambling equipment and keeping a gambling game. Mike School, 43, and Wilford Olds, 67, were charged with frequenting a gambling game.

It was the second arrest in seven months for Lasker on the same charges. He was released under $100 cash bond, and the other two men under $25 bond each.

Widow States Binaggio Kindly

KANSAS CITY, April 14—(P)—Charlie Binaggio, slain northside boss, was a soft-hearted man who embroidered his baby's clothes, his widow Thursday.

She told police she knew no reason why anyone would want to kill the "kindhearted man who was a soft touch for anyone in need."

Binaggio and Charles Gargotta, a mobster with a long police record, were slain in a Democratic political club on Truman road a week ago.

Police tried with little success today to get a lead from Mrs. Binaggio.

Mrs. Binaggio said that when her husband left home about 7:30 o'clock he told her he was "just going down on the boulevard for a while," and gave no sign of worry.

"He wasn't afraid of anything," she said. "This talk about his having been given a death warrant somewhere around St. Louis—that's ridiculous."

She said Binaggio never had any dealings with Frank Costello of New York, alleged underworld boss.

"He told me he wouldn't know Costello if he saw him," the attractive, 28-year-old widow added.

Mrs. Binaggio described her husband as gentle, kind, and one who had "done nothing but good in all the 41 years of his life. It's about time he received some credit for the good things he did."

He was a devoted father to their child, Anita, 7, who "will always remember him as absolute tops, regardless of what other people say," Mrs. Binaggio continued.

She said her husband liked to embroider and work in his basement workshop and garden. He embroidered the baby clothes for Anita, she said.

Mrs. Binaggio said she had urged him for a long time to get out of "his business."

"Then he told me he was quitting. In a few more days he would have quit and gone away with me, just gypsy style with no definite idea of where we were going."

She said she could not understand why he was killed.

"I hit a blank wall every time I think about who could have done it," she added.

Meter Boxes Key Missing Also Coins From Boxes

OKLAHOMA CITY, April 14—(P)—Someone has a key to the city and officials don't like what it's opening.

Traffic engineer Owen Smith said the parking meter locks will be changed unless the key is found.

Crowds Attend Crusade at Baptist Church

The services of the Evangelistic Crusade being held at the First Baptist church are growing in interest and attendance from day to day. The preaching being done by Dr. McKinley Norman, the congregational singing led by Carl Yessen and the special numbers of music being rendered, are all of a high order and are being deeply appreciated by the large numbers of people present.

The services will continue next week, closing Sunday evening, April 23. The day services are being held at 9:30 a. m. Tuesday through Friday, and the evening services at 7:30 throughout the week. It is expected that all of these hours of worship will draw increasing numbers of people until the closing day. The two Sundays of the meeting are expected to be high days with an unusual attendance in Sunday school, Training Union and worship services.

Program for Next Week
The evangelist, Dr. Norman, has outlined a program for the day services next week which calls for the cooperation of all members of the Sunday school and other groups in the church. The evening services will give special emphasis to individual groups as follows: Monday, Family night; Tuesday, Woman's Missionary Society; Wednesday, Sunday school; Thursday, Men of the church; Friday, Baptist Training Union and Saturday, Youth Rally.

The First Baptist church is one of nine churches in Pettis county participating in the Evangelistic Crusade. The other eight churches are: East Sedalia and Calvary in the city, Hughesville, Green Ridge, Camp Branch, Memorial, Dresden and Walnut Branch.

Magnolia Blossoms Nipped in the Bud
The magnolia trees that were in full bloom over the city the first part of the week in their springtime dress of pink tulip shaped flowers by the hundreds were a sorry sight Thursday.

Wednesday night, when the temperature went to a low of 22 degrees, the delicate pink flowers were nipped and became crumpled looking and a deep bronze shade similar to the dead leaves that fall from maples in the autumn. Instead of trees filled with fresh pink blossoms there are now trees of dead bronze colored blossoms.

Bridal Party Clothes Shown At Flower's Style Show

More than a hundred persons attended the style show at Flower's Thursday night at which were modeled a bride's complete trousseau, as well as clothes for her mother for various occasions and the bridal costumes of the bridesmaid and flower girl worn at the wedding.

Starting with a selection of things that a bride will need, that will make her a complete wardrobe at any time, were shown travel clothes, suits and blouses that can be worn together or separately, regular play clothes and dresses that will do for street wear or parties later.

Usable clothes were stressed and the wedding was planned to show at what a small cost a beautiful formal wedding may be planned. Weddings may be reasonable or just as expensive as the bride cares to have them and all clothes modeled were from the complete line of clothes that may be found in the bridal room at Flower's. In addition to the dresses and traveling clothes in the bride's trousseau were also undies of satin and lace, a white satin gown trimmed with chanelly lace as well as a blue batiste negligee. The dresses included those for the rehearsal dinner and announcement party.

Bridal Procession
The bridal procession concluded the style show with Mrs. Leo Eickhoff as the bride's mother, in an aqua dress with dyed to match aqua lace.

Pamela Metcalf, five year old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John Metcalf, was flower girl and wore a full length dress of white satin with nylon net and rucking. She carried spring violets and wore violets in her hair.

Miss Gene Sullivan, as bridesmaid, wore a lilac taffeta dress, full length with a halo hat of lilac horsehair net. She carried purple violets, centered with a pale pink rose and tied with purple velvet ribbon.

The bridal gown was worn by Miss Virginia Berry. The traditional white satin gown was fashioned fitted bodice, and full skirt which lengthened into a train. The waist, buttoned down the front with white satin buttons, had a small simple collar and the sleeves were pointed at the cuffs. Her net veil was finger-tip length and fell over a white prayer book to which were attached lilies of the valley and lilac satin ribbon.

The friend who served at the reception was Miss Markie Walker who wore a navy marquisette dress, ankle length, appliqued in pale pink pique.

Patrol Report On Accidents

Accidents in Pettis county for March, reported by the State Highway Patrol, numbered nine and created estimated damage of $4,045. The accidents reportable for the first three months of the year were 24 and property damage estimated at $9,535.

Captain O. L. Viets, commanding officer of Troop A, Missouri Highway Patrol, Lee's Summit, in making his regular report, shows no fatalities in the county during the three month period, compared to one death in the same period a year ago.

Injuries for March were nine; for the three months 21 compared to 13 injured in the three month period of 1949.

The three month comparison of 1949 shows only 22 accidents, while the property damage amounted to $15,355. Thus, 1950's property loss is $5,820 less than the previous year.

Captain Viets reports his eleven county area had 532 accidents for the first three months compared to 451 for the same period a year ago. His report also shows 20 persons killed in the same period of time this year compared to 19 in 1949. There were 423 persons injured and property damage estimated at $236,736.00 for the first three months of 1950.

Of the sixty-six members, sixty are adults.

Gifts Ready for New Bishop

The Women's Auxiliary of the Diocese of West Missouri will present the Very Rev. Mr. Edward Randolph Welles with a gift of vestments following his elevation to bishop at consecration rites on Wednesday, April 19, at Grace and Holy Trinity Cathedral in Kansas City.

The vestments were purchased from pledges so that any woman who had any part in a parish organization throughout the diocese might feel that she played a personal part in the presentation.

Following his consecration as bishop, the Very Rev. Mr. Welles will be given the Episcopal ring that his grandfather, the first Edward Randolph Welles, wore at his consecration as bishop of Wisconsin in 1874. The ring which comes from grandfather to grandson was given originally to the Wisconsin bishop by his brother, Samuel Russell Welles, M. D.

The ring presentation to the new bishop of West Missouri will be made by his only brother, Samuel Gardner Welles, associate editor of TIME magazine. Mr. Welles lives with his mother at Buttonwood Farm, Crosswicks, N. J.

The pastoral staff to be used by the new bishop was once the property of the first bishop of West Missouri, the late Rt. Rev. Edward Robert Atwill.

The acting chairman of layman's work in the diocese, Mr. Laurence Stales, will present a new pectoral cross of the Very Rev. Mr. Welles at the time of his vesting. The gift will be made in behalf of the laymen of the diocese.

• The Washington Merry-Go-Round Oil For Lamps of China to Run Low

By Drew Pearson

WASHINGTON.—The American embassy in Moscow has cabled that a giant Soviet bureau has been set up to find oil for the Russian war machine.

Oil fields in the Russian caucuses have started to run dry, and the Russian general staff is frantically trying to develop new sources. This is one of the most important developments in the cold war because, without oil, the Russian war machine would be paralyzed.

As a result, Molotov has rushed hundreds of Russian geologists to Sinkiang province in Communist China to look for oil, and has ordered urgent priorities for drilling in Kirghizia, in central Asia and on Sakhalin island.

British Diplomacy Boomerangs

U.S. Ambassador Douglas in London has cabled the sensational though confidential news that the British may cancel their recognition of the Chinese Communists.

Foreign Minister Bevin, he says, is burned up because three months have passed and the Chinese Communists haven't even bothered to acknowledge Britain's announcement of recognition.

That announcement is now considered one of Britain's worst diplomatic boners, causing her to lose prestige throughout the world. Furthermore, instead of making it easier to protect Britain's $2,000,000,000 investment in Hong Kong, it has boomeranged. The Chinese Communists have let it be known that, before even accepting British recognition, they want to reopen the Sino-British treaty which gave Hong Kong to Britain. They also demand British support for a seat on the U.N. Security Council.

Congressmen Play Hokey

One measure of a Congressman's worth to his constituents is the number of times he sticks around to vote.

The public doesn't realize it, but absenteeism has now become a congressional racket in Congress. Too many Congressmen, especially from eastern states, spend their time week-ending instead of earning their $15,000-a-year salaries in Washington.

The practice has become so flagrant that certain big lobbies have arranged to have crucial votes taken on week-ends to take advantage of the absence of these "homing pigeons." Recently, for instance, Speaker Sam Rayburn and his friends in the gas lobby carefully scheduled the Kerr gas bill vote on a Friday night because its big-city foes were week-ending in New York and Chicago.

As a result, the natural gas lobby squeezed its bill through the House by a close vote of 176 to 174, thereby sure to raise gas rates to housewives in the same big cities where the Congressmen were week-ending.

The practice has become so bad that the Merry-Go-Round plans to expose the worst offenders. First, let's call the roll of those who don't answer roll calls among the House Republicans:

The "I T and T" Club

Most noted members of the "I T and T" club (in Tuesday and out Thursday) are staunch Republican Representatives Kingshead Macy of Long Island and Frederic Coudert of New York City. Out of a total of 342 quorum and roll calls in this Congress, Macy has missed 203 and Coudert 202. In other words, these two Congressmen were absent almost 60 per cent of the time.

Representative Dean Taylor of Troy, another New York Republican, has the dubious distinction of being third on the list of GOP "hokey players." He missed a total of 190 out of 342 quorum and roll calls. Congressman Charles Plumley of Vermont is close behind, with 171 misses, while Richard Hoffman of Berwyn, Illinois, was absent 168 times out of 342.

The remainder of the 25 House Republicans with the worst attendance records in Congress are:

William L. Pfeiffer of Kenmore, N.Y., 159 absences (out of 342); Harry Towse of Rutherford N.J., 154 absences; Paul Shafer of Battle Creek, Mich., 149; Cliff Clevenger of Bryan, Ohio, 132; Frank Fellows of Bangor, Maine, 131; Thruston Morton of Kentucky, 127; John Jennings of Knoxville, Tenn., 124; Hugh Scott of Philadelphia, 122; Leonard W. Hall of Oyster Bay, Long Island, 120.

Also, Gardner Withrow of La Crosse, Wis., 119; Ralph Gwinn of Bronxville, N.Y., 118; Charles Elston of Cincinnati, Ohio, 113; Dewey Short of Galena, Mo., 112; Edwin A. Hall of Birmingham, N.Y., 109; Sterling Cole of Bath, N.Y., 97; Chauncey Reed of West Chicago, Ill., 96; Clarence Kilburn of Malone, N.Y., 95; Noah Mason of Oglesby, Ill., 94; Carl Hinshaw of Pasadena, Calif., 93, and Charles Halleck of Rensselaer, Ind., 92.

An "absentee" roll call on House Democrats will follow shortly.

DULLES MANEUVERING—Inside fact about the John Foster Dulles appointment as special adviser to Secretary of State Acheson is that Dulles flatly refused the post when first tendered by Acheson. He wanted something more important, so Acheson got Truman reluctantly to agree that Dulles later could be made assistant secretary of state, with a commitment that he would become undersecretary of state if able and popular James Webb should resign.

OLD ROOSEVELTIAN—Able Undersecretary

of Defense have already been arranged with the Pullman company, for whom he used to work, to remain in government for a limited period of time. When he leaves, the new Secretary of the Army, Frank Pace, will succeed him. Secretary of Defense Johnson wants his old American Legion buddy, Paul Griffith, to get the job, but Griffith is a Republican and doesn't rate with the White House.

CHURCHILL CHAFES—Winston Churchill is pressing hard for an early British election, but with no enthusiastic support from the Tories. Churchill knows his political days are numbered, wants to get back into the saddle as soon as possible. However, there is little sentiment in England—Tory or otherwise—for an immediate election, and it probably won't take place until the fall.

Bipartisan Group Might Probe Without Politics

By Bruce Blossat

Senator Lodge thinks the Senate's current inquiry into alleged Communists in the State Department is a poor way to promote loyalty among government workers. He proposed that a bipartisan commission be selected to take over the investigation.

According to Lodge, the probe inspired by Senator McCarthy is doing more harm than good as now conducted. Any inquiry on such a pattern, he said, besmirches innocent people, weakens the nation's standing before the world, fails to turn up the really dangerous individuals and may actually make their job easier by putting the spotlight on others.

This isn't the first time a private commission has been suggested to take over investigations begun by Congress. Similar proposals were made during the last year's probes of atomic energy security and the B-36 bomber procurement program.

This idea keeps cropping up because many fair-minded persons in and out of Congress deplore the fact that these inquiries seem inevitably to degenerate into bitter partisan squabbles in which truth gets lost in the shuffle.

The power of Congress to investigate is one of its most vital functions. Obviously laws can't be wisely drawn without a solid factual footing.

Yet this power is perhaps the most abused of all those enjoyed by the lawmakers. Too often the partisan members of congressional committees set out in pursuit, not of all the evidence, but of just those facts that will support the conclusions they have reached in advance.

Politics being what it is, perhaps this is unavoidable. If it is, then severe limits obviously must be placed on the value of congressional inquiries.

In that event, then there indeed seems to be wisdom in these repeated calls for independent, private commissions to study serious issues which plainly are difficult to thresh out in the rough and tumble of the political arena.

As Lodge's colleagues already have pointed out, it's undoubtedly too late to shift the present probe from Congress to an outside group but the next time it's necessary to dig into a problem as grave and as loaded with political dynamite as State Department security, the commission idea ought to be tried.

Some European defense experts think the United States ought to have virtually a permanent garrison of troops stationed in Western Europe. According to this proposal, our soldiers would be based for many years in Germany or France, or perhaps both countries.

The idea is said to be that American troops would provide leadership for Europe's defense forces and also would tend to calm French nerves in event the Germans take part in the western powers' defense arrangements.

Almost certainly there's another unspoken reason why this suggestion is being made. Western Europeans find themselves unable to forget this country's isolationist past. Despite the recovery program, the North Atlantic Treaty, foreign arms aid and the proposed "Point Four" plan for development of backward areas, Europe always has a lurking fear that we will again draw back into our shell.

The presence of U. S. troops on European soil would be the strongest possible assurance that we would be involved in any new conflict that might get started there. Any assault by the Soviet Union upon Western Germany or France would mean an attack on American soldiers. They would fight back, and so would the rest of us.

Consequently the U. S. uniform in Europe is a greater comfort to skeptical Europeans than this country's signature on any number of formal defense pacts. Alliances can be repudiated or ignored, but a nation seldom abandons its outpost forces to any enemy without a fight.

Yet even if Europe believed American isolationism quite dead and that our participation in a common defense was assured no matter where our soldiers were stationed, its statesmen undoubtedly would still look to us for military leadership.

Europe has no lack of manpower to pour into defense units. But Britain, France, Italy and the smaller nations no longer have the economic and financial resources to support huge land armies in the field. They are all hard put to keep on their feet without such expenditures. The very limited goal of 36 Atlantic Pact divisions by 1955 will be difficult to attain.

With Europe clearly looking to the U. S. for the economic sinews needed to beef up its defense forces, it is perhaps only natural that it turn to us also for the leadership those units require.

Whether we like it or not, the brutal facts of the postwar era have cast this country as the leader of the free nations both in the diplomatic sphere and in the realm of military defense. It does not seem likely we shall be able to escape playing this role to the hilt.

Call For a Relief Man

If the betting fraternity has the right hunch, the name of Joseph McCarthy will be much in the headlines all through the spring and summer.

But fortunately for the average American, whose capacity for boredom is surely not unlimited, it will probably not be Sen. Joseph McCarthy of Wisconsin. Luck good and the New York Yankees willing, it will be old Marse Joe, manager of the high-stepping Boston Red Sox.

BRINGING UP ANYTHING TOUCHY

1 John 1:5-10; 2:1-2

Since you have begun to bring up everything to the light you are ready for the second step: (2) Anything that appears touchy bring up gently, but decisively. Perhaps this sensitive spot is your difficulty. If so, segregate it, and see what is to be done about it. Don't push it down out of sight and try to forget it. That makes it work havoc at a deeper depth—in the subconscious mind. Perhaps your difficulty is hidden resentment, something you had pushed down into the subconscious mind and put the lid on. Now it is up, and you are looking at it frankly.

A farmer allowed one of his neighbor's calves to be merged into his own herd and sold with the rest. But every time he looked to God he could see nothing but that calf! Only when he confessed and restored did he find peace with himself and fellowship with God.

A young lady suspected that a hidden resentment against a minister for whom she had worked was the cause of her sense of a spiritual blank wall. She wrote a letter saying she was sorry for the resentments and kept it several days, hoping the mere writing of it would suffice. But the mind is a relentless thing—it won't say peace when there is no peace. Only when she had dropped the letter into the mailbox did peace and release come.

Don't do as a high-school girl of 14 recently did. She was intelligent and beautiful. She came to me and said, "I'm like that girl you spoke about—all inwardly empty; worse, I'm in a tangle. I've been kicked out of four high schools and about to be kicked out of the present one. Isn't it too late to do anything now?" Too late at 14! She had concocted new lies to cover up old ones, and life had gone on from tangle to worse tangle, until now the law was closing in on her for forgery of checks. She started to be frank and have me help her, then suddenly decided to run away literally—and did. She ran away from her surroundings, but not from herself.

Bring up everything that appears touchy.

O God, when I begin to untangle my life, help me to go clear through with it. Help me to come clean; for compromise will only compromise my happiness, and any pulling back will only pull me back from release and from Thee. I'm going all the way through. Amen.

The Doctor Says—

Don't Give Alcohol to a Child to Discourage Later Drinking Habits —It Just Won't Work

By Edwin P. Jordin, M. D.
Written for NEA Service

I can't understand why some people do some of the things that they do.

Q—My two-year-old son likes beer and wine very much. All my friends say to give it to him because it won't hurt him and if we give it to him now he won't drink when he grows up, but I don't know.

R. A. H.

A—Beer and wine contain alcohol and a small child is susceptible to even small quantities of alcohol. Instead of discouraging him from drinking when he grows up, the chances are that the opposite will be true. Don't do it.

Q—What is malignant hypertension and what are the symptoms?

A. W. R.

A—Malignant hypertension is a term used to describe a serious and rapidly progressive form of high blood pressure. The cause is not yet known. The symptoms vary but severe headache is one of the common early signs.

Q—Does the change of life have to start at 40? Could it begin in a woman who has had an operation in the middle 30's?

Doubtful.

A—The change of life is not considered to be a sudden process but rather a gradual one extending over many years. Evidence may begin at 40 or several years earlier or later. An artificial menopause can be produced by removing both ovaries and when this happens, changes begin at the age when the operation is performed.

Q—What causes the feet and legs to swell?

J. B.

A—The most common causes are heart disease and diseases of the kidneys. Certainly both of these organs should be investigated

Distant Star

THE STORY: Clemency Norton is a young girl who lives in a small town in Syria and Jon Ambery who lives with her. She is a very beautiful girl and she is very intelligent. She is a very good student and she is a very good friend. She is a very good person and she is a very good woman.

X

AFTER a morning of irritation, the scene between Jon Ambery and Syria was the last straw for Clemency Norton.

"I hope you didn't mean it," she repeated. "It's upsetting for any child to have to stay indoors day after day," she said keeping her voice even with an effort and Baba is very highly strung. But she has been extremely naughty all the morning, and now she is thoroughly excited. If I may say so," she looked at Syria. "I think it would have been better if Mr. Ambery had not interfered. I can usually coax her round—unless she thinks that somebody else is on her side."

"You simply ruin Baba, Jon!" exclaimed Syria with such cold viciousness that Clemency was startled. "You always have made a fool of yourself over the child, and you've no right to interfere in the nursery. Miss Norton knows best what is good for Baba and if were ner I would not out up with your interference for a minute."

That was perhaps not quite fair, out without waiting to hear any out from Ambery white with anger flung out of the room shouting the door sharply behind him. Syria shrugged her shoulders. "It's obvious where Baba gets her temper! I warned you that Jon would utterly ruin her if he were allowed to."

Clemency made no comment; the whole scene had been extremely distasteful. Syria only lingered to tell her that she was expecting some friends tomorrow.

ted in the presence of swollen feet and ankles. Obstruction to the flow of blood away from the legs such as occurs in the presence of varicose veins may also cause swelling. There are several less common causes such as a disease running in families known as Milroy's disease.

Q—What causes extra systoles and what can be done for it?

A—Most peoples have extra systoles at one time or another. In most cases they are not considered to represent any disease of the heart but are merely extra beats which do not interfere with the proper functioning of that organ. Sometimes reducing the amount of smoking or taking other measures to improve the general health seem to do away with the extra systoles.

Q—Is it necessary to have an operation for a hydrocele which does not produce any pain or other symptoms?

E. C. L.

A—Each condition of this sort has to be judged individually. There has been some work done with the treatment of hydroceles by means of injecting sclerosing solutions which cause an inflammation in the sac and the development of scar tissue. As a rule, operation is the treatment of choice.

Q—Some time ago I read an article describing a new cure for ulcers of the stomach called Duodenum. What has happened to this cure?

H. O. W.

A—So far as I know this drug has not received general acceptance and is rarely if ever prescribed by specialists treating ulcers of the stomach.

and would like Baba—if she were behaving herself—to be brought downstairs after tea.

BY the time her charge was safely up for the night, the weather showed signs of clearing; but even if the rain had still been torrential, Clemency knew that she could not have stayed in another minute.

Warning Louie to listen to her, Baba woke up and wanted anything, she put on her mackintosh, and trying a handkerchief over her head, sallied forth.

Clemency hesitated. It would soon be very dark, and though somewhere up there a moon was growing towards the full, its light would probably be dimmed. But she felt she needed more freedom of exercise than just walking round the tiled paths of the courtyard gave scope for, and decided to go along the road; she would hardly be likely to meet anyone unfriendly.

About half a mile along, the road forked one portion of it running down to the banks of the small river which watered the oasis. There were some flat stones, and sitting down on one of them, Clemency pulled the handkerchief off her hair, and raising her face, took a deep breath.

She remained musing while the African darkness, which falls like a suddenly dropped cloak, had come down over the land. She was trying to make up her mind to move, when the sound of a quick firm step on the road behind her made her turn her head sharply.

"Good gracious, I thought you were a ghost! What on earth are you doing here, Miss Norton?" exclaimed Piers Ambery.

"COLONEL AMBERLEY! I'm not a ghost! I'm equally relieved to find that you not a wandering nomad."

Clemency was already on her feet; her heart was beating very fast indeed now.

"A wandering nomad is perhaps the most likely danger you might meet," he replied. "Sitting about on boulders without first investigating what may be lurking around, is not an altogether safe pastime in these parts. St. Patrick never visited Algeria."

"Snakes!" exclaimed Clemency. "Oh, no. I never dreamt of snakes."

"Quite seriously, Miss Norton," he said, "you ought not to be so far from the house as this, alone after dark. I can vouch pretty well for the regular inhabitants of Sidi Barata, but there is always the chance of that wandering nomad who might have dishonest intentions; or even some mad fanatic. That great space is not altogether uninhabited—we've had some queer characters drift in occasionally. And even here there are echoes of what is brewing further East—though, thank goodness, they are faint at present."

She said half apologetically: "I didn't really mean to stay out long. I only came for a breath of fresh air."

Reading between the lines, he understood more clearly than he would have given him credit for doing.

"I gather there was a spot of trouble today."

Clemency felt that she did not want to discuss it with him.

"Oh—nothing very much," she said, and could have kicked herself. Why must she sound so prim and "governessy," just because she was talking to Piers Ambery?

"My niece can be something of a handful," said Piers. And that was his sole comment.

"I won't get into mischief again," she promised, when they were in sight of the outer walls of the house now. "I will go in this way. Good night, Colonel Ambery, and—thank you."

"Good night—" But she had already opened the door leading to the nursery courtyard. It closed softly, and she was gone.

Piers paused to light a cigaret before he resumed his walk. An odd young woman. Difficult to get to know.

Dull Life is Made up Of a String of Boring Days

What are you going to do today that you really look forward to with anticipation and pleasure? Nothing? How depressing—and how foolish.

String a lot of days like that together and you've got a pretty dull life.

That's all a dull existence is, anyhow, just a lot of days that give no real pleasure added one to the other until a boring existence is finally achieved.

The only way to prevent that is to take care of each day as it comes along, to make it give you at least one thing you want.

So what will it be today? Nobody else can tell you what it should be. For only you know what things give you a lift, make you feel alive and leave you with the feeling that the day has held something worth while.

Forget Excuses—Do Something

Think about it a few minutes. What would you really like to do?

Forget the "if I weren't so busy" and "if I could afford this or that." Drop the excuses and decide that today you are going to do something you especially want to do.

You can manage one thing, at least, out of the list of things that come to mind.

And tomorrow you can manage something else. But don't wait until tomorrow to get started. That is the mistake most of us make.

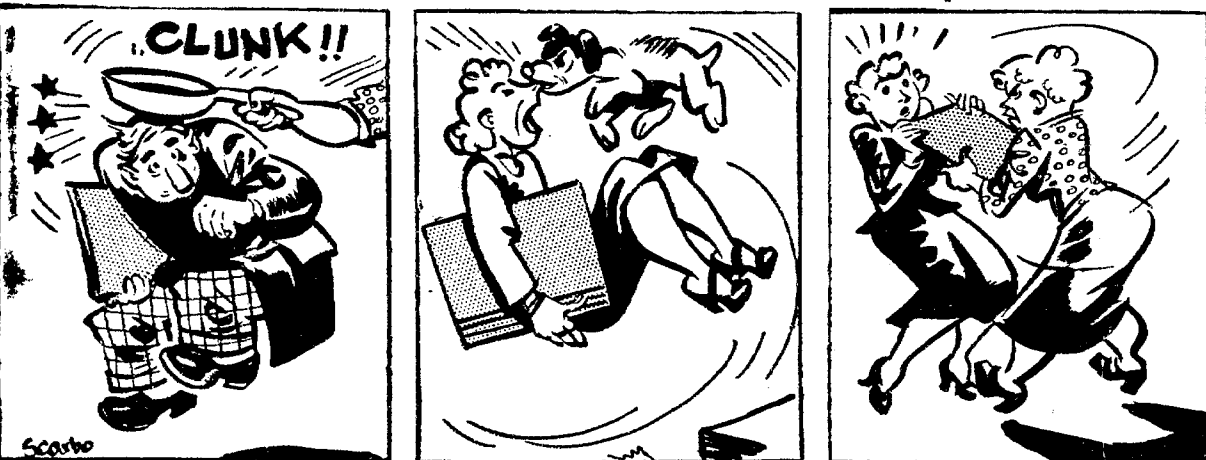

Tuesday is a link in that chain of boring existence—unless the link is broken.

Woes of the Census Takers ---

Though they're out for the count, Uncle Sam's 150,000 census enumerators are not down yet. Here are some of the trials and tribulations encountered by these hardy pavement pounders in their temporary jobs of counting all 151,000,000 of Uncle's nieces and nephews.

"I'm not answering any questions," said an eastern housewife as she conked the C-man over the head with a frying pan

Dog bites are the most common hazard, but one Philadelphia enumerator was bitten square on the nose.

A Seattle housewife grabbed the census forms and smudged out all the answers the C-woman had collected.

"Ask me now, I'll be just as drunk next week," said an Oklahoman when the census taker offered to chat later.

This is the most frequent question put to the census workers at regional offices around the country. There's a reason.

Kansas City Woman Tells of Talking To One That Evening

KANSAS CITY, April 14.—(P)—The Kansas City police department, under criticism since the slaying last week of political leader Charles Binaggio, today had the full backing of Gov. Forrest Smith.

The governor told a news conference at Jefferson City:

"We feel that the police department as a whole is doing the best it can to keep down crime and to solve the recent murders."

Binaggio, northside Democratic boss, and his henchman, Charles Gargotta, were shot down in their political headquarters on Truman Road.

Officers questioned Mrs. Gargotta yesterday. They said the interview failed to produce any important information. Mrs. Binaggio was questioned the previous day.

One Is Released

Lieut. Harry C. Nesbitt, head of the police homicide bureau, today released a waiter who was arrested yesterday after he had boasted he shot Binaggio and Gargotta. Nesbitt said the man was drinking when he made the statement and today told police he was sorry to have caused so much trouble.

Mrs. Binaggio yesterday described her husband as a person who has "done nothing but good in all 41 years of his life."

She added: "It's about time he received some credit for the good things he did."

Police said they had learned from Miss Blanche Howard that Gargotta had made an appointment to see her the night he was slain.

Talked to Gargotta

Miss Howard, under a civil contempt citation from a federal grand jury for evasive answers about her relationship with Gargotta, was quoted by police as saying she had telephoned Gargotta at about 7 p. m. the night of April 5 at the Last Chance tavern where he worked as a gambler.

Miss Howard, a county employee, related to police that Binaggio's musclemen had told her he had some business to take care of "but it shouldn't take more than 30 or 40 minutes" and that Gargotta indicated he probably would be able to see her around 9 p. m.

Police said Miss Howard complained she had given Mrs. Irene Sarno, an associate of Mrs. Binaggio in a fur concession business here, $7,500 to keep for her and only $4,000 of that money was located in Mrs. Sarno's office.

Mrs. Sarno died recently.

Turned Money Over

Yesterday Mrs. Sarno's husband, Louis Duke Sarno, made application to the probate court to turn over to Miss Howard $4,000 which he said had been found in Mrs. Sarno's safe deposit box in an envelope marked "Blanche Howard."

Meantime in Chicago two Kansas City police detectives met with police ballistics experts there to check six bullets removed from the bodies of Binaggio and Gargotta. Frank Collins, chief of detectives here, said the men, Lester Haupt, head of the robbery detail, and William Myers, police laboratory technician, had turned over to Chicago authorities the names of hoodlums in that area who are known to have visited Binaggio.

Collins said the Kansas City detectives planned to stop at St. Louis on their return trip and check with ballistics experts there.

102nd Birthday In the Air

NATICK, Mass., April 14.—(P)—Lively Mrs. Lydia Stevens is celebrating her coming 102nd birthday in the air.

She took a plane ride over scenic North Shore area yesterday—but didn't think much of it until she took over the controls.

Then she said, "I loved it."

And Mrs. Stevens, who last flew on her 90th birthday, said she intends to do a great deal more flying.

She told the pilot of the dual control plane that the trip was "uneventful" so he turned over operation of the ship to her for a few minutes.

Mrs. Stevens, a native of Lubec, Me., who lives at the Lakeside rest home, will be given a flight over Cape Cod area today.

And on Saturday—her birthday—she will be flown by the American Airlines from Boston to New York.

With a gleam in her eyes, she said she probably will allow all the crew members on that flight to give her a big kiss.

"I let the men kiss me because they can tell their friends they have kissed a girl over 100 years old."

English Doctor To Speak at Convention

State Meeting of C. of C. to be in Jefferson City

Jefferson City—A successful English physician who gave up everything he had in his native country and came to the United States "to find freedom in medicine as well as freedom as an individual," will tell of his experiences under the British socialized program at the annual convention of the Missouri State Chamber of Commerce here Wednesday.

The principal address was given by Dr. Albert Iverson, of New York City, director of Church Relationship of the National Council of Boy Scouts of America.

Governor Forrest Smith will formally accept the statue in behalf of the state.

Those making the trip to Jefferson City for the dedication were Rev. A. J. Brunswick, Harry Nangle, Chester Wolfe, Harold Seaberg, Fred Kueck, Stansel DeFoe and members of Explorers' Ship, No. 59, sponsored by the Elks club.

The price of natural gas could go up at the well, as a result of the bill's curb on the authority of the Federal Power Commission to control these prices. If so, what industries would be the big gainers? What industries would be hit by it, financially?

The bitter dispute over the Kerr bill has been just as much a squabble between various industries and parts of industries as a political fight—"The $4 billion a year natural gas industry vs. 13 million consumers"—or a sectional battle in Congress, between the southwestern producing areas and the midwestern and northwestern consuming cities.

Dr. Ralph J. Campbell, lately of Manchester, England, is now interning in a San Francisco hospital to qualify to practice medicine in this country. The physician, who is 33 years old, is a graduate of the University of Manchester and served five years in the medical branch of the Royal Air Force during the war. Afterwards he engaged in general practice for two years under the government-controlled medical system. He will speak at the convention banquet.

Another speaker will be Louis Bromfield, the well-known Ohio writer and conservationist, owner and operator of Malabar Farms. He will be the noon luncheon speaker.

Also on the program will be Philip Willkie of Indiana, legislator and son of the late Wendell Willkie, and Dr. Laurence M. Gould, president of Carlton College, Northfield, Minn., educator, lecturer and explorer.

The convention is open to the public.

New Lights For Two Sedalia Baseball Parks

Higher Poles

The two short poles in the outfield will be replaced by higher poles, which are 70 feet in height. The six poles which held the original light system will remain as they are. The cross bars on the old poles will be revamped and the lights placed and focused according to the Engineers specifications.

The overall illumination from the new lights and in accordance with the new specifications, will more than double the light efficiency, Hurley said.

The reflectors of the Westinghouse design are being used.

Six poles will be set at the Southeast park and four at the reflectors installed using 1,500 watt bulbs. The arrangement also is to be used in accordance with the latest specifications in lighting softball parks.

First Lights in 1930

The Liberty park baseball diamond was first lighted in July, 1930, and the first game under these lights was played July 8, 1930 between the old Sedalia Athletics and Boonville, Sedalia losing the game 4-2. At that time the Sedalia park was the first lighted baseball diamond west of the Mississippi river. They were installed at a cost of more than $4,500.

Hal Boyle COLUMN

By Hal Boyle
NEW YORK — (P) — "Money must have a heart," said Floyd Cramer, who is a bank president. Cramer is an unusual banker. He thinks business has lost its political influence in this country because it has lost touch with the common man.

"Business has complained a lot about the welfare state but done nothing to stop it," he said. "It is up to industry now to take the bull by the horns and show the American public it is not against reform."

"In my opinion business has shirked its social responsibility. That is why it has very little voice in government today. It has misused its power."

"And it can return to political power only by recognizing the trend to social responsibility instead of opposing it."

Talks Like Union President

Cramer, a husky, dark-haired man of 45, wryly admits he talks "more like a union president than the average banker." But he says the big trouble with many businessmen is they wait for a union to put pressure on them to do things for their employees they should do themselves.

"This is a free country, and smart employers ought to compete with each other to see who can do the most for the comfort and welfare of their employees."

"And don't get me wrong I'm an active Republican and a complete believer in the personal enterprise system."

Cramer has had a typical Horatio Alger career himself. One of nine children of an Arkansas farmer, he labored as a cotton picker, harvest hand, lumberjack, bauxite miner and served a hitch in the U. S. Marines before coming here. He worked up from bank messenger to his present post as head of the Washington Heights Federal Savings and Loan Association. He is also vice-president of the New York State Savings and Loan League.

Should Be Human Being

"It isn't my belief that a man should make as much money as he can at other people's expense," he said. "He can actually make more by being a human being and getting as much as he can for the people around him."

"That is my philosophy and it has paid off for me."

He himself has been "a sort of missionary" in preaching business idealism to industrial organizations.

Picnic Weather

Reporter Allen Brown of the Council Bluffs Nonpareil and E. F. Stapowich (right) weather forecaster at Omaha, Neb., eat a picnic lunch in the snowy outdoors. Stapowich, predicting clear and warmer weather for April 12, suggested to Brown, "Why not have a picnic?" Brown passed the suggestion on to his readers. Although the appointed day brought an inch of snow and temperatures in the 30s, the two gentlemen had the picnic anyway. (AP Wirephoto)

ness idealism to industrial organizations.

"No one should question the right of government to step in and provide housing, food, transportation and social benefit if industry fails to," he said. "We should have no quarrel about that."

Should Provide Minimum Benefit

"But government Social Security should provide only minimum benefits—enough to keep a man from becoming a public charge."

"Business itself should do the main job, if it is to get out of the political doghouse it's in now. By that I mean management should be ever alert to the welfare of the people. It should foot the real bill for social welfare."

"It should set up pension plans and pay for them, lock, stock and barrel, instead of fighting them. It should guarantee an annual wage—that's long overdue in many industries. It should take its employees more into partnership and make every worker a member of management."

Should Have Faith

"Leaders of large corporations see too many bogey-men under the bed. They think their employees will take advantage of them. But I think the number that will isn't worth worrying about. I have faith in the fairness and good will of the average man."

In his own bank Cramer has set up a management-paid package plan of social benefits—providing hospitalization, medical care, pensions, insurance, social get-togethers, bonuses, suggestion conferences, and $450 a week lunch money.

"It isn't all we want to do," he said, "but we're still working on it."

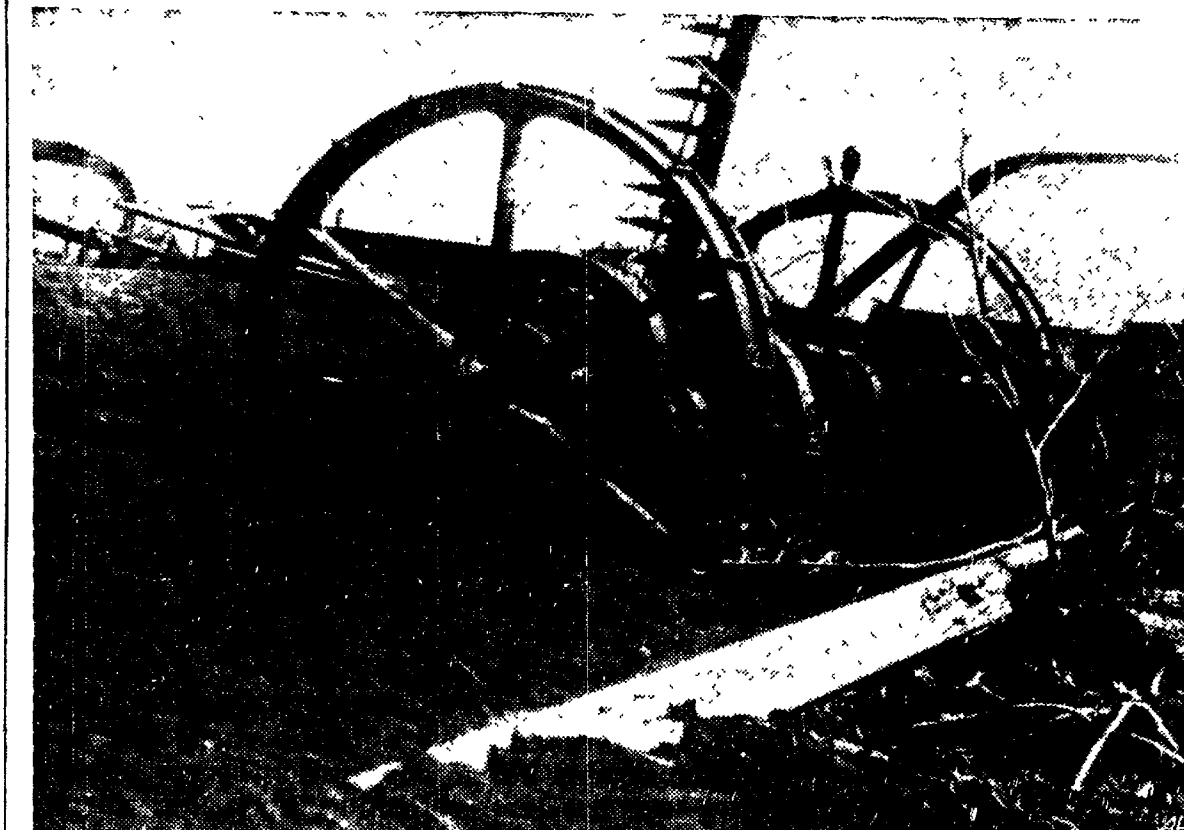

What do other industrial leaders think of his ideas?

"Well, they're unpopular in some corners," Cramer grinned. "But of hundreds of employers I've talked to only half a dozen have told me to my face I'm all wet. And the trend now is for business to take over more and more of its social responsibilities."

Run To Grass Fire

The fire companies were called out to 1603 East Seventh street at 4:05 o'clock Thursday afternoon to a grass fire near that residence. There was no damage.

Hub Deep in Dust

Dig out and cleanup jobs such as this faced many a Kansas farmer after the big dust storm which lashed the state early this week. The heavy winds drifted soil almost up to the hub of this piece of machinery on the Minnie Britt farm south of Abilene, in the heart of Kansas. Dust storms have been so severe this spring that some farmers call this year the start of the "filthy fifties." (Associated Press photo)

CHURCH OF CHRIST, Fourteenth street and Stewart avenue. A song service beginning at 10:30 a. m. Bible lesson at 11 o'clock

"The words of a tale-bearer are as wounds," says the Book of Proverbs. The evil-tongued were included by St. Paul in the categories of persons who will never possess the kingdom of God. The tongue is probably the most prolific breeder of evil. It is certainly the slickest and therefore the most dangerous.

Not long ago a New York housewife jumped to her death from the roof of the apartment house where she lived. Her death was listed as suicide while temporarily insane. Actually she was murdered. Her murderers were neighborhood gossips who had goaded her to desperation by spreading stories—all baseless—reflecting upon her character and honor.

Cases of persons whose minds have become unbalanced because of malicious gossip are by no means rare. Some people cannot help brooding over stories that eventually reach their own ears. What most baffles and discourages them is the seeming impossibility of tracing gossip to its source and thus perhaps making an end to it.

Gossip can be harmless enough when it is held within safe bounds. But there is a potentially diabolical potency to the gossip of those who take vicious pleasure in relaying scandals, real or imaginary, concerning others. Making the lives of neighbors or strangers a perpetual subject of barbed and acid comment is in the nature of infernal malice.

Evil tongues make enemies of neighbors, disrupt homes and families, blight careers, ruin reputations. One might be inclined to smile tolerantly over the picture of two women sweetening their tea with scandal. Or the insinuating winks of male gossips when some woman's name crops up in conversation. But there is nothing amusing in the reflection that for every idle word there must be a reckoning with God.

There is a French proverb which says: "A wise man reflects before he speaks; a fool speaks and then reflects on what he has uttered." The Christian faith teaches that slander is a grave sin against justice. No one may speak of others except in a spirit of love and charity. The faults and sins of our neighbors are for God alone to weigh and pass judgment upon. To make the misery and follies of any man or woman conversational tidbits is to brand one's own soul with sins perhaps far more grave.

Hours With the Hebrew Prophets: Amos
By William E. Gilroy, D. D.

During some weeks to come many Sunday schools will be studying lessons drawn from the so-called "Minor Prophets" of the Old Testament. The comment offered in these columns is not based upon any other comment or outlines, but is based upon the prophecies themselves, and is designed to present the times and conditions under which these prophecies were delivered, in such a way as to make their message intelligible and applicable to the life of today.

At the outset one should settle the matter of "Major" and "Minor" prophets. The 12 Minor prophecies are brief in comparison with the extensive prophecies of Isaiah, Jeremiah and Ezekiel, but they are not minor in the sense of any moral or spiritual inferiority.

On the contrary many passages in these so-called "Minor Prophets" represent the very highest point of Old Testament teaching concerning God and man. In Micah, for instance, is that concentrated and famous definition of true religion: "What doth the Lord require of thee, but to do justly, and to love mercy, and to walk humbly with thy God?"

The position of the "Minor Prophets" in our Bible, coming after the great prophecies, might suggest, also, that they were minor in the sense of actually being later in time. But this is not the case. Hosea and Amos were among the very earliest of the prophets whose prophecies are recorded, and others were either contemporary with, or in between, the greater prophets.

Most studies of the prophets begin with Amos, though Hosea prophesied in the same Northern Kingdom, and was probably only a few years later than Amos.

In the study of the prophets one must understand the significance of those words, Northern Kingdom and Southern Kingdom. They refer to the tragic disruption that occurred when Rehoboam, Solomon's son, inheriting a great, consolidated kingdom, and refused to lighten the burdens which Solomon's great building enterprises had put upon the people. It was at this time, also, that Jeroboam, who had led a previous unsuccessful rebellion and escaped to Egypt, now returned and led a successful revolt.

In this revolt, 10 tribes renounced Rehoboam and the Southern Kingdom of Judah, to establish the Northern Kingdom of Israel. Henceforth, until the tragic fall of both kingdoms, there were two kingdoms of Judah and Kings of Israel, and prophets of Judah and prophets of Israel.

That is the first great fact of the times that one must grasp—division and strife preparing the way for disaster; but there were other disastrous conditions, as we shall see.

"DOCTRINE OF ATONEMENT" is the subject of the Lesson-Sermon in all Churches of Christ, Scientist, on Sunday, April 16, 1950.

Golden Text: 1 John 2:1.

Among the citations which comprise the Lesson-Sermon is the following from the Bible: "I am the good shepherd, and know my sheep, and am known of mine. As the Father knoweth me, even so know I the Father; and I lay down my life for the sheep. And other sheep I have, which are not of this fold: them also I must bring, and they shall hear my voice; and there shall be one fold, and one shepherd." John 10:14-16. The Lesson-Sermon also includes the following passage from the Christian Science Text book, "Science and Health with Key to the Scriptures," by Mary Baker Eddy: "Jesus of Nazareth taught and demonstrated man's oneness with the Father, and for this we owe him endless homage. His mission was not individual and collective. He did life's work aright not only in justice to himself, but in mercy to mortals—to show them how to do theirs, but not to do it for them nor to relieve them of a single responsibility." (p. 18)

Preview Of A Great Picture

Special Showing of 'Prince of Peace' at The Fox Theatre

A special pre-view showing of the picture "Prince of Peace" was presented at 2:00 o'clock Thursday afternoon at the Fox Theater. The showing was attended by many of the city's clergymen, Scout leaders, P. T. A. heads, civic club officials educators and other special guests.
The setting of the story behind this picture was in Lawton, Okla. The Lawton story of "The Prince of Peace" is the screen's first and finest passion play. The story is based with the people of Lawton, and dedicated to the Rev. A. Mark Wallock, who originated the Easter Pageants, near Lawton at the Wichita mountain years ago.
The leads in "the story of the life of Jesus" were carried by Millard Coody as Jesus, Darlene Bridges as the Virgin Mary and featured six-year old Ginger Prince.
A cast of over 3,000 persons participated in the filming of the story of Hallmark Productions, Inc.
Preceding the showing of the film George Foreman Hallmark representative gave an interesting discussion of the picture and of the related events surrounding it. It has received wide acclaim by the following: Jimmy Fidler: "A picture every man, woman and child must see"; Louella Parsons: "The Prince of Peace is unmatched in cinema fare"; Eleanor and Anna Roosevelt: "The only film ever mentioned on our radio program"; Bishop Tomlinson: "A new motion picture of great interest to all decent people."
The regular showing of this picture will start on May 7, and will continue through to the 10th.

Boat-Carrying Planes Join in Search

(NEA Telephoto)
One of 17 rescue planes is spurred for take-off at a Copenhagen, Denmark, airport, as the first clear weather in five days, spurred hope that some trace of the American Navy plane believed shot down by Russians might be found. The salvage boat under the fuselage is to be dropped by parachute if any of the 10 persons aboard the plane is sighted.

Asking For New State Law

JEFFERSON CITY, April 14—(P)—Missouri League of Municipalities agreed here on Thursday to press for a state law authorizing public slum clearance projects in cities of 2,500 or more.
The league adopted a resolution urging that Gov. Forrest Smith include a proposed bill in his call for a special legislative session if one is called this year.
Otherwise, the resolution said, the bill will be introduced early in the regular session of the legislature scheduled next January. The bill would let cities operate slum clearance authorities and accept federal financial aid.
Kansas City and St. Louis already have such power.
The proposed law would let cities buy or condemn property to clear blighted areas and establish parks or recreation centers.

Home Made Bomb Explodes at Harvard
CAMBRIDGE, Mass., April 14—(P)—A home-made bomb exploded on a window sill of Harvard University's Thayer Hall early on Thursday.
The blast injured one student, endangered others and threw 150 freshmen into an uproar. It shattered more than a score of panes of glass and blew out a window frame.
Robert Dobbie, 21, of Allentown, Pa., suffered facial lacerations when the window of his first floor room crashed in.
The bomb apparently was made of dynamite. Yard police chief Alvin Randall said he believed it was the work of pranksters.

Valued at $5,000 And Covers a Four Year Term

Gene Dowdy, 19-year-old senior at Smith-Cotton high school and varsity member of the school's football team, who lives with his grandparents Mr. and Mrs. J. E. Dowdy, 1613 East Seventh street, has been chosen to receive a special scholarship from the University of Georgia.

Gene Dowdy

The scholarship is a special athletic type which is given to only ten boys a year. It is a full scholarship, is valued at about $5,000 and covers a four year term. Gene was selected for this honor by William Kripps, scout for the university who lives in Kansas City.

With the scholarship is a trip to the school from which Gene has just returned. The purpose is to see if the boys like the school, campus and the planned program.

Flow to Atlanta

He left for the trip Wednesday. He first went to Kansas City where he was met by Mr. Kripps Thursday he was flown to Atlanta and was met there by the freshman football coach. The coach drove him to Athens, a town of 25,000, 70 miles from Atlanta, where the university is located. Here he was taken over the campus and was shown through the industrial ails buildings and the sports facilities. The next day he met some of the football stars of Georgia U. among them was the famous Charlie Trippie. Then later he and the other nine boys were taken out to the sports field where they had a stiff workout in college style.

The remainder of the time was spent in reviewing the school's program and getting acquainted with the school ways.

Then Saturday morning he was flown back to Kansas City and later came back to Sedalia.

To Take Physical Education

Gene has stated that he will take physical education as his major when he enters school at the fall term.

Gene, who plays quarterback position, has been with the Tigers three years and has lettered on the varsity squad for three years. He is six feet tall and weighs 170.

Before he came to Sedalia and Smith-Cotton Gene played with the Oregon City, Ore., high school team where he has lettered one year.

Coach Ralph Dow of the Tigers and Gene's former coach, said he was very happy for Gene and was certain he was most deserving of the honor and that he would make good.

Missouri Teams Beat Westminster

FULTON, Mo., April 14—(P)—The University of Missouri teams defeated Westminster college 13 to 8 in golf and 6 to 1 in tennis yesterday.

It Was a Chilly Day At a Baseball Game

KANSAS CITY, April 14—(P)—It was so chilly at the Cleveland Indians-New York Giants exhibition baseball game here yesterday, some of the fans even started small fires in the stands to warm themselves.

They used such things as paper boxes, scorecards and popcorn as fuel.

Despite temperatures in the 40s, 8,649 persons showed up in Blues Stadium to watch the Indians beat the Giants, 4-2. Spectators bundled up in overcoats, blankets, mufflers and furs.

Names Escape Him at the Moment, But Major Hoople Picks the Phillies

By Major Amos B. Hoople Old Pal of Doubleday's Egad! Here we come, millions of gentle readers, bursting out of our cocoon again with a big surprise for the baseball season. Some of you may indeed be shocked — hak-kaff — to note that I am announcing the Philadelphia club will win the old gon-falon in the National league.

Boiling my reasons down for such a selection, let me merely say, hitting and pitching and youth. Unassailable, eh?

American—Cleveland Boston New York Detroit Philadelphia Chicago Washington St. Louis National—Philadelphia Pittsburgh Brooklyn St. Louis New York Boston Cincinnati Chicago

Alas! I fear the Yankees have shot their bolt. (Ed Note: He said that last spring, too!) They are creaking at the joints.

Boston's Red Sox, mechanically perfect, lack the spark, the spirit, the fire.

In the other league, Philadelphia has simply everything. Look at the lineup of that sterling team! Such names as — drat it! — their names escape me at the moment — but what's in a name?

A home run called a circuit clout sounds just as sweet!

Watch Cleveland and Luscious Easter. This big fellow is a real fence-buster, as McGraw used to say. The few long base hits the Indians lacked last year will be stroked by Big Luke.

And did you know Lou Boudreau, "Peewee Lou," as I have called him, is lining the boys now for hitting into double plays, failing to advance runners, failure to lay down good bunts and other little lapses?

It's going to be loads of fun, they tell me, and how can such a system fail to win a pennant?

Two Teams Were Snowed Out Thursday

Chicago Game is Postponed Today, Chilly Weather

By Fred Hayden Associated Press Sports Writer

Major league teams, back from the sunny south, hoped today they wouldn't have to play with snowballs instead of baseballs.

Two games had to be called off yesterday because of snow and for the same reason, the Brooklyn Dodgers had to skip a scheduled workout at Ebbets field. Snowed out were the New York Yankees at Pittsburgh and the Philadelphia Phillies at Cincinnati.

Some teams played despite chilly weather. The Chicago Cubs' office announced today's game with the White Sox at Wrigley Field wouldn't be played because of cold weather.

Replay of '49 Series

Elements permitting, New York fans got a chance today to see a "replay" of the 1949 World Series, with the Yankees and Dodgers clashing at Brooklyn in the first of a three-game series. The other two games, tomorrow and Sunday, are scheduled for Yankee Stadium.

Ed Lopat was slated to take the mound for the Yankees, with Joe Page around for his customary finishing up chores. For the National League champs, Don Newcombe was to open if his back and arm felt okay. Otherwise Clarence

A Great Outfield

They Shot 69's to Hold Stroke Lead Over 5 Other Pros

By Sterling Slappey ATLANTA, April 14—(P)—Two of America's finest professionals—John Palmer and Lloyd Mangrum—haven't won a golf tournament this year but they're off in the lead of the $10,000 North Fulton Open.

The brace of veterans shot 69's in the first round yesterday and hold one stroke leads over five other golfers.

Strong, chilling winds ripped across the 6,762-yard, par 71 North Fulton Park course, and the golfers who hit the highest drives suffered the most.

Well seasoned Mangrum, Palmer and the other stars who play from California to Florida on the winter tournament circuit keep their wood shots out of the wind and low along the ground.

Two other publicized professionals, an amateur and two comparative unknowns had to settle for one-under par 70's.

The 70 shooters were Henry Ransom of St. Andrews, Ill.; Clayton Heafner of Charlotte, N.C.; amateur Frank Stranahan of Toledo, Ohio; Avery Beck of Raleigh, N.C.; and Harold Williams of Tuscaloosa, Ala.

Last week Jimmy Demaret won the Masters with 283 strokes. At North Fulton he took a par and said he was "delighted to have it." P.G.A. champion Sam Snead of White Sulphur Springs, W. Va. and five others came in with even par golf.

After the second round of the 72-hole tournament the field will be cut to the lowest 60 scorers plus enough amateurs to guarantee 10 non-professionals.

Big League Training Camp Briefs

NEW YORK, April 14—(P)—Yankee Manager Casey Stengel believes he has so many good men that he'll have to play them on a share-the-work plan.

Stengel expects to use the two-plateau system at third base, left field, right field and first base. He claims there isn't a regular player now at any of those spots.

Rival for Eddie Stanky

INDIANAPOLIS, April 14—(P)—Eddie Stanky, the New York Giants second baseman who gets on base one way or another has a rival in outfielder Don Mueller. Mueller got on base three times in yesterday's 4-2 loss to Cleveland, once on a walk and twice on hits. He leads the Giants in most hits, 42.

Stanky batted three times, walked twice and singled. He has drawn 31 walks in 25 games.

Lemon to Pitch 1st Game

INDIANAPOLIS, April 14—(P)—It was official today. Bob Lemon and not Bob Feller will be on the mound when the Cleveland Indians open this year.

There was little doubt about Lemon getting the honor, but Boudreau held off his announcement until just before game time yesterday.

Feller has been almost a fixture at the job, hurling three inaugurals before the war and four since he returned from wartime service in the Navy.

Lemon tuned up for the opener yesterday when he went the route for the first time this season and held the New York Giants to five hits. Cleveland won the contest, played in 40-degree cold in Kansas City, 4-2.

Week-End Games in St. Louis

ST LOUIS, April 14—(P)—The St. Louis Cardinals and the Browns planned to work out today on their home field.

The two teams will play a two-game city series Saturday and Sunday afternoons.

The Cards aren't too proud of their Grapefruit League record this year. They have 13 victories against 17 defeats. They dropped 11 of their last 14 games and 15 of their last 20 to major league opponents.

The Browns, who played their last spring road exhibition game at Pine Bluff, Ark., yesterday, have 16 victories, 15 defeats and two ties.

Too Cold at Night

MEMPHIS, Tenn., April 14—(P)—Red Rolfe wants nothing more to do with night games in spring training.

It has been too cold. After experiences here the Detroit Tiger manager is trying to move up Saturday night's scheduled game at Louisville of the American Association to the afternoon.

other night game in spring training," said Red.

Opener for Cards Tuesday

PITTSBURGH, April 14—(P)—Bob Chenes or Cliff Chambers will start on the mound for the Pittsburgh Pirates when they open their National League season at St. Louis Tuesday night.

Pirate Manager Billy Meyer said today that Chenes definitely will be on the mound in an exhibition against the Washington Senators at the capital tomorrow. He inferred that if Chenes continues to show the form he's displayed recently he will get the nod over Chambers for the opening day assignment.

City Series Underway

PHILADELPHIA, April 14—(P)—Connie Mack warms up for his 50th year as manager of the Philadelphia Athletics today as he sends his A's against the Phils in the first of a three-game city series. The 87-year-old Mack will send little southpaw Bobby Shantz against the Phils.

Opener for Cards Tuesday Night

ST LOUIS, April 14—(P)—Games of the St. Louis Cardinals this year will be broadcast over 75 radio stations in ten states—described by club president Fred Saigh as the nation's largest baseball network.

Harry Caray and Gabby Street will continue to handle the broadcasts. This year, for the first time, they will travel with the Cardinals throughout the season. Each game will be broadcast from the park in which it is played.

Part of the games here will be televised, as they were last year, Saigh said.

The Cardinals take on the Browns tomorrow and Sunday in the annual city-series. Then the Redbirds open the season against Pittsburgh Tuesday night at Sportsman's park.

The night opener for the Cardinals will be the first of its kind in the major leagues.

Coach Resigns On Doctor's Orders

SEATTLE, April 14—(P)—Art McLainey resigned his basketball and baseball coaching berths at the University of Washington yesterday. He said he did so on doctor's orders.

Jack Kramer Racked Up 76th Tennis Victory

BINGHAMTON, N.Y., April 14—(P)—Jack Kramer has won his 76th match in 100 professional tennis exhibitions against Pancho Gonzales.

The score last night was 6-1, 6-1 for Kramer.

In the preliminary, Frank Parker defeated Bobby Riggs 6-4, 6-2. They play in Yonkers tonight.

Dispute Over Civil Defense

Committees in Claim on Control Against Bombs

WASHINGTON, April 14—(AP)—Two committees of Congress rowed Thursday over task of mobilizing the nation's civil defenses against an atomic world war III.

Both agreed the job is immense and urgent. Both claimed the right to control it.

The jurisdictional dispute broke out between the joint Senate-House Atomic committee and a Senate armed services subcommittee.

It came to light in a hitherto "confidential report" by chairman Kefauver (D-Tenn.) and Senator Cain (R-Wash.) of the subcommittee—a report sketching a grim outline of steps needed to prepare for possible mass disasters in the event of attack by A-bombs, hydrogen super bombs, or germ warfare.

Some Of Problems

Among the myriad problems confronting defense planners, the report noted such possibilities as banning "many new establishments in the Washington (D. C.) area," scattering vital industries away from prime target areas, and assembling vast reserve supplies of fire-fighting and medical equipment.

Chairman McMahon (D-Conn.) of the joint Atomic committee contended his group should handle the defense studies because of that committee's "intimate knowledge of atomic and hydrogen weapons."

Moreover, he said, the joint committee started tackling the complex problem first.

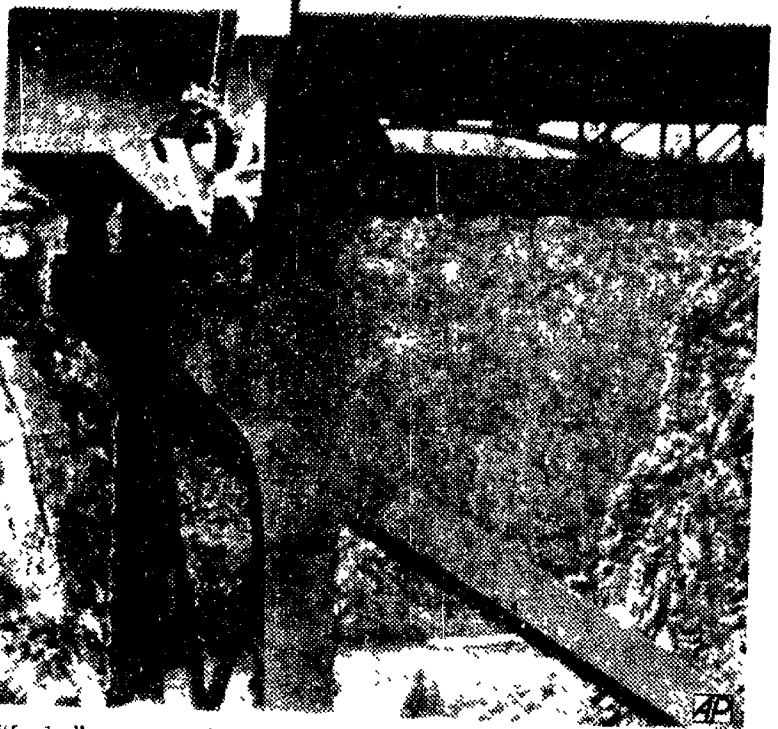

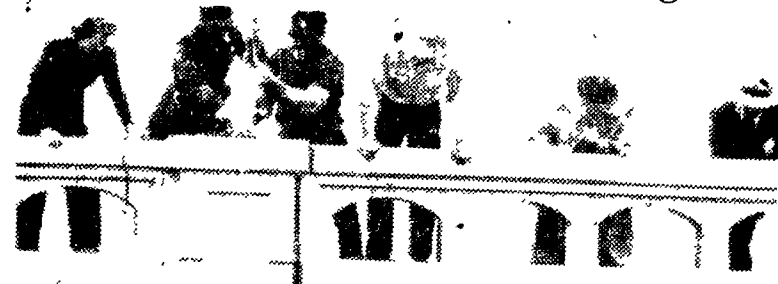

But Kefauver and Cain insisted the Senate subcommittee should have jurisdiction because it is clearly "a matter pertaining to the common defense generally" and "goes far beyond any considerations revolving solely around the atomic bomb."

In any event, the Kefauver-Cain report said, the dispute "should be resolved quickly because we are duplicating efforts x x x (and) seriously cutting into the time of the top planners in this field."

Late today Chairman Tydings (D-Md.) of the full Senate armed services committee took the fight to the Senate floor. Moving for a showdown, Tydings introduced a resolution authorizing his group to conduct a civil defense study and report back to the Senate.

But Chairman McMahon of the joint atomic committee blocked the resolution by filing a motion to reconsider. The effect is to hold up the resolution until the Senate can decide later what to do with it.

Dog Lives After Leap Into Gorge

"Lady," a year-old English pointer, is lifted to safety from Crooked River gorge south of Bend, Ore., the first known canine survivor of a frolicking leap that has meant death for at least 10 others. Mr. and Mrs. R. E. Cline and their daughter, driving north from Redding, Calif., let "Lady" romp along with them when they stopped for a view of the gorge. Luckier than other dogs that have leaped playfully over the parapet to find a 300-foot deep chasm below, "Lady" landed on a ledge 80 feet down. Cline obtained a rope and lowered himself to the ledge to hold the dog until help arrived. Then he climbed up the jutting rocks. (AP Wirephoto)

Highest ranking for Sacred Heart in the novice class was Patricia White with 47.1 words per minute. Louis Barsch was the highest ranking amateur typist with 835 points.

The highest ranking national student in the novice class attained a speed of 60.2 words per minute. High ranking student in the amateur class had 984 points. On April 27 the NCHSTA will sponsor an individual typing contest.

Drop Off Relief Long Enough To Take Trip To Europe

NEW YORK, April 14—(AP)—Two old-maid sisters, on city relief for the past 10 years, dropped off the rolls last fall long enough for a trip to Europe on a luxury liner, it was revealed Thursday. They returned six months later on the same ship, got back on relief and packed away their luggage in a $60 a month Broadway hotel room paid for by the city.

They now are drawing about $235 a month for food and rent. The travelers were identified by the city welfare department as Emily Vaucher, 71, and her sister, Attilee Vaucher, 64. They were not available for comment.

Welfare Commissioner Raymond M. Hilliard said his office is looking into the incident.

The welfare department gave this account of the women's travels:

Last September they decided to go to Europe for their health. They thought they might find a job there, too.

So they sold their furniture and walked out of their $25 a month city-provided tenement flat. They said they got $150 for the furniture, $140 from a relative abroad and earned $100 more by making and selling handkerchiefs.

They paid their way to Paris on the liner America. There one of the sisters picked up a few francs selling handkerchiefs in front of the U. S. embassy.

Later they wound up in Switzerland where they finally ran out of ready cash. They asked that New York City forward them some relief money. This request was denied.

The sisters then went to the state department and borrowed $385 for the trip home on the America. They landed March 30 at city expense.

They still were broke so the Travelers Aid Society gave them a hand. Welfare authorities tried to steer them to a municipal lodging house but they spurned this as "emotionally disturbing."

Finally, they turned up at a welfare center, got back on relief and were bedded down in a hotel at city expense.

Grand Jury Inquiry Is Under Way

Crime Problem is Nation-wide, Says President as He Orders Investigation

WASHINGTON, April 13—(AP)—President Truman said today the crime problem is nation-wide and not restricted to Kansas City.

He said it extends also to places like St. Louis and even to Washington.

Mr. Truman said that he himself had ordered a grand jury investigation of the crime situation in Kansas City and proposed one in St. Louis.

The jury probe in Kansas City has been under way for some time.

He said other grand juries were operating elsewhere as part of an inquiry that is nation-wide in scope.

The senate also is considering an investigation of crime and gambling but a controversy has arisen over how it will be handled.

The crime discussion came up at the President's news conference as a result of questions built around the murder of Charles Binaggio, Kansas City political figure, and a lieutenant last Thursday.

F. B. I. Not in Case

A reporter noted that the two murdered men had been witnesses before the grand jury in Kansas City that was probing racketeers. He said Attorney General McGrath apparently has not found legal authority for bringing the FBI into the case, although Governor Smith had asked all possible assistance.

Mr. Truman had asked whether he considers this a federal matter and whether he will ask McGrath to send the FBI into the Kansas City inquiry.

That, Mr. Truman said, is a matter for the attorney general to determine. It was then that he said the grand jury in Kansas City was called by the attorney general at the President's suggestion.

Scope Nation-Wide

Then, to an inquiry as to the scope of the investigation, Mr. Truman said the scope was to get to the bottom of nation-wide racketeers if possible. He said they are not confined to Kansas City, but operate in St. Louis and, if he's not mistaken, even in Washington.

Asked whether he means the racket inquiry to be national in scope, the President replied "That's right."

Nationwide racket would be a target of the proposed senate crime inquiry.

The dispute over the probe flared up when Democrats proposed setting up a five man special committee to handle it. Republican senate leaders decided to fight the move.

Return To Aid Grand Jury Probe

KANSAS CITY, April 13—(AP)—Two special assistants to the attorney general returned today for the resumption Monday of a federal grand jury investigating crime conditions here.

The two, Max M. Goldsheim and Vincent P. Russo, have been in the east during the recess of the jury. They declined to comment on the murders of Charles Binaggio, north side political boss, and his henchman, Charles Gargotta, Goldsheim simply said:

"The grand jury will resume its work Monday as scheduled." Police talked with Mrs. Binaggio but she was unable to shed any light on the case. They also planned to talk to Mrs. Gargotta.

Also on the list to be questioned was Miss Blanche Howard, friend of Gargotta, who was cited for civil contempt by the federal grand jury. She has been questioned about the slayings before.

Police in questioning Mrs. Binaggio learned Binaggio had called Gargotta to reaffirm an appointment at the Last Chance tavern before leaving his home the night of the slayings. That was the place Binaggio and Gargotta left to go to the First District Democratic club on Truman road where the bodies were found eight hours later.

An application was filed in probate court today seeking authorization to turn $4,000 from the safety deposit box of Mrs. Irene Sarno, partner in a fur concession with Mrs. Binaggio, over to Mrs. Howard. The application was filed by Louis DuRe Sarno, husband of the woman and a gambler.

The application set out that the money belongs to Miss Howard and had been given to Mrs. Sarno, who died recently, to hold. Arguments on the application will be heard Monday.

Snow, Or Rain, For Fifteen Thursdays

LOGAN, W. Va., April 14—(AP)—It has snowed or rained here every Thursday since the first of the year, weather observer Wilson Ruff reported today. That's 15 straight Thursdays.

It snowed today. The previous six Thursdays it snowed too.

Called Halt To Shooting

TOKYO, April 13—(AP)—Police headquarters called a halt today to indiscriminate shooting by newly-armed city police. It instructed the exuberant cops to use their .45s only in self defense or against burglars, rapists and arsonists.

Until recently, General MacArthur forbade Japanese police to carry any weapon except a club.

Appreciation Of America Should be Felt

Minister Tells Kiwanians in Talk At Noon Meeting

The need of Americans to develop a deeper appreciation of their country was stressed in a talk by Dr. Ben Morris Ridpath, First Methodist church, Joplin, before fellow Kiwanians at the Sedalia club's meeting in Bothwell hotel Thursday noon.

The speaker was introduced by the Rev. H. U. Campbell. H. B. Bamberg was program chairman.

Dr. Ridpath told of his travels in this country and in England, of impressions stimulated in statutory hall in the U.S. capitol building where bronze statues of famous Americans stand to remind the present generation of the diversified leadership this country has had since its founding. He reminded his listeners of the broad liberties they retain, the standard of living excellent that of any other country. All of these are ours today because of idealistic forefathers who fled from tyrannous government to establish here a free country.

Told of England
Dr. Ridpath also told of his observations in England, of the Socialist conscious minds of the people there who favor government ownership of basic industries; a philosophy of nothing for everyone rather than a profit for some; all of which is creating a decaying effect on the economic life of that nation.

President Herbert Schrankler announced there would be a meeting of the board of directors at his home Friday evening.

Club guests were: Kiwanian Adolph Glenn, San Diego; George Miller with H. B. Bamberg; S. J. J. J. Blytheville, Ark., with Ray J. J. J. A. Schuter, G. V. Glenn and W. R. Suggs, with Guy Bailey; Rev. W. A. Cole, Lees Summit; Rev. Herman Taylor, Garden City; Rev. G. E. Lasswell, Grandview; Rev. Shrum Burton, Kansas City; Rev. W. J. Cox, Iowa; Rev. J. C. Paschol, Wellington; Rev. Basil N. Mote, Pineville; Rev. E. L. Hobbs, Kansas City; and Rev. Wesley Hampton, Warsaw.

Show Progress In Repairing The Sidewalks

Now that the weather is much more favorable than it was two months ago, when the city-wide sidewalk survey was first introduced by the mayor and council of the city of Sedalia, some progress has been shown in repairing some of the city sidewalks which have become weather beaten and deteriorated over a period of years.

Twenty-five per cent of the property owners in Sedalia, whose sidewalks are defective, have been notified by a sidewalk inspector, whose job is to notify the property owners to repair their sidewalks if need be. He lists the property owner's name, address and the repairs required and then turns them in to the city engineer.

The principal reason for the survey is to have the property owners to fix their sidewalks running adjacent to their property if the walks need repairing and to cut down on law suits, which in the past period of years have been filed against the city of Sedalia as a result of some person falling.

Property Owners Cooperating
James I. Collins, city engineer, reports splendid cooperation has been received from the property owners contacted thus far.

Following are a few of the many reports on hand concerning the condition of some of the sidewalks in Sedalia:

"One broken section: curb and walk broken; walk cracked and some notes: brick walk, tree roots pushed up sidewalk; sunken in places; cracks out; walk cracked and broken down; should be replaced; one section of sidewalk settled at the west property line."

Confer Over Situation Of K. C. Police

Smith And Kemp Feel Force Doing All That It Can

JEFFERSON CITY, Mo., April 13—(AP)—Gov. Forrest Smith and Mayor William E. Kemp of Kansas City tackled the Kansas City police situation today and came up smiling.

After a conference of more than two hours the governor said they were agreed the police force is doing all it can to solve two gang killings that hit the headlines last week. The victims were Charles Binaggio, Smith supporter, and north side Democratic leader, and his ex-convict aide, Charles Gargotta—"the enforcer."

Police problems are in the Democratic governor's lap because he appoints the four-member board of police commissioners. Mayor Kemp serves automatically as the fifth member.

Kemp came to the capitol today to give the governor "a very frank picture of all I know about the situation that might contribute to his question of (police) morale."

He said he told the governor about "certain charges and rumors that in my opinion have undoubtedly adversely affected the morale of at least some members of the police department."

And after the conference the governor said:

(1) He would do all he can to restore public confidence in the police force—if it is lost. And (2) "If I can find any of the police have been in collusion with underworld characters I'm going to have them removed, or ask the police board to do it."

Not State Next Step

The governor would not say what his next step will be in investigating Kansas City law enforcement.

The mayor and the governor told a joint news conference this afternoon they did not discuss the possibility of calling a grand jury.

Kemp said the discussion was almost entirely about the police department rather than last week's spot murders. And the governor added:

"Of course no police department can stop gang killings. They occur in all cities and rarely are ever solved."

Earlier the governor called on any citizens having information about police conditions to come forward with it. He promised he would protect their identities. He said he wanted any facts bearing on "any breakdown in any law enforcing agency up there."

He also pledged that if a grand jury is summoned, he would ask the judge to call members of the city council to appear. They adopted a resolution Monday demanding that the governor investigate.

Kemp also urged "a fine toothed investigation." He came here at the governor's invitation after sending Smith a letter to that effect.

Welcome Investigation

ST. LOUIS, April 13—(AP)—The St. Louis police board wired President Truman today that it would welcome government investigation of crime here.

The telegram was in reply to the President's assertion today that he had suggested a grand jury be called to look into vice conditions in St. Louis.

President Truman made the statement to reporters who questioned him about the Binaggio-Gargotta murders in Kansas City.

The board's telegram to Mr. Truman read:

"The St. Louis board of police commissioners welcomes an investigation into any crime activities that may exist in St. Louis, and pledges its complete support and cooperation to any government agency which may be engaged in such investigation."

"Our sole desire is to make and keep St. Louis one of the finest and most secure cities in the United States for its citizens. Therefore, we heartily endorse any action working toward that goal. We are sure that this will meet with the approval and appreciation of our community."

The message was signed by all four members of the board. Copies were sent to Attorney General J. Edgar Hoover, Gov. Forrest Smith and Robert E. Blake, president of the St. Louis crime commission.

Body Of Man Found By Tracks Identified

MARSHALL, Mo., April 13—(AP)—The body of a man found near Stanhope, Mo., last April 1 was identified today as that of John Albert Slusher, Kansas City, Kas. Sheriff L. M. Jacobs said the identity had been established through fingerprints on file with the federal bureau of investigation.

The sheriff said the FBI report showed Slusher was born Oct. 28, 1923, and had a police record. The body, badly mutilated, was found along the Missouri Pacific right of way.

Business Booms Declares P. J. Neff

ST. LOUIS, April 13—(AP)—Business is booming in the states served by the Missouri Pacific railroad, P. J. Neff, chief executive officer, said today.

"Tremendous strides have been made in the industrial development of our territory in the years since the end of world war II through capital investment of over $400,000,000 in 1,000 new and expanded industries," Neff said.

"Indications are that this expansion will continue."

Neff spoke to more than 350 of the company's officers and traffic representatives attending a biennial sales conference.

He was less optimistic about the future of railroads. One of his chief concerns, he said, was the growing competition from "government subsidized" transportation—trucks, airways and waterways.

Neff said continued high costs of everything also was putting a dent in the railroads' financial structure.

Affairs Better Says Truman

Embarks On His Sixth Year In The Presidency

WASHINGTON, April 13—(AP)—President Truman, who has just embarked on his sixth year in the nation's highest office, said today the United States is prospering and the world situation improved.

He made his oral report to a news conference after looking back over five years in the presidency—years that have spanned the closing months of a world conflict and the subsequent period of cold war.

A question "are the first five years the hardest?" got Mr. Truman off on a discussion of economics and peace.

He said the first five years were rather difficult, but that the country is still on its feet. Despite some unemployment, he stated, more people are employed than ever before, and we have a prosperous setup if the Wall Street reports can be believed.

He said farmers are better off, except for the top point of 1948. He said he can't see anything serious the matter with the country as a whole and it was in better shape than in any postwar period in history.

Mr. Truman went on to say that some parts of the press could not possibly credit him or present prosperous conditions because they contend the situation would be the same even if a moron were president. But he said he thinks he can take credit for the job and he proposes to do that.

When May Craig, reporter for several Maine newspapers, asked "what about the surpluses?" Mr. Truman shot back the biggest surplus was brought about by Maine's representatives in Congress—it was potatoes.

The solution of that problem, he continued, lies in the Brannan plan. He told the reporter if she worked for that solution instead of calling attention to the surpluses the matter could be solved.

Mr. Truman described the world situation as better than in 1946. He said that year was about the worst he could remember, because it was before the Greek-Turkish aid and Marshall plan policies took effect. He said there had been a gradual improvement since then.

Dispute Over Civil Defense

Committees in Claim on Control Against Bombs

WASHINGTON, April 13—(AP)—Two committees of Congress rowed today over the task of mobilizing the nation's civil defenses against an atomic world war III.

Both agreed the job is immense and urgent. Both claimed the right to control it.

The jurisdictional dispute broke out between the joint Senate-House Atomic committee and a Senate armed services subcommittee.

It came to light in a hitherto "confidential report" by chairman Kefauver (D-Tenn) and Senator Cain (R-Wash) of the subcommittee—a report sketching a grim outline of steps needed to prepare for possible mass disasters in the event of attack by A-bombs, hydrogen super bombs, or germ warfare.

Some Of Problems
Among the myriad problems confronting defense planners, the report noted such possibilities as banning "many new establishments in the Washington (D. C.) area," scattering vital industries away from prime target areas, and assembling vast reserve supplies of fire-fighting and medical equipment.

Chairman McMahon (D-Conn) of the joint Atomic committee contended his group should handle the defense studies because of that committee's "intimate knowledge of atomic and hydrogen weapons."

Moreover, he said, the joint committee started tackling the complex problem first.

But Kefauver and Cain insisted the Senate subcommittee should have jurisdiction because it is clearly "a matter pertaining to the common defense generally" and "goes far beyond any considerations revolving solely around the atomic bomb."

In any event, the Kefauver-Cain report said, the dispute "should be resolved quickly because we are duplicating efforts x x x (and) seriously cutting into the time of the top planners in this field."

Late today, chairman Tydings (D-Md) of the full Senate armed services committee took the fight to the Senate floor. Moving for a showdown, Tydings introduced a resolution authorizing his group to conduct a civil defense study and report back to the Senate.

But chairman McMahon of the joint Atomic committee blocked the resolution by filing a motion to reconsider. The effect is to hold up the resolution until the Senate can decide later what to do with it.

Truman Blasts Sen. McCarthy To Reporters

Questions if it Is Possible To Libel Him

WASHINGTON, April 13—(AP)—In a new blast at Senator McCarthy, President Truman today questioned whether it is possible to libel the Wisconsin Republican.

Mr. Truman's remarks came at a news conference when he was asked about a recent statement by Senator Taft (R-Ohio).

Taft had said the President libeled McCarthy by cracking at Key West, Fla., recently that McCarthy was the Kremlin's biggest asset in the United States.

"Do you think that's possible?" Mr. Truman fired back at his questioner.

And he said it was all right to use direct quotations.

Doesn't Read It All

Mr. Truman went on to say he hadn't read all that Taft had said; that he doesn't read all the political columns of all the people running for re-election.

Taft made his statement about Mr. Truman, McCarthy and libel in a column he distributes to Ohio newspapers.

Taft is up for re-election this year, Mr. Truman noted. He added that he thinks the Ohio senator is interested in something else a couple of years from now.

The Ohio senator is frequently mentioned as a possible presidential candidate in 1952.

Mr. Truman's original blast at McCarthy was in defending the State Department from the senator's charges that it harbors communists and their sympathizers.

A Senate Foreign Relations subcommittee is investigating the charges and next week is to hear testimony from Louis Budenz, former communist leader who renounced his affiliation with the party.

There are reports that another witness, also described as a former communist, may be called.

Spring is Given A Real Beating

By The Associated Press

Spring took an awful beating Thursday, all the way from the frigid east to the frosty plains states.

Those April showers that are supposed to bring May flowers came down in the form of snow in the east and parts of the midwest.

But just to show you everything wasn't topsy-turvy, it was spring-time in the Rockies. Denver, Colo., had a 65 temperature reading.

In a special bulletin from Washington, D. C., the head weatherman predicted Thursday night temperatures falling below the freezing point as far south as the Carolinas and Tennessee.

City after city in the midwest reported that Thursday was the coldest April 13 in weather bureau history. Cleveland had a 20, Chicago, 21, Youngstown, Ohio 16, Indianapolis, 20.

Kansas had a hard freeze early Thursday morning, and up on the Canadian border the people of Grand Forks, N. D., shivered and had to face it. The thermometer read two below zero—no matter what the calendar read.

Show fluffed down in a dainty spring quarter of an inch over central and southern Indiana, but stacked up to a rude, unseasonal five inches in Thomas, West Virginia. Four inches blanketed some other parts of the West Virginia mountains, western Maryland and the Cleveland area also got in on the snow act.

Armed Assault Case to the Jury

CAMDENTON, Mo., April 13—(AP)—The case of Ray Armes, charged with assault with intent to kill, went to a jury of 10 men and two women late today.

The 26-year-old Armes was accused of shooting C. B. Hardin Jr., former mayor of Stoutland, Mo., when the latter resisted the attempt of an intruder to enter the Hardin home last August.

The mayor's wife identified Armes as the man who came to the door of the home and inquired about a hotel. When the man sought to enter, Hardin came to the aid of his wife. He was shot in the mouth, the bullet lodging in his neck.

Among the defense witnesses today were Brady Apple, Culp, Ill., police magistrate, who presented records to show that Armes had been arrested and fined in his court for fighting James Spence, Culp night club operator, testified that Armes had had a fight in his place but could not remember the date.

The Weather

Fair Friday, warmer west and central; Saturday increasing high cloudiness, windy and warmer; highs Friday 40s northeast to 50s southwest.

Temperature Drops To 22

The temperature took a sharp downward skid Wednesday night and by early Thursday morning it reached 22 degrees above zero. From that reading of the thermometer it became gradually warmer through the day reaching 44 degrees by 3 p. m.

Of any recent years for the same date, April 13, the coldest was in 1946 when it was 28 degrees. The similar date in 1947 showed 40 degrees, 39 in 1948 and 46 degrees in 1949.

The freeze nipped tender vegetation just coming up in early gardens and probably caused damage to fruit prospects on trees that had bloomed out.

Decide Texas Damage Suits For Plaintiffs

Court Held Blast Was Due to Negligence

HOUSTON, Tex., April 13—(AP)—Federal District Judge T. M. Kennerly entered an order today deciding the $200,000,000 Texas City disaster damage suits in favor of the plaintiffs, it was announced today by the federal district clerk's office.

Trial of the suits, growing out of the disaster which devastated Texas City just three years ago this week end, started before Judge Kennerly in Houston last April 25.

Much technical testimony marked the litigation, in which the claims of all the plaintiffs for deaths, injuries and physical damages were combined.

The plaintiffs maintained that the blast was due to the negligence of the U. S. government in enforcement of safety regulations at the Texas city docks, where ammonium nitrate was being loaded.

Blamed Steamship Companies
The government blamed the steamship companies involved, longshore unions and stevedoring firms for the negligence in the disaster.

The judge ruled specifically in the suits of Elizabeth H. Dalehite for $50,000, and of Henry Dalehite, Jr., for $15,000.

"I conclude that the plaintiffs are entitled to judgment," Judge Kennerly said in his opinion.

He noted that the government employees handling the ammonium nitrate had been negligent, and that there had not been proper inspection and tests of the fertilizer although the employees were aware of the hazards.

While Judge Kennerly singled out the Dalehites suits in his opinion, the ruling was extended to cover all the combination of suits filed as a result of the disaster.

In all there were 8,485 plaintiffs in the combination suit, including 510 who sued on death claims, 588 on personal injury and 5,987 for property damage.

Believe Death Supplies Answer

HARDIN, Mo., April 13—(AP)—Death apparently has supplied the answer to the whereabouts of John J. Shackelford who left here 30 years ago saying he wouldn't be back.

No one had heard from him for many years. Among them was his closest relative, a sister, Miss Mattie A. Shackelford, now 90.

Today word reached here that a John J. Shackelford, 87, had died in Denver leaving a small fortune. The only clue to his background was a card issued to him by the Hardin Masonic lodge in 1914.

Although Shackelford apparently lived in poverty, public administrators found that his safety deposit box contained $28,100 in government bonds and $400 in cash.

His sister, now an invalid, lives in a nursing home at Excelsior Springs. Mrs. Phillip Sharp, operator of the home, said Miss Shackelford frequently talked about her missing brother, and prayed for him.

BPWC Speaker Tells of China People, Customs

"What Will China Be in the Picture" was the subject of an informative talk on his own country by Robert Chang Li Fu, Chinese editor, author and leader, who was the guest speaker at the Business and Professional Women's dinner meeting Thursday night at Bothwell hotel.

The business meeting was presided over by Mrs. A. R. Rush, president, at which time the following delegates were elected to attend the state convention which will be held in St. Louis. A Clever Report

Mrs. Ivan Berry, convention chairman, presented the literature on the convention in a clever manner. When she was called on for a report she asked everyone to stand and look under their chairs. There they found the literature and some found special gifts.

Miss Margaret Ferguson, an unsigned check for $25,000, a toy automobile for transportation to Mrs. William Bone; one thousand "bucks" of play money to Mrs. Pearl Stuart; out of this world, a globe pencil sharpener, Miss Pearl Rose, and a taxi whistle for Mrs. John Welch.

Mrs. Goddard Presented Speaker

Mrs. Goddard then introduced the speaker, who is at present attending the Central Missouri State college at Warrensburg.

He began his talk with a quotation from Confucius: "Truth never departs from human nature. If what is regarded as truth departs from human nature, truth can never be regarded as truth." Mr. Chang went on to say that even though today's world events are changing so fast and so confusingly, yet they can never evade the truth. He recalled past history to prove his point, telling of Chieu Chei Fong, Napoleon, Hitler, Mussolini and Hirohito and the things that befell them in their attempts to conquer the world.

China Focal Point

He pointed out that Russia is preparing to do the same thing and that China is the most focal point of the world today. China, Mr. Chang said, is known as one of the old, peaceful, conservative countries on the earth, and added that unfortunately she is included under the iron curtain.

of the skin must show and most of the body was covered with elaborate clothings, but now the western trend had taken over in clothing. Family ties, he said, are close, foods are different not in the things they use, but in the cooking. Courtship and marriage have also changed to much the same as the American except it was not done publicly. Mr. Chang then told of the political set-up, giving the old and new causes of the declination of the Nationalist party.

Could Not Take Dictatorship

Concluding, Mr. Chang summed up the general picture of China and said that people the type of the Chinese, their culture, their traditions, their methods of living, their ideals and family life could not live under dictatorship. He said they will not have the patience of staying and living inside the iron curtain without seeing or hearing the true world. He stated that he thought that either Tse-tung will change his mind, becoming an Asiatic Tito at once and just make a "non-surrender to each other" negotiation with the Nationalist government cooperating with the democratic nations, especially the United States, to help China build up modern democratic nation and live peacefully with the rest of the world or there would be a bloody revolution for freedom and democracy.

The program was in charge of the Education and Vocations committee.

Mrs. Belle Bobbitt, Of LaMonte, Looking Foreward to Affair

On Sunday, April 16, Mrs. Sarah Isabelle (Belle) Bobbitt, who resides with her daughter, Cora Bragunier, about nine miles northwest of LaMonte, will observe her one hundredth birthday anniversary.

Mrs. Bobbitt was born in Highland county, Virginia, on April 16, 1850, the daughter of William McCoy and Nancy Ruckman Wade. She was one of 13 children and the only one now living.

Mrs. Belle Bobbitt

It was in 1859 that she came with her parents from Virginia to Missouri and settled in Cooper county. The trip was long and hard partly by oxen drawn covered wagon and partly by boat. In March, 1865 the family moved to Pettis county and settled on a farm about ten miles northwest of LaMonte.

Married in 1869

April 18, 1869, Sarah Isabelle Wade was married to Thomas Milton Bobbitt, a native of Pulaski county, Ky., and a Union veteran of the Civil War. Mr. Bobbitt was a successful farmer and stock raiser, making a specialty of pure bred Poland China hogs.

To Mr. and Mrs. Bobbitt were born four children, Dexter H., who married Carlte Bright and lives in Sweet Springs, and Cora Bragunier, of the home, and two who are deceased, John Elmer, who drowned in 1911 and Fay A., who died in 1938. Mr. Bobbitt also died in 1911, on April 24.

Mrs. Bobbitt still lives in the home her husband purchased in 1868, three years after he was mustered out of the service at the close of the Civil War.

Oldest Church Member

The oldest living member of the Mt. Zion Christian church of Dunksburg, she attended services regularly as long as she was able and her contributions to the various needs and activities of her church have been many and generous.

Although Mrs. Bobbitt is in very good health for one of her years, she is almost blind and does not hear well. These two things shut her off from the world that she always enjoyed. She can no longer read and she always loved to read, nor can she hear well the radio programs, but she is looking forward to a wonderful birthday anniversary next Sunday, for there are few people who live an entire century, a century that has brought about such great changes in all things.

Fifth Street Methodist Church Has Plans For New Building

Miniature church made by E. W. Kettleson from the proposed plans for the Fifth Street Methodist church, which has purchased six lots on the north side of West Broadway in the 1300 block.

The Rev. Preston Phillips, in church and educational plant on 1870, organized a Methodist Church with 19 members in a store building on Main street. At Third street and Massachusetts avenue the new First Methodist Episcopal church, South, building was erected and dedicated August 1871. Through the foresight and kindness of J. M. Cain two lots at Fifth street and Osage avenue were purchased and held for the Church two years, when he was repaid by the church trustees. A new brick building was erected at this location and dedicated the spring of 1891. This building was condemned and razed in 1898 and then the present building, the Fifth Street Methodist church, Fifth Street and Osage avenue was erected, but was not dedicated until February 16, 1907. The present basement was excavated and concreted in 1924. The parsonage at 315 West Fourth street was erected in 1908.

Started Building Fund

The official board in 1942, looking forward to a much needed expansion program started a building fund, which now amounts to $22,747.94. The quarterly conference in 1948 duly appointed a findings or building committee to study the needs of the church and to report back to the congregation. The committee H. E. Lindstrom, Ben Robinson, J. J. Chipman, A. B. Wade and Kenneth Anderson, after several meetings deemed it wise to purchase property on West Broadway in case a decision was made to relocate and build. They purchased six lots between Cair and Sneed avenues on the north side of West Broadway. (The property 270 x 172 feet).

For over a year the committee has been looking at new churches, consulting architects and working on plans for what they considered the future of Fifth Street Methodist church and Sedalia Methodism. The committee feels that it would not be wise to build an educational plant at the present sight and then later on remodel the old auditorium. Sedalia then would still have two down town churches and one on East Broadway, with no building in West Sedalia to take care of the growing population. The committee feels that the wisest thing would be to build a new

For cultivation and education, E. W. Kettleson made a miniature church from the proposed plans. The miniature church can be taken apart and a study made of each floor with class rooms, seating arrangement etc. Before definite action can be taken the church membership, after hearing the report of the building committee and their recommendation, will be given an opportunity to accept the report of the committee and to give them authority to proceed with new plans, provided of course, after the requirements of the Discipline of the Methodist Church have been met for relocating and building a new church.

Fifth Street Methodist Church now has 383 members, with an annual budget of $12,000, a Methodist Men's club of 86 members; a Women's Society of Christian Service with 96 members; a Beitha A. Cox W.S.C.S. circle of 36 members, a Church School enrollment of 421 with an average attendance of over 210, a Boy Scout Troop 64 for 24 members, and a Methodist Youth organization. The Rev. H. U. Campbell, was appointed pastor in 1939, the year of Methodist Unification. During the 80 years of existence the church has had 32 pastors, ranging in service from three months to eleven years.

Mrs. Sedalia Missouri Webb Is Guest of Daughter Here

Mrs. Sedalia Missouri Webb, wife of Thomas J. Webb, is here for a visit with her daughter, Mrs. W. G. Van Eaton, and Dr. Van Eaton, 1809 East Ninth street. Just how Mrs. Webb received the name of Sedalia Missouri she isn't quite sure, but according to stories told her, her father once had a girl friend here and named her for the town because of that. Her parents, of English and Irish ancestry, had never lived in Sedalia or even Missouri. Their home was in Texas. Most of Mrs. Webb's life was spent in Texas, too, although she did live in Pennsylvania, Oklahoma and at Lees Summit, Mo. While in Missouri she passed through Sedalia a time or so.

The strange part of the story is that her daughter married and finally came to Sedalia to live and now Mrs. Webb is here awaiting the arrival of a grandchild to be born in the town for which she was named.

Born in Canada

Dr. Van Eaton is a Canadian, born in Canada and finishing high school in the state of Washington.

'Cheaper by the Dozen' Say Members of Large Families

Eight Sedalia families will probably agree it's "cheaper by the dozen," at least one time in their life, because that number of large families will be guests of Joe Ruddick, theatre manager, during the showing of "Cheaper By The Dozen" this week at the Fox Theatre.

The families were picked through the grade school P. T. A. units in Sedalia. It just so happens that the largest family named consists of 12 children, the same number as in the movie, "Cheaper By The Dozen," which stars Clifton Webb, Jeanne Crain and Myrna Loy.

The largest family is that of Mr. and Mrs. Joe Lewis, 1612 South Montgomery avenue. Their dozen children range from two years on up to 26 years of age.

When notified of the invitation, Mrs. Lewis said she would take as many children as possible to the movies. She said, "Of course we can't take two of them, because they live away from Sedalia. The father of this large family, is presently engaged in odd jobs. The Lewis family have lived in and around Sedalia for the past 17 years, and originally come from Florence. Mrs. Lewis has two large lots plowed up for garden space. She said she does a lot of canning during the summer months. They own their own home.

The Joseph M. Holloway family, 901 South Moniteau avenue, consisting of nine children; the Claude Siron family, 1400 South Warren avenue, consisting of eight children; the Vigil Gatewood family, 705 North Prospect, consisting of seven children and the Charles Glover family, 215 South Quincy avenue, consisting of seven children.

See You at the Club

You missed a mighty nice time at the club Saturday morning if you weren't there. The annual Easter egg hunt was put on with great enthusiasm, especially from the younger set. There were quite a few of the fathers out this time and they enjoyed it too. Dixie cups and cookies were served to about 60 children.

We managed to get some colored movies of the little ones in action and we'll show them some Sunday night soon.

Marilynn Smith the youngest woman golf pro in the business, Allen Tause club champion and John Van Dyne, club president are playing an exhibition match today at 1:30 o'clock and take it from one who knows; the boys have been practicing early and late. Seem to be a little worried about being beaten by a woman. They may get a good deal of razzing from the gallery if they are unable to cope with Marilyn's unusual golfing skill. I hear that the golf course is better than ever this year. Greens are in good shape and many of our golfers are getting off to an early start.

This is the beginning of a new year at the club and we have lots to look forward to. The Spring formal is April 15th. You can bring one local couple. The opening card party is also a chance to bring guests. We'd like some more nice folks to join our club so be thinking about who you will have as your guests for these affairs. The regular Ladies Day card parties will be held on Thursday as usual. Get your reservations in.

For you folks who like to eat out—the club will serve steak or chicken any night but Monday on short notice. Shrimp dinners on Friday and Sunday night family dinners as usual.

Now, I've saved the very best for the very last. WE ARE GOING TO HAVE A SWIMMING POOL AT THE CLUB. The board met and passed on it Friday noon so things are all set. They are going to start on it right away so it will be finished in time for the hot weather. It will add a lot to the activities and will give the wives and children something to do while the men are playing golf. Come on out—get "on the ball" and "in the swim!"

Special Showing Of "Prince Of Peace" At The Fox Theatre

A special pre-view showing of the picture "Prince of Peace" was presented at 2:00 o'clock Thursday afternoon at the Fox Theater. The showing was attended by many of the city clergymen, Scout leaders, P. T. A. heads, civic club officials educators and other special guests.

The setting of the story behind this picture was in Lawton, Okla. The Lawton story of "The Prince of Peace" is the screen's first and finest passion play. The story is based with the people of Lawton, and dedicated to the Rev. A. Mark Wallock, who originated the Easter Pageants, near Lawton at the Wichita mountain years ago.

The leads in "the story of the life of Jesus" were carried by Millard Coody as Jesus, Darlene Bridges as the Virgin Mary and featured six-year old Ginger Prince.

A cast of over 3,000 persons participated in the filming of the story of Hallmark Productions Inc.

Preceding the showing of the film George Foreman Hallmark representative gave an interesting discussion of the picture and of the related events surrounding it. It has received wide acclaim by the following: Jimmy Fidler:

"A picture every man, woman and child must see." Louella Parsons: "The Prince of Peace is unmatched in cinema fare." Eleanor and Anna Roosevelt: "The only film ever mentioned on our radio program." Bishop Tomlinson: "A new motion picture of great interest to all decent people."

The regular showing of this picture will start on May 7, and will continue through to the 10th.

A lot of them came through. So did people with other names.

A final offer of $500 from a chain grocery store put the drive over the top.

NEW YORK, April 13.—(AP)—Two old-maid sisters, on city relief for the past 10 years, dropped off the rolls last fall long enough or a trip to Europe on a luxury liner, it was revealed today.

They returned six months later on the same ship, got back on relief and packed away their luggage in a $60 a month Broadway hotel room paid for by the city.

They now are drawing about $235 a month for food and rent. The travelers were identified by the city welfare department as Emily Vaucher, 71, and her sister, Attilee Vaucher, 64. They were not available for comment.

Welfare Commissioner Raymond M. Hilliard said his office is looking into the incident.

The welfare department gave this account of the women's travels:

Last September they decided to go to Europe for their health. They thought they might find a job there, too.

So they sold their furniture and walked out of their $25 a month city-provided tenement flat. They said they got $150 for the furniture, $140 from a relative abroad and earned $100 more by making and selling handkerchiefs.

They paid their way to Paris on the liner America. There one of the sisters picked up a few francs selling handkerchiefs in front of the U. S. embassy.

Later they wound up in Switzerland where they finally ran out of ready cash. They asked that New York City forward them some relief money. This request was denied.

The sisters then went to the state department and borrowed $385 for the trip home on the America. They landed March 30.

They still were broke so the Travelers Aid Society gave them a hand. Welfare authorities tried to steer them to a municipal lodging house but they spurned this as "emotionally disturbing."

Finally, they turned up at a welfare center, got back on relief and were bedded down in a hotel at city expense.

One Count on Millett Unproved

Millett, of Waterloo, Iowa, is charged with negligence and neglect to duty as a result of the grounding of the Mighty Mo in Chesapeake Bay Jan. 17. His court martial trial ended yesterday.

A naval spokesman explained tonight the court's silence on the other two specifications means it "has found the other two specifications proven or proven in part, and the accused is found guilty as charged or guilty in a lesser degree than charged."

The "lesser degree" could mean Millett was found guilty of conduct prejudicial to good order and discipline.

After making their bare announcement and one specification was found "not proved," the seven members of the court adjourned until tomorrow when they will deliberate on punishment to be imposed.

The drive was started by Hugo Eberhardt, a real estate man, who appealed to the 163 Rileys listed in the telephone directory for help.

A lot of them came through. So did people with other names.

State Offices Were Closed Thursday

JEFFERSON CITY, April 13.—(AP)—State offices remained closed today because of "Thomas Jefferson's birthday." The third U. S. President's date of birth is generally a holiday in Missouri government.

Gov. Forrest Smith—in the midst of an investigation of the Kansas City police department—was one of the few state workers on the job today. A few offices kept skeleton forces on duty.

He had been employed by the railroad for nearly 44 years, starting out as a messenger boy, and had served it in several Missouri, Oklahoma and Texas cities before he came here in 1945, he was superintendent of Katy's northwestern district with headquarters at Wichita Falls, Tex.

He killed himself at the end of the rampage. Investigators could find no motive for the butchery.

Detective Azel Bryant said the good looking 18-year-old high school boy used a hammer and a 16-inch butcher knife on his father, mother, and a ten-year-old sister.

Then he set several fires in the two-story home near the downtown district and ducked out the back door, killing the family dog on the way with a swipe of the knife.

Police found him in the garage behind the house two hours later. They ordered him out. There were moans and two pistol shots Billy died in a hospital of self-inflicted head wounds.

A passerby saw the William A. Blanks home was afire and turned in an alarm. Police and firemen battered their way into the house a little before 3 a. m.

They found the girl, Valinda Brent, beaten and stabbed to death on the charred bed in her room. In another bedroom were the parents, Mrs. Blanks, who was 40, had been stabbed in the back 15 times and her head crushed. The father, a 46-year-old clerk for the Chesapeake and Ohio railroad, was dead on the floor. It looked as if he had been trying to get away.

Everything was neat in Billy's room. His bathrobe hung on a bedpost, his slippers were on the floor alongside. The covers had been turned down but the bed hadn't been slept in.

Supply-Demand Govern Price

WASHINGTON, April 13.—(AP)—Supply and demand will be allowed to determine the price of chickens and turkeys this year without government intervention.

The agriculture department announced today it no longer will maintain a floor under prices of these farm products. Dry peas and American-Egyptian type cotton were removed from the farm price support list earlier this year.

Withdrawals of supports for poultry was decided upon because of their perishable nature and the department's inability to dispose of stocks acquired under support operations.

Eggs and dairy products are the only livestock products being supported. A commitment to support hogs expired March 31.

Support is required by law only for upland cotton, wheat, corn, rice, peanuts, tobacco, potatoes, milk and butterfat, honey, wool and tung nuts. During the war and through last year, the law required supports for a much broader list, including chickens and turkeys.

He had been arrested twice for stealing cars. Last October, after a mental examination at the federal reformatory at Ashland, Ky., he was put on parole.

Bryant described him as "a sadist—a reader of crime and detective stories."

Lundee C. Vost, the probation officer to whom Billy has reported weekly since October, said: "Unusual potentialities. He guided in the right direction he could have gone as far as he wished. Everything possible had been done for him. Good family. Nothing in his background to indicate he was a criminal. He told me he had moods—sometimes happy, other times depressed. Sensitive and unusually bright. As a youngster he received much attention from his mother and father. Some of the attention was transferred to the sister when she was born."

The judge pointed out that a grand jury would cost about $20,000.

"I see no reason for a call to just go through the motions with a grand-stand play," the judge said. "If the grand jury is called it should be done with sincere hopes of success."

He asked Police Chief Henry W. Johnson if he had any evidence worthy of a grand jury's attention.

"On the Binaggio-Gargotta killings we have nothing," Johnson replied.

Sheriff J. A. Purdom said "we certainly haven't developed anything in the case that would warrant a grand jury."
